SENATE BATTLE WAGED ON U. S. AID TO JOBLESS

LA FOLLETTE OPENS $375,000,000 FIGHT

Democrats Split Into Three Groups as Republicans Oppose Measure.

(Associated Press.)

The delicate question of spending Government money to feed and clothe the jobless yesterday embroiled the Senate in a rousing verbal battle that disrupted party lines and evoked numerous counterproposals.

Chairman La Follette, of the manufacturers committee, fired the opening shot with a motion to take up the bill he and Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, are sponsoring to appropriate $375,000,000 for this purpose.

The Democrats were split three ways on the proposal. One group, led by Senator Black, of Alabama and Senator Walsh, of Montana attempted to substitute a road construction plan involving the same outlay of money. The regular party leadership considered an effort to send the bill back to committee. Some Democrats announced they would support the La Follette-Costigan measure.

Republicans Against Bill.

On the other side of the aisle the regular Republican faction was lined up against the measure. President Hoover has opposed Federal unemployment relief in no uncertain terms. The Western Republican Independent group, of which Senator La Follette is a leader, favored the bill.

Earlier in the day, a House labor subcommittee heard Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, say the unemployed now total 8,300,000. He assailed congressional leaders who oppose Federal relief appropriations, asserting they were "fiddling while people starve."

He estimates 24,000,000 people are "living in abject poverty and 12,000,000 of them are dependent on charity."

Senator La Follette opened debate on his bill with a long address in which he argued existing relief facilities are wholly inadequate to meet the situation. He denied the bill would establish the dole, contending it did not "meet any of the specifications" of that system.

Millions on Part Time.

Pointing to what he called "conservative" estimates that total unemployment ranges from 7,300,000 to 8,300,000, Senator La Follette said an equal number of workers were on part time.

He asserted the "terrific impact" of hard times is felt "primarily by wage earners on the front line" and said the effect on them is "more deadly than on those in the front line in war."

Senator La Follette cited numerous instances where the Government had gone to the relief of earthquake, flood, fire and famine sufferers in foreign lands, as well as the United States, and added:

"I can't see the fine hairline distinction which opponents of Federal relief draw with regard to those precedents. They say these persons were victims of an act of God, but there is no difference between those suffering from the physical trem-

Beer War Blamed For Murder of 3

Coll Gang Linked as Two Men and Woman Are Slain in Bronx.

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A woman and two men, known to police as Vincent Coll gangsters, were slain when underworld assassins brushed past children, who answered their knock, and sprayed a Bronx apartment with bullets from automatic pistols tonight. Three others seated at a supper table, one of them also a woman, were wounded by the invaders.

The dead were identified by police as Patsy Del Grieca, Emil Tanzella and Feorie Basile. Lena Vinciguerri, Louis Basile and Joseph Pervone were wounded. The wounded woman was in a critical condition.

Police theorized the slayings were the outgrowth of a beer war. There was speculation that Coll, himself one of the most notorious of New York hoodlums, was present when the assassins entered, but just how many were at the supper in the Vinciguerri apartment was a matter of conjecture.

Five Committees Dodge Borah's Pay Cut Bills

The three pay-cut measures of Senator William E. Borah turned out to be the orphans of Senate legislation yesterday. After five committee chairmen had turned them down, action on sending them to committee was deferred until today on Senator Borah's request.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, chairman of the appropriations committee, which had them in hand, yesterday brought back the bill to reduce Government salaries over $5,000. The committee is busy with appropriations and "can't take up all these legislative matters," he said.

Somebody mentioned the finance committee, but Chairman Smoot promptly declared "The finance committee has all it can possibly do without taking up this question." Other committees suggested were those on expenditures in executive departments, the civil service committee, and the committee on military and naval affairs.

TROOPS FIGHT 2,000 IN ECUADOR REVOLT

Governor of Carchi Pleads for Aid as Battalion Holds Off Rebels.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Feb. 1 (U.P.). A revolution movement which the government said extended to all parts of Ecuador, broke out today in the Province of Carchi, where the battalion at Manabi was reported battling heroically against 2,000 rebels.

The minister of war received an urgent message from the governor of the province asking for reinforcements.

Provisional President Basquerize Moreno was granted extraordinary powers to suppress the movement. Many persons were arrested in Guayaquil and elsewhere.

The revolutionary movement, one of several outbreaks the government at Quito has faced in recent months, was first reported from Tulcan, Carahi Province, on the Colombia-Ecuador frontier. Telegraphic communications were interrupted but the Manabi battalion was known to be engaged in serious fighting.

The revolutionaries were said to be Liberals determined to prevent the inauguration of President-elect Neftalia Bonifaz next August. They charged Bonifaz with having deserted them for the Conservative party.

The government met in extraordinary session at the capital, Quito, after receiving requests for aid from the provinces. The president, in asking for drastic powers to end the uprising, said he was informed that the revolt had ramifications in the south and central regions and in Guayaquil. The Pichincha, Imabura and Carchi areas were reported involved, but a government plane flying over the area this afternoon reported that all appeared tranquil.

Ultimatum Delivered To Chinese in North

Pieping, Feb. 1 (A.P.). — Japanese military leaders were reported today to have delivered ultimatum to Chinese authorities in Tientsin, Chefoo and Tsingtao demanding cessation of anti-Japanese agitation.

It was believed that the Chinese had agreed to suppress the boycott against Japanese goods and to suppress anti-Japanese organizations, and that the situation in north China would not become acute.

NAVY BUILDING BILL STRONGLY URGED BY HALE

WANTS FLEET TAKEN UP TO TREATY LIMIT

Asserts Such Action Would Operate to Bring About Arms Reduction.

(Associated Press.)

A flat statement that Japan and the United States are almost equal in naval combat strength and an urgent plea that the American fleet be built up to treaty limits were made in the Senate yesterday by Chairman Hale, of the naval committee.

Without referring specifically to the crisis in the Orient, the Maine Republican nevertheless asserted nothing in world conditions indicated that necessity for guarding against war had ended. He said the influence of pacifists had become a "real menace to the national defense."

He urged the passage of his naval construction bill, intended to bring the Navy up to treaty maximums as notice to other nations that "building on their part means inevitable building on our part." The measure is now in the committee and he hopes to obtain action on it soon.

House Group Favors Delay.

A similar bill was approved last week by the House naval committee, but the group voted not to ask for passage until next December, at the earliest, because of the present depleted condition of the Treasury. Representative Vinson, the Democratic chairman of the committee, is the author of the measure.

Hale said the construction of a treaty Navy would "do more to bring about further reduction in naval armament than any other possible action that this Congress can take."

Failure to enact the measure at this time, he told the Senate, would place the American delegates to the Geneva conference "in a pitiful position." The conference convenes today.

"Nothing in present world conditions indicates that war is no longer a possibility to be guarded against and that therefore our national needs for protection are not as imperative

Senate Votes More Land Bank Capital

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday approved the $125,000,000 appropriation for increasing the capitalization of the Federal Land Banks. The House previously passed the appropriation and it now becomes available to the agricultural banking system upon signature of President Hoover.

Thus this week a total of $625,00,000 goes out of the Treasur, for the emergency national relief program—$500,000,000 going into the Reconstruction Corporation.

The Senate approved the $125,000,000 without formality and with unusual speed, voting immediately upon receipt of the appropriating resolution from the House.

TEARING DOWN OF U.S. FLAG PROTESTED AS TOKYO REFUSES TO CHANGE POLICY; ITALY JOINS U. S., FRANCE AND BRITAIN

Evacuation of Americans in Danger Zone May Begin Soon.

U. S. TO PARTICIPATE IN LEAGUE'S INQUIRY

Taylor and 1,500 Marines and Troops Are Due to Arrive Tomorrow.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States resorted to every diplomatic effort yesterday to keep the ominous situation in Shanghai from exploding until the arrival tomorrow of Rear Admiral Montgomery Meigs Taylor and the fifteen hundred American soldiers and marines now en route from Manila.

Secretary Stimson, after apprising President Hoover, forwarded new and more positive instructions for additional representations to the Japanese government. Discretional warnings were forwarded to all American consular officers in the zone of action to evacuate American citizens of their own judgment whenever the situation required.

The United States on its own account and in conjunction with the other allied powers protested the activity of the Japanese military in and around Shanghai. Disorder reigning there now threatens to spread to Nanking, Hankow, Swatow, Amoy and Chefoo.

Inquiry Participation.

The Secretary of State also approved participation of an American on the league's neutral commission at Shanghai, but with the express reservation that the commission not derive its functions from the covenant of the league. The United States is not a member of the league and consequently does not recognize this document. It is believed that the American representative on the commission, provided it is formed outside the covenant, will be the American Consul General, Edwin S. Cunningham.

British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay called at the State Department and on behalf of the British government requested the United States to cooperate to the further extent of calling the attention of the Tokyo government to the "unreasonable" activities of the Japanese in the vicinity of Shanghai.

The French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, gave Secretary Stimson assurances of French cooperation in Shanghai similar to the British, but lesser in degree. The ambassador was exceedingly perturbed over reports of French collusion with the Japanese in the International Settlement. He gave them the Gallic characterization of "phantasy, pure imagination."

He was the second visitor from the League's Far East Board Starts There Tomorrow

Paris, Feb. 1 ((A.P.).—The international commission to investigate the Manchurian dispute between China and Japan under the auspices of the League of Nations, decided today to leave Havre Wednesday for New York on its way to the Far East. It will embark on the liner Paris and upon its arrival at New York will proceed westward to cross the Pacific to the Orient.

The commission, headed by the Earl of Lytton, representing Great Britain, includes Gen. Frank R. McCoy, United States; Count Aldovrandi, Italy; Gen. Claudel, France, and Heinrich Schnee, Germany.

Six Held at Bay In $100,000 Holdup

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Diamonds, emeralds and rubies valued by their owners at $100,000 were stolen today by two roughly dressed men who ransacked a Sixth avenue jewelry store as they held six employes at bay with revolvers.

A few hours later a well dressed thief fled from another jewelry store on the same street with three diamond rings he had been inspecting, ostensibly with the idea of making a purchase. The loss was set at $2,000.

Two more robbers, who prodded their victims with revolvers held under handkerchiefs, forced the manager and head usher of a Bronx theater into the boiler room of a nearby apartment building late in the day and relieved them of $2,240, the theater's weekend receipts. All three robberies occurred in busy sections of the city.

Ting Chao and Forces Warned to Quit Harbin

Mukden (Tuesday), Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Gen. Shigeru Honjo, commander of all the Japanese forces in Manchuria, today informed Ting Chao, leader of a strong Chinese military faction at Harbin, that he had better withdraw. Japanese troops, Gen. Honjo said, were determined to occupy Harbin in order to safeguard foreigners.

The Japanese were pounding away on the right wing of Ting Chao's forces south of Harbin, the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency reported.

The battle has been going on since yesterday. Artillery fire could be heard at Harbin and it was expected that the Japanese would enter Harbin tomorrow.

ARMS CONFERENCE UNDER WAY TODAY

Events in China Overshadow Others, With Effort for Bargaining Seen.

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 1 (A.P.). Clouds—two dark clouds—the Sino-Japanese conflict and reparations—were brooding ominously on Geneva's horizon tonight as delegations from 60-odd nations made final preparations for tomorrow's opening of the disarmament conference.

For the moment, Shanghai events overshadow even this most formidable of all parliaments ever assembled to relieve humanity at least partly of armament burdens.

On the other hand, there are indications that just as soon as the financial side of the armaments question is touched, a deliberate effort will be made by some delegations to raise the question of war debts and reparations and use them as bargaining points.

From conversation with individual delegates it is already clear that two diametrically opposed deductions will be made from the existence of the Sino-Japanese conflict. The first is that this conflict brings added proof of the necessity of world disarmament. The other is to the effect that the Sino-Japanese conflict showed a necessity of additional security for each nation, security being identified with greater armaments.

All indications tonight pointed to probability that an attempt would be made to inject reparations and war debt questions into the conference on the ground that the finance com-

Army Funds Bill Deferred by House

(Associated Press.)

Due partly to unsettled conditions in China, House leaders agreed yesterday to delay consideration of the War Department appropriation bill.

This decision was reached at a conference in Speaker Garner's office attended by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leaders, Chairman Byrns, of the appropriations committee, and Representative McSwain (Democrat), South Carolina, acting chairman of the military committee.

The bill was scheduled to reach the House tomorrow.

Vare to Make Race As G. O. P. Delegate

Pennsylvania Leader Not Pledged to Anybody, He Declares.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Announcing his candidacy as a delegate to the Republican national convention in June, William S. Vare today said he would go unpledged to any presidential candidate if he is elected.

The Philadelphia Republican leader, speaking at his home here, said he would go to the convention "with an open mind." He denied he had reached any decision on the United States senatorship and was noncommittal when asked if he indorsed the candidacy of Senator James J. Davis.

Last week Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Pennsylvania Republican committee, said that the Pennsylvania delegation to the national convention would be composed of friends of President Hoover.

ANGLO-U. S.-FRENCH PROTESTS IGNORED

Japanese Say Chinese Fired First at Nanking, Which They Returned.

Tokyo (Tuesday), Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Today's session of the Tokyo Stock Exchange was suspended in the afternoon owing to drastic declines in all kinds of stocks. The drops were attributed to the situation at Shanghai and to Anglo-American protests against Japan's actions there.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Tokyo (Tuesday), Feb. 2.—Protests by the United States, Great Britain and France against the use of the Shanghai International Settlement by Japan as a base for operations against the Chinese were followed yesterday by a statement from the foreign office that there was no reason for any change in the Japanese policy.

The ministers of war, navy and foreign affairs recommended to the cabinet that a full army division be dispatched immediately to the Shanghai area.

These troops, it was said, would replace the 5,000 Japanese bluejackets now at Shanghai. Final decision about whether they would be sent rested with the cabinet.

Say Chinese Fired First.

The Japanese navy office received a report from Nanking today that Japanese cruisers lying off-shore had shelled the forts there after a Chinese fort fired three shots toward the Japanese ships.

The Japanese liner Unyo Maru, which was lying off Nanking, preparing to evacuate Japanese residents, moved 3 miles upstream out of the firing zone, the official report said.

First news of the shelling of Nanking reached Tokyo in Washington dispatches quoting the report of the United States destroyer Simpson to the American Navy Department.

First Denied Knowledge.

The Japanese navy office at first professed to have no knowledge of the firing, but later published a report from the naval commander at Nanking. The report failed to mention any damage or casualties on either side.

Reports to the navy office from Shanghai said several hundred Japanese bluejackets from newly arrived war ships had landed, augmenting a landing force of more than 5,000 men.

Owing to the number of Chinese snipers seen in the neighbor, it was said, the emperor's picture had been removed from the consulate general to the gunboat Jaka lying in the Whangpoo.

Japanese press dispatches alleged that Chinese were engaging in wholesale looting of Japanese property on the outskirts of the city and that the military was apparently preparing for a major offensive against the occupationary forces.

Wu Pei-Fu Joins Fight, Forgetting Differences

Peiping, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Marshal Wu Pei-fu, that foxy old enemy of the Chinese republic, returned from years of exile in a remote Buddhist monastery today to unite with his former rivals against a common foe.

The first to salute him as an honored guest was the "Young Marshal" Chang Hsiao-liang, whose authority over Manchuria was obliterated by the Japanese army of occupation and whose father, the late Marshal Chang Tso-lin, fought many a bitter battle with Marshal Wu.

Marshal Wu, who was accompanied by a bodyguard of 1,200 men, said his sole object was to "unite all Chinese in one front against foreign aggression."

CHAUMONT'S SAILING IS COLORFUL EVENT

Scenes Reminiscent of Days of World War Enacted at Manila.

Manila, P. I., Tuesday, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Amid scenes reminiscent of World War days, the transport Chaumont sailed for stricken Shanghai at 2:45 a. m. today (1:45 p. m. Eastern standard time Monday) with the crack Thirty-first United States Infantry regiment aboard.

It pulled anchor to follow the major portion of the Asiatic fleet, which sailed yesterday with a force of bluejackets and Marines to protect American lives and property.

Events of the last few days have created a martial atmosphere in Manila unknown since the memorable days of 1917 and 1918.

Although the cruiser Houston, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, commanded by Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, and two divisions of destroyers had slipped away hurriedly without creating much of a stir, the sailing of the Chaumont brought back wartime memories.

With only twelve hours' sailing notice, there was feverish activity as the regiment prepared to board ship. Complete field equipment had to be packed and loaded. The work was speeded to the utmost.

Hours before sailing time the Infantry was aboard, but loading of supplies continued amid apparent confusion. Wives, sweethearts, and friends dodged pierward among Army trucks to say their farewells as the loading operations proceeded under floodlights.

Many of the 56 regular officers and 10 extra lieutenants were supplied with heavy clothing for the rigorous winter climate they expected to experience in China. In contrast to this it has been below 65 degrees in Manila but few times this winter.

The auxiliary ships Finch and Bittern, normally used as mine layers, sailed last night and probably will be used as transport units in China. The destroyer tender Black Hawk, the oil tanker Pecos, and the aircraft tenders Avocet and Heron were ready for a speedy departure if needed.

Mission Leader Demands Japanese Order for Replacement.

Hongkew Area of Neutral Colony Also Is Virtually Sealed.

Shanghai (Tuesday) Feb. 2 (A.P.). Two Japanese airplanes flew over Shanghai at 1:10 o'clock this afternoon, apparently presaging a heavy engagement between Japanese and Chinese forces.

Shanghai (Tuesday), Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Dr. John Hawk, American mission official, filed a vigorous protest with the United States Consulate today after Japanese bluejackets tore down an American flag flying from mission property. He demanded compensation from the Japanese government and asked that Japanese marines be ordered to return the flag and put it back at the place from which it was torn.

It was torn down yesterday by Japanese bluejackets from a school for Chinese boys operated by the mission of the American Methodist Episcopal Church South, in the Hongkew District.

Property Is Closed.

Dr. Hawk said today that Japanese naval forces, after searching the property, placed seals on the doors and said: "This property is closed on orders of the Japanese navy."

The mission official demanded that the seals be removed.

Japanese bluejackets also virtually sealed the Hongkew area of the International Settlement against the entrance of foreigners today. Japanese sentries on duty at the entrance to all roads refused to allow foreigners to enter, as reports circulated that Japanese for were concentrating on the northern border of Hongkew for a new attack on the Chapei native section of Shanghai.

Plans Counter-Measures.

Rear Admiral Shiosawa, Japanese commander in chief, charged that Chinese were repeatedly firing on Japanese bluejackets and notified the foreign consuls that he was planning to take counter-measures. He said the Chinese activity reached a climax last night when a Chinese shell splashed in the Whangpoo River near the admiral's flagship Ataka.

Admiral Shiosawa informed the consular officials he was sending up airplanes to reconnoiter the situation. A fog, however, apparently delayed the planes in taking off.

As a result of the admiral's statement, which was transmitted through Japanese consular channels, the Japanese naval forces inside Hongkew began concentrating at strategic points facing the Chinese within Chapei.

Sniping Breaks Out.

Secrecy hid the number of Japanese, but many believed that there were at least 10,000 men in the sector. Sniping broke out before dawn.

Tens of thousands of refugees and residents in the International Settlement had disappeared as if by magic at the 10 p. m. curfew hour last night. Only steel-helmeted police and soldiers, pacing the barbed wire barricades, remained abroad.

But this morning sullen crowds of Chinese, fear and hatred in their faces, appeared to watch Japanese

Secretary of Interior Praises Essay Plan; Many Students Enter Prize Competition; Booklet Deadline Is Saturday.

Approval of The Post Washington Essay contest was given yesterday by Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, one of the most distinguished educators in public life today. Secretary Wilbur, it will be remembered, has been for many years president of Leland Stanford University. His indorsement of The Post Washington Essay contest brought real joy to the hearts of all those interested in its success in the offices of The Washington Post when it arrived yesterday.

"It is always worth while to bring your ideas together in the form of a composition or essay," Dr. Wilbur pointed out in his statement. "It makes it necessary to be accurate and careful. There is so much muggy thinking based on impressions about our issues and our great men that it is important for every student to really know something about George Washington and his career.

"One of the ways to find out something is to have to write an essay about it. If this essay goes into a competition, it means that one must do, as always has to be done in competitions, and that is his best. I think the essay competition of The Washington Post will be of real benefit to all of those who take part in it."

Many thanks, Mr. Secretary, not only for the kind words about the contest but for your timely advice to the thousands of young contestants who are competing for the $1,000 in cash prizes to be awarded to 108 winners selected from the students of public, private and parochial schools in the District and nearby Virginia and Maryland.

The Post Washington Essay Contest will be on the radio tomorrow night, over WOL, at 7:30 o'clock, during the Boy Scout regular broadcast, when Bill and Eddie, who entertain every

Japanese Land at Nanking Under Cover of Own Fire

U. S. S. Simpson Changes Position for Safety as Bluejackets Engage Defenders; Panic Grips Natives as City Is Plunged in Darkness.

Nanking (Tuesday), Feb. 2 (A.P.). Under the cover of a two-hour bombardment of the Lion Hill forts 5 miles from Nanking proper, the Japanese today landed bluejackets from their ships in the Yangtze River.

The landing party encountered detachments of the 30,000 veteran Chinese troops shipped into Nanking during the last two days who had set up strong defensive positions behind sand bag barricades in the water front area.

For half an hour machine guns sputtered. What success the Chinese had in their attempt to repulse the attackers could not immediately be established, nor was it possible to determine the number of casualties.

The United States destroyer Simpson, on duty in the Yangtze to protect the 200 residents of Nanking, was reported to have lifted its anchor and changed its position to get out of the line of Japanese fire.

Chinese eyewitnesses said the warships altogether fired 20 shells and scored several hits on the forts. While the firing was in progress a party of Japanese marines was landed on the waterfront and went into action against the defenders.

The confusion of the bombardment was intensified when all lights were suddenly extinguished and the city was plunged into intense darkness, relieved only by searchlights at the airdromes sweeping the sky in a fruitless search for Japanese bombing planes.

Plunged into utter panic by the shelling, residents of the waterfront district abandoned their homes and possessions and streamed through the darkness to that part of the city which lies within the ancient walls two and a half miles from the river.

LEWIS SEES JAPAN AND SOVIET LINKED

Senator Says Tokyo Plans to Declare Asiatic Monroe Doctrine.

Japan is preparing an Asiatic Monroe doctrine, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, declared in a radio address last night, and America will soon confront a union of Japan and Russia, with danger of a simultaneous invasion of the Philippines and Alaska, in the view of the senator.

Citing action of the United States in Cuba, Mexico and Central America, under the Monroe Dostrine, Senator Lewis said:

"This example of the United States is before Japan. Japan proceeds at a time when China is in distraction and by taking possession and control both of territory and privileges of Asia. This movement is upon the assumed right of forcing peace and preserving Asia for the Asiatic, as we hope to preserve America on the American continent for the Americans.

"While this movement on the part of Japan is to conquer China and to put it under a sovereignty of Japan for the control of Asia, it lessens to a great degree the opportunity of America to trade on equal terms with Japan or the countries of the world. From this result there arises before us a much more serious phase than the loss of trade. I hesitate to pronounce an alarm but I must not withhold from the reflection of our citizens the threatened destiny."

On the subject of East against the West, he warned: "Let it now be accepted that soon America will confront a union of Japan and Russia, combining the Chinese soldiers, all supported with the new-built Japanese navy. These will confront the United States with a defiance. At such hour we will be fortunate if under the guise of some alleged offense by the United States, Russia will not be incited by influence to seize Alaska, her former possession, now disclosed as rich in all resources; at the same time of invasion Japan takes the Philippines for all its uses. This move would divide the American defenses thousands of miles apart and in these distractions bring us to a point of danger where it is assumed by the Asiatic masters that to avoid the results of a conflict between ourselves and the combined Asia, the United States would yield to a new proposed relationship, accepting an international equality with the new alliance of Asia."

Opposing the disarmament meeting at Geneva, Senator Lewis continued: "In this respect I am forced to say that to me any effort to lessen the national defenses of our country or of its power to defend itself against the combination which now threatens, is a serious error filled with tragedy."

McDonald to Bare Asiatic View Today

Nanking Shelling Has Made Situation More Grave, Britain Feels.

London, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald spent practically all today in conferences on the Sino-Japanese problem in preparation for a full statement of the British position before both the House of Commons and the House of Lords tomorrow.

Among those who talked with the prime minister at No. 10 Downing street, his residence, were Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, and the Viscount of Hailsham, secretary for war.

The British position was that the situation appeared more grave than ever as a result of news that Nanking had been bombarded and that the military authorities in Tokyo planned to send more troops to Shanghai.

Britain's third protest against Japan's course was lodged at Tokyo today, and it was evident the government had taken an uncompromising stand for the protection of British interests in China.

With Parliament again in session, the entire Shanghai crisis may be expected to be threshed out in the House of Commons, where members will question the government about its policy.

Japan Plans Domination Of Pacific, Dr. Yen Says

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Japan was accused by Dr. W. W. Yen, chief Chinese delegate to the disarmament conference, of carrying out a program to dominate Manchuria, China and the Pacific area, in a broadcast to the United States from Geneva today.

"This is an idea," he said, "that is coolly and seriously advocated in State papers and pamphlets that are for sale in Tokyo bookstores, but because they are all printed in the Japanese language they are not read by foreigners."

150 Chinese Prisoners Are Reported Executed

Shanghai, Feb. 1 (A.P.)—Native newspapers reported today that about 150 Chinese prisoners, including only a few soldiers, had been executed by the Japanese on accusations of sniping.

Truck loads of Chinese bodies were disposed of this morning by Japanese landing parties, the Vernacular press said, "while many others were awarded the death penalty and summarily executed when they were discovered in houses from which snipers were suspected to be operating."

632,000 Texas Cotton Bales Sent to Orient

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Shippers announced today that 632,000 of the 1,250,000 bales of cotton exported from Galveston this season have been consigned to the Orient, largely to Japan.

Additional heavy shipments are in prospect. Shipments to the Orient up to the same date last season amounted to only 162,000 bales.

Under the martial law regulations no civilians were allowed in the streets from 10 p. m. until 4 a. m.

Officials of the American-owned Texaco Oil Co. protested to the American consul general that a Japanese destroyer steaming down the Whangpo had spattered machine-gun bullets on their plant. The incident was carried to the Japanese authorities.

An officer of the company said it was a lucky thing none of the bullets ignited oil storage tanks. He explained that just as the destroyer was passing, some one on shore set off a bunch of firecrackers, which, perhaps, made those aboard believe they were being shot at.

Tied Up at Wharf.

The destroyer Parrott, one of four American ships of war which arrived in Shanghai yesterday, tied up at the Texaco wharf shortly after the Japanese ship had disappeared.

A burst of fire from somewhere in the vicinity of the central postoffice on Soochow Creek, near the Hougkew border, and in the International Settlement, caused considerable excitement last evening.

The neighborhood was crowded and pedestrians scurried for places of safety. Soon a patrol of Japanese bluejackets rushed up with machine guns, which they mounted around the building. The Chinese postal employes fled in terror, and the whole postal service was tied up.

Hongkew Wholly Isolated.

Hongkew, the district seized by the Japanese last week, was wholly isolated from the rest of the International Settlement. The bluejackets had thrown up barricades and barbed wire entanglements. The whole district was in complete darkness during the night, for all lights had been shot out and some wires cut.

Four American destroyers steamed into the harbor yesterday and six more are on the way from Manila. The British cruiser Suffolk arrived from Hongkong with a detachment of marines, and the British cruiser Berwick, with 800 men and a mounted gun battery aboard, was en route from Hongkong.

E. Koechlin, French consul general at Tientsin, sent word that a battalion of French infantry had been ordered to Shanghai. The French cruiser Waldeck Rousseau was due in from the south. These reinforcements will raise the French manpower here to 5,000.

Armored Cars in Avenue.

The French put armored cars into Avenue Edouard VII, the border line of the French concession and the International Settlement.

Reports that three United States Marines had been killed brought vigorous denials from Marine headquarters. The intilligence office declared not one had been harmed.

Japan's policy in Shanghai was bitterly attacked by the American-owned Shanghai Evening Post-Mercury.

"Japanese military forces and gunmen not only have lost their usefulness as part of Shanghai's defense scheme, but have forfeited the right to remain on International Settlement soil," the paper said.

"The plain fact is Japan is waging war against China and is improperly using the International Settlement neutral soil as a base.

"Not only has she jeopardized the future status of the settlement, but she has taken over the police power from settlement authorities in an understandable way and has extended her power to an area never contemplated by others at the outset.

"She has abused that power in a wide variety of acts, including arson and murderous attacks on helpless prisoners.

"Without delay the International Settlement authorities should publicly disassociate themselves from these excesses. They should make clear that other foreign powers and their Shanghai nationals are in no way associated.

"They should renounciate the neutral status of the settlement and restore its besmirched neutrality. They should demand the following immediate steps:

"1. The evacuation of all Japanese armed forces other than those required for actual defensive police work from settlement soil, with settlement police resuming their functions.

"2. The disarming of Japanese plain clothes men who have proved headstrong and irresponsible at the best, and brutal and ruffianly at the worst.

"3. The cessation of further landing of Japanese armed military forces in the Settlement area.

Others May Remain.

"Noncombatant Japanese may remain with the Settlement. They and their Chinese neighbors alike deserve the protection which can be given by the municipal authorities and the regular defense forces of the powers.

"But to the armed Japanese who have used the Settlement as a war base and have grossly abused the trust confided in them, two words can be said—'get out.'"

A statement issued at Nanking by the National government before the Japanese launched their attack there was made public in Shanghai. It said:

"Since the Japanese invasion of Manchuria the National government, in conformity with the nine-power treaty, the Kellogg pact and the league covenant, has adhered to a policy of patience and restraint in hope that the powers would uphold the cause of right and justice.

"Meanwhile the government ordered the nation's military and police forces to exert their utmost for defense of the national territory.

"Despite this, however, the Japanese continued extending their sphere of aggression. They dispatched warships and landed marines and air forces in Shanghai with the object of intimidating and suppressing by brute force China's anti-Japanese movement.

"For patriotic motives Chinese have organized associations for resisting foreign aggression. Unless their activities overstep legal bounds the government has no right to interfere.

"Desirous of avoiding war, the National government endeavored to meet the Japanese demands by suppressing the more radical utterances of the people against Japan and by advising civic organizations to abolish of their own accord the term 'anti-Japanese.'

Military Devastation.

"Japan has subjected the rich and flourishing Port of Shanghai to military devastation. Indiscriminate and wanton aerial bombardment also was carried out, inflicting incalculable damage upon life and on the property of noncombatants. In addition, provocative acts are being committed by Japanese warships at Nanking and other important Yangtze ports.

"The object which the Japanese military envisages in pursuing this wanton policy is to coerce the National government into accepting various humiliating demands Japan would force upon China.

"It need not be pointed out that the unprovoked military invasion of China by Japanese forces not only constitutes a flagrant violation of the sovereignty of China but has destroyed the nine-power treaty, the Kellogg pact and the league covenant."

JAPANESE IGNORE PROTESTS OF U. S., FRANCE AND BRITAIN

and French protests, said, "Japan is determined to show China that she will stand for no nonsense."

The Tokyo government, he explained, does not consider its cause unworthy, and therefore has no guilty conscience. He declared the government of China to be corrupt and said Japan was willing to do her share to thwart "the greedy war lords who are responsible for a large share of China's troubles."

This statement came after United States Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes had filed an unwritten, but nonetheless formal, protest against the use of the International Settlement as a Japanese base.

Britain Also Files Protest.

The foreign office took this protest as a more serious step than the "diplomatic representations" that hitherto have come from Washington. The American government contended that the Japanese were aggravating the situation at Shanghai by utilizing the settlement.

A similar protest came from Sir Francis Lindley, the British Ambassador, and Count de Martel, French representative, conferred with Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa.

Government officials announced that the full strength of the Japanese army in Manchuria would be directed against Harbin, despite the fact that Soviet Russia has indicated it might protest if Japanese troops entered that city.

The Japanese newspaper Hochi Shimbun said army and navy circles had been aroused by Foreign Minister Yoshizawa's request to the American, British and French Ambassadors to persuade the Chinese to withdraw from Shanghai.

"If the withdrawal of Chinese troops is necessary," the paper represented this clique as saying in substance, "Japan herself can bring this about by her own naval forces. If our navy is not sufficient we can send enough troops. Yoshizawa's request only invites the three powers' intervention. If the request were fulfilled it would make China worse."

AMERICAN HOLDINGS IN CHINA 200 MILLION

U. S. Philanthropies and Missions Add 50 Millions; Britain Is Leader.

Editor's Note—The following article on American and other foreign investments in China was written for the Associated Press by C. F. Remer, professor of economics at the University of Michigan. Prof. Remer is in general charge of a study of foreign investments in China which has just been made in cooperation with committees representing Great Britain and Japan.

By C. F. REMER.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—American investments in China amount to about $200,000,000 at the present time. There is, in addition, about $50,000,000 worth of American mission and philanthropic property in China which I do not regard as an investment at all. It is, rather, in the long run, a gift to the Chinese people.

Of the $200,000,000 of real investment, $45,000,000 consists of investment in Chinese government securities and the obligations of the Chinese government.

The bulk of the investment, United States $155,000,000, is direct business investment, that is, it is the property of American corporations, firms and business men in China.

No less than 65 per cent of the business investment of the Americans is in Shanghai. In other words, Americans hold in Shanghai land, buildings, stocks of goods and advances by American banks to Chinese to the amount of about United States $100,000,000. Of this business investment, 32 per cent is in the export and import business (including the sale of petroleum and its products), 23 per cent in public utilities, 17 per cent in banking and finance, and 14 per cent in manufacturing.

Americans Own Factories.

Twenty-eight American firms own factories in Shanghai, worth about $11,000,000. Americans own public utilities in Shanghai worth about $35,000,000. This includes the electric light and power plant of the Foreign Settlement and the telephone system. American holdings in China are about four times what they were at the beginning of the world War, but at the same time the total American investment in China is only about 2 per cent of the investments of the United States in foreign countries.

The nations of first importance are Great Britain and Japan. The estimate of the total investment of Great Britain is $1,266,000,000 and of Japan $1,153,000,000. In each case the total is about five times that of the United States. In the British case about 5 per cent of her total foreign investment is in China, and China accounts for about 50 per cent of Japan's foreign investment.

The total foreign investment in China is estimated at $3,500,000,000. One-third of this is in Shanghai, one-third in Manchuria, and one-third in the rest of China, including Hongkong.

Shanghai Is Center.

Shanghai does 40 per cent of China's foreign trade. One-third of the foreign investment in China is centered there. It holds the silver stock upon which financial operations depend. It is, in short, the trade, financial and banking center of China. It is also the center of British and American interests. Japanese interests there are great, but are overshadowed by the large holdings of the Japanese in Manchuria, where they have property to the value of about $700,000,000.

In Manchuria Japanese interest predominate. Shanghai, however, is the trading and financial center of the whole country, where practically every foreign nation has interests.

(Prof. Remer, in describing investments of various nations, uses the words "United States" before the amounts to indicate that the value is computed in United States money.)

Youth Held in China Resident of Mississippi

Pass Christian, Miss., Feb. 1 (A.P.). Kay Johnson, the American youth reported held by Japanese authorities at Shanghai on a charge of sniping, is a resident of Pass Christian. The young American, Noah A. Johnson, 22, adopted "Kay" Johnson as his prize fighting name. He is the son of A. N. Johnson, who received a letter from the youth a few days ago. The letter was mailed at Shanghai.

Johnson enlisted in the United States Marines four years ago. He has been on duty with the Asiatic fleet of the American Navy, his father said, and is a member of the Nineteenth Company, Fourth Regiment, Marine Corps.

Senate Speed Aids Hoover Credit Plan

(Associated Press.)

The Senate waived its rules yesterday to speed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation into action. It forwarded to the President the commissions of the three directors it has approved. The action was almost coincidental with the departure from the White House of a messenger bearing to the Senate the last nomination to the board—that of Wilson McCarthy, of Salt Lake City. His early confirmation was predicted.

Senate rules require that the President not be notified of confirmations of nominations for three legislative days.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, asked that this rule be waived to permit the three directors—Charles G. Dawes, Harvey C. Couch and Jesse Jones—to be sworn at once. No objection was voiced and the secretary of the Senate promptly dispatched the commissions to the White House.

U. S. TO AID LEAGUE INQUIRY IN SHANGHAI

News Is Received in Geneva With Satisfaction; New Anxieties Provoked.

Geneva, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The League of Nations received with satisfaction today Washington's assurance that the American Government would appoint one of its representatives to cooperate with the league council's commission of inquiry into the Shanghai crisis.

In communicating this information to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consul general here, said his government did not feel in position to name an American as an official member of the commission.

This reservation was interpreted in authoritative quarters here as designed to meet the American domestic political situation.

Will Be Welcome.

Sir Eric replied to Mr. Gilbert that cooperation without official membership "would be most welcome" and Geneva was hoping America's active cooperation in Shanghai would become operative immediately.

New anxieties were provoked in league quarters by news from the Chinese that the Japanese had bombarded Nanking. This development accentuated the view already held in league circles that the Japanese were not disposed to permit league intervention to interfere with their policy toward China.

No arrangements had been made tonight for a meeting of the league council tomorrow, which may be left clear for the opening of the disarmament conference. The first report to the league from the investigators in Shanghai is not expected before Wednesday at the earliest.

Declaration Talk Denied.

The Chinese Nanking government put a stop to talk about China being prepared to declare war on Japan Lo Wen-Kan, the foreign minister sent a telegram to the secretary general in which he said this report was groundless and that the Chinese would act only in self-defense.

Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese representative at the league council, and his advisers have said during the last few days the war declaration report was unfounded, but it greatly depressed them as the disturbed conditions in their homeland sometimes appeared to make anything seem possible.

Authorities here felt that such a declaration would nullify the work of the league to date and would greatly increase the already formidable difficulties facing peace negotiations.

HAWAIIAN WAR GAME DRAWS 27,250 MEN

Adm. Leigh Leads U. S. Fleet to Sea in Attempt to "Take" Islands.

By CAPT. C. M. AUSTIN
(U.S. Navy, Assistant Chief of Staff.)

U. S. S. California, at sea, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commander of the battle force, led the blue fleet to sea today to attempt the capture of the Hawaiian Islands.

More than 60 naval vessels, accompanied by an air armada of 200 planes, sailed from Los Angeles and San Diego to give safe escort to a theoretical group of 25 naval transports, carrying to the shores of Oahu, Hawaii, a theoretical command of 40-odd thousand troops under Maj. Gen. Malin Craig, United States Army.

Some of the transports are blue print ships and many of the soldiers are paper men, but even so 27,250 officers, soldiers and sailors have sailed for the Hawaiian war game.

Possess Unusual Interest.

Thus open the American maneuvers of 1932. They possess unusual interest for the operation is not a naval affair only, but is a major joint Army and Navy exercise. Soldiers, guns and equipment of the Army, together with detachments of the Marine Corps, form the blue expeditionary force. As in the days of 1917-18, the Navy must see the Army safely across the sea, and once there, the Army takes up the fight against the opposing black force.

The studies made at the War and Navy Departments and at the Army and Navy war colleges of the situation that might confront this country in the undesired and unfortunate events of war, are the basis of our maneuvers.

The weighing of pros and cons in the quiet of the office produces decisions and plans that, however well thought out by their makers, need some practical demonstration before that can be finally accepted as sound. On the soundness of those plans, on the skill of the operators called upon to execute them and on the completeness and efficiency of the material involved, depends national safety in time of war.

May Proceed at Will.

Action in this exercise begins the moment the near approach to the islands is noted by the enemy and does not cease until the final decision is reached.

The Blue forces, on the offensive, are free to proceed where they will, to make any grouping of forces deemed advisable and to make feints and harassing attacks before and during the actual landing operations.

Under the same rule, the Black forces may vary the composition of their attacking parties to meet the possible plans of the Blue, using planes and submarines to locate and damage the approaching Blue force or concentrate them at the expected places of landing or do any of the possible things in between.

U. S. Feed Loans Needed By 46 Dakota Counties

Pierre, S. Dak., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Forty-six South Dakota counties will need Federal feed loans "to get them through" the winter, Loyson G. Troth, State secretary of agriculture, today informed Secretary Hyde, of the Federal agricultural department.

Notice that the Federal Government would reopen the livestock feed loans in "limited areas" of South Dakota was received by Troth yesterday. He was urged to list only counties "whose need is great enough to come within this limitation." Meanwhile, immediate aid to South Dakota farmers whose livestock faced starvation will be given by the American Red Cross, Albert E. Evans, director of the Red Cross relief work in South Dakota and Nebraska, said.

Brooklyn Business Men Buy Control of Eagle

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A controlling interest in the Brooklyn Eagle was purchased today from Frank E. Gannett, Rochester publisher, by a group of Brooklyn business men, headed by M. Preston Goodfellow and Harris M. Crist.

Frank E. Tripp, vice president and general manager of the Gannett Co., Inc., made the announcement of the sale. The purchase price was not revealed. Crist has been managing editor of the Eagle for many years, and Goodfellow for the last two and one half years has been publisher. The names of the rest of the group making the purchase were not given out.

SENATOR HALE URGES NAVY BUILDING BILL

"The other great powers recognize their own needs and prepare to meet them. We alone neglect to do so and, in the case of the Navy, depend upon ships. Just at present, the written word is selling at a price considerably below par."

Taking up the 5-5-3 treaty ratio prescribed for American, British and Japanese navies, respectively, Hale said at present the United States was inferior to the British in capital ships, aircraft carriers, and both cruiser categories.

"As far as Japan is concerned," he added, "while we have a considerable superiority in tonnage due to the large number of over-age vessels, in actual combat strength we have little superiority and are very nearly on an even footing."

He placed the total of American naval vessels at 373, with 203 over age. Japan, he said, has 207 with only 23 subject to replacement.

America will have but 68 modern ships when the London treaty expires in 1936 unless new building is undertaken, he said.

To build up to treaty strength, he added, the United States would have to construct 118 ships, Great Britain 80 and Japan only seven.

Maharanee Called to Cairo.

Seattle, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Alarmed by unsettled conditions in the Far East, the former Maharajah of Indore has requested his wife, the former Nancy Ann Miller, to cut short her visit to her home here and return to Cairo. The maharanee arrived last Tuesday intending to remain two weeks, visiting her mother and sister and grandfather, Louis Schaeffer, who has been ill. She now expects to leave Thursday or Friday.

Fleet and China Messages Handled by U.S. Navy Radio

Powerful and Efficient Communications System Transmits Instructions and Information to Destination Within Few Minutes; Manned by Experts.

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

Although not particularly in the limelight, Naval Communications, of which Capt. Stanford C. Hooper is director, is doing a great job in keeping Washington in constant touch by radio with Shanghai, with the U. S. battle fleet, and with other naval vessels wherever they may be in the Pacific. Priority messages are now reaching Admiral Montgomery Taylor, commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, and Col. Richard S. Hooker, in command of the Fourth Marines, in Shanghai, between 20 and 40 minutes after they have been sent from the Navy Department in Washington. Thus President Hoover and Secretary of the Navy Adams are kept well advised regarding the situation.

Old-timers will recall when Dewey cut the cable at Manila Bay it was days before the United States knew that the great naval battle had been fought. Now messages are flashed through the air by short-waves at a rate of 186,000 miles a second.

The routing of naval messages to China involves several relays and a trip half-way around the world. They go first, from Washington across the continent to San Francisco, from San Francisco to Manila, and from Manila to Shanghai. In a normal year the Naval Communication shore service handles upward of 3,000,000 messages, including those of the State Department and other governmental service. This number will be greatly increased by the trouble in the Far East.

The use of radio in the fleet is very important and complicated. It is confidential and therefore can not be described. Capt. Hooper is one of the Navy's best men in radio and a foremost international expert. In fact, he has virtually grown up with radio. From a few sparks emitted by crude apparatus he has seen it develop to its present high state of usefulness.

A rushing business is being done by the Radio Corporation of America in handling radio messages for the Japanese Embassy and the Chinese Legation in Washington. These are picked up for the RCA, which has several circuits to the Orient, by the Western Union. One of the busiest of these circuits is from San Francisco to Tokyo. Another is via Manila to Hongkong. Since the Japanese blew up their station at Mukden, the RCA has been keeping a close eye on its station at Shanghai, with which it is now working direct from San Francisco.

According to a message received yesterday, the Shanghai station, located at Chenju, 7 miles from the city, has not been damaged. There was a brief interruption due to the rupture of control lines linking the International Settlement with the Chenju station, which gave rise to fears the station had been damaged. The lines were repaired, however, and the service restored to normal.

F. P. Guthrie, district manager of the Radio Corporation of America in Washington, said yesterday that if a message was short and the line clear they might be able to flash it from Washington to Shanghai in as short a time as ten minutes. Due to the fact that all messages, both of the Navy Department and those from Japanese and Chinese officials here, are in code, their contents being secret, considerable delay is occasioned in having to check these code words to see if they have been correctly transmitted and received.

Mr. Guthrie laughingly pointed out the advantage in his company being able to send the Japanese and Chinese messages over different circuits. The possibilities of a situation may be readily seen if the two got in any way mixed during the transmission.

Also there is no question of priority. One never has to wait for another, as used to be the case when the cable got clogged with such a flood of messages as comes with a war. The Japanese and Chinese messages are flashed to their respective destinations as Joe Cook used to say, "simultaneously and at the same time." The Japanese messages do not delay the Chinese, and vice versa.

A puzzling feature in radio communication between Washington and Shanghai is that a message is received here the day before it is sent. They are thirteen hours ahead of us, so that a radiogram filed there at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning would be received here at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Flower Shop Finds New Rival in Car Tire Colors

By JOHN J. DALY

By a new process, known as Colorweld, automobile tires are to be made in various shades and hues—pink, orange, green, purple, buff and yellow.

Nor are the basic colors of the spectrum to mark the limitation of Colorweld. There will be, for instance, elephant breath blue, a delicate blend of ultras.

Polka dots, mottled patterns, stripes and modernistic designs are planned. Tire shops of the future will look somewhat like the old-fashioned English gardens in tulip time, featuring such special shadings of tan as beige, shingle, nutling and beigine. Others will display Murillo blue, corsair and brigadier, along with the greens that range from aqua to water-green and green-lake, and the prevalent reds of Yorktown and coraline. What a sight!

Each a symphony in color, the tire shops of America are about to enter high society. Heretofore, they have been just tire shops—dirty, busy places where cars were taken for a return to normalcy after a blowout.

* * * *

RUBBER, crude and vulcanized, was all the old tire shop had to offer. Now, with the addition of color to the somber drabness of rubber, the tire shop will blossom forth as an ornament and an adornment—a rival to the hot-dog stands and gas stations that illumine the landscape.

Tires hereafter will be sold in the grand manner; displayed as manikins show the latest creaations from Paris. Clerks, clad in formal clothes instead of the lackadaisical overalls, will rub the rubber. Floor walkers, in the large emporiums, will strut their stuff, showing visitors the sights—tires resembling and reflecting the glory of the rainbow.

If Mrs. Macgonigle, riding along leisurely in her limousine, meets with a mishap on the road, a tire blowing beneath her, she need no longer drop her lorgnette and sigh, shutting her eyes from the very horror of it all, as her chauffeur and the footman chaperone her to a tire shop. Instead, Mrs. Macgonigle may even go with them into the richly appointed showrooms and there select some color in harmony either with her mood or her raiment.

* * * *

ESPECIALLY will the innovation be welcomed at Eastertime, when all the world blossoms forth in the gorgeous colors of spring, milady preparing for the promenade of the boulevards, the parade of the peacocks after the penitential season of Lent.

Then, all the cars, too, may be bedecked in resplendent colors to match the Easter headgear of beautiful femininity.

By this one stroke, the inventive genius of America gives a new tone to industry, bringing out the best in the once prosaic business of tire vending and mending.

His shop, the bright spot on the highway, no longer need the tire salesman blush over the bruised and battered business conditions of ye olden days. Instead, bedecked like chanticleer, crowing at sunrise, kid-gloved attendants will now take the place of the old, tired tire hands relegated to the shipyards and the farms by the invention of a new color process.

Sic gloria transit mundi, as the flower shop finds a new rival.

U. S. NEVER VISITED BY 31ST INFANTRY

Organized in Philippines in 1916, It Won Laurels in Siberia.

(Associated Press.)

Do you want to know more about the Thirty-first Infantry, en route to China?

Here you are—

The regiment's motto is "For the Ccuntry," but, as a unit it has never been nearer the United States than Manila or Siberia.

It was organized in the Philippines in 1916 by transfers from other regiments. Its origin is indicated by its emblem, a sea lion, taken from the coat of arms of the Philippines.

It participated in several minor engagements in Siberia and the War Department says it acquitted itself well.

The regiment's casualties were extremely light and after withdrawal of the Russian expedition, it was based at Manila, where it has been since.

Its commanding officer, Col. Lorenzo D. Gasser, has a reputation in the Army for quick, aggressive action when he makes up his mind to do something.

He has been in the Army for almost 25 years.

During the Spanish-American War he served as lieutenant and captain of volunteers.

A gift for organization earned him the distinguished service medal as an official in the motor transportation section during the World War.

Such were the remarks of a young school teacher who was entertaining at bridge the other night. From bridge, the conversation had drifted to radio and all present were discussing their favorite models.

This young school teacher had been told she could depend on Mayer & Co. service. When she came here she was treated courteously. She bought a Philco and bought it with confidence. What's more, she did not have to pay any interest charge for her deferred payments.

'WAR STOCKS' RISE; BOOM TALK RAPPED

Wall Street Bankers State That Major Conflict Is Unthinkable.

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—While leading Wall street bankers expressed themselves as frankly concerned over developments in the Far East today, speculators in the stock market made a few bullish gestures in shares of aircraft and munitions manufacturers.

High banking quarters generally discredited talk of a "war boom," and a spokesman for one of the leading financial groups asserted that neither Japan nor China could obtain a loan in this market or in London to finance a war.

Securities markets were generally strong, stocks throwing off their sagging tendencies of last week and making the best gains since January 13. Leading shares generally closed $1 to $4 higher. An important factor in the upturn, however, was the week-end announcement that the railway brotherhoods had accepted a 10 per cent wage reduction.

Recall War Brides.

While speculators recalled the "war brides" on the stock exchange during the World War, when a rush of orders for munitions and material revitalized American industry after the sharp slump which followed the early hostilities, leading bankers expressed the opinion that neither Japan nor China was financially in a position to finance a major conflict.

While the so-called "war stocks" advanced, commodities made an indifferent response. Wheat advanced about a cent a bushel, but cotton, an important product in the manufacture of munitions, closed virtually unchanged, and copper and zinc prices eased. Bar silver, the basis of Chinese currency, advanced ½ cent an ounce, however, to 30¼ cents.

Is Held Unthinkable.

Leading bankers in the main, urged the maintenance of composure over the Far Eastern developments, and expressed the opinion that a major conflict was "unthinkable."

In foreign currencies, the Japanese yen, which had been declining recently, stiffened markedly, rising ½ cent ot 35⅜ cents. Along with the upturn in silver, there was a similar advance in the Shanghai tael.

Bankers for Japan said the Japanese were rigidly maintaining all balances in this country for the purpose of maintaining interest and sinking fund payments upon their dollar bonds. Japanese dollar bonds, however, were depressed in the New York market.

Senate Group Approves 2 Judiciary Nominations

The Senate Judiciary committee yesterday reported favorably the nominations of Gunnar H. Nordbye and Matthew M. Joyce to be district judges in Minnesota.

Senator Schall (Republican) Minn., a member of the committee who has steadfastly opposed confirmation of Nordbye, said he had withdrawn his personal objection. Joyce, approved at the same time, was backed by Schall.

and in France in the World War, commands the Thirty-first Infantry.

The Houston, 10,000-ton treaty cruiser, four destroyers, and the yacht Isabel lifted anchor yesterday afternoon. Running at forced speed, they were expected to reach Shanghai within 35 to 45 hours, except for the Isabel. Three hundred Marines, fully equipped, were on the Houston.

An advance flotilla of three destroyers slipped quietly out of the harbor at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Four others already had reached Shanghai.

More Than Score of Vessels.

When Admiral Taylor assembles the various fighting units upon his arrival on the Houston some time tomorrow, he will have more than a score of war vessels and attendant ships in the trouble zone for protection of American lives and property.

A veteran of the famous May day battle in Manila Bay, when he fought with Admiral Dewey, Admiral Taylor is believed here to be the senior naval officer of international forces in the trouble zone.

With the arrival of the Chaumont and other American vessels, the American protective force at Shanghai will be augmented by more than 2,500 bluejackets, marines and soldiers.

The destroyer tender Black Hawk remained at Cavite, naval base here, but was expected to leave shortly. Other ships of the Asiatic Fleet under orders to stand by include twelve submarines, mine sweepers, auxiliary craft and three destroyers undergoing their annual overhauling.

Several Washington Officers Are Serving With Troops and Ships in Shanghai Zone

Several Washington residents are figuring in the disturbances in China. Shown here are, upper row, left to right—Lieut. Col. George A. Lynch, Mrs. Mary Devereux Crist and her husband, Lieut. Raymond F. Crist, jr. Lower row—Lieut. Comdr. William J. Morcott, Capt. Thomas Arthur Tighe, Commander George Kenyon and Lieut. Thomas J. Kilcourse.

Captain and 2 Lieutenants of Fourth Marines Are Capital Men.

2 Warship Commanders and Infantry Chief Also Residents Here.

At least three Marine Corps officers from Washington are at the present time in war-torn Shanghai, while one Army officer from here is on his way to the scene with the Thirty-first Infantry from Manila and two local naval officers are on duty on boats in Chinese waters.

According to Marine headquarters the three Washington officers now on duty with the Fourth Regiment of Marines, protecting American lives and property in Shanghai are: Capt. Thomas Arthur Tighe, of 2816 Thirteenth street northwest; First Lieut. Thomas J. Kilcourse, of 458 K street northwest and Lieut. Raymond Fowler Crist, jr., of 3025 Newark street northwest.

Commander George Yenyon, who formerly lived at the Army and Navy Club, is in command of the gunboat Mindanao, now located at Canton, 700 miles south of Shanghai, and Lieut. Comdr. William J. Morcott is in command of the gunboat Panay, now stationed at Mowangtsui, 500 miles north of Shanghai.

Probably the best known of the Washingtonians is Lieut. Crist, son of Commissioner Raymond F. Crist, of the United States naturalization service. Lieut. Crist is in Shanghai with his wife, the former Mary Devereux, well-known here as the daughter of Dr. John Ryan Devereux, of 3 West Bradley Lane, Chevy Chase. They have with them their 1-year-old son, Raymond F. Crist 3d. Miss Anne Devereux, sister of Mrs. Crist, returned last month from Shanghai, where she visited her sister and brother-in-law.

Lieut. Christ graduated from the Naval Academy in 1929 and later served at Philadelphia and Quantico. He sailed on the U. S. S. Henderson for Shanghai on March 17, 1931, and arrived there April 1, 1931. He is at the present time attached to Company O of the First Battalion of the Fourth Regiment of Marines.

Capt. Tighe, formerly aid-de-camp to Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, at Quantico, is at the present time serving his second tour of duty in China. He is in command of Company L, of the Third Battalion of the Fourth Marines. Capt. Tighe has seen duty in Hawaii, Haiti and numerous posts throughout the States.

Lieut. Kilcourse is also a company commander of the Fourth Marines. He has previously served in Haiti and Nicaragua and has been decorated with the Nicaraguan Medal of Merit and the Navy Cross. He has been in China for six months.

Lieut. Col. Lynch is well known in Washington, having served here as inspector-instructor of the National Guard, as an officer in the militia bureau, on the general staff and as a student officer at the Army War College. He served throughout the World War and is the holder of the Distinguished Service Medal.

FRENCH AND ITALIANS JOIN IN SEEKING SHANGHAI PEACE

French Embassy to the State Department, as earlier in the day Jules Henry, counselor of the embassy, who had been in Paris on account of the death of his father, called on Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., and remained with him more than a half hour.

Following the visit of M. Henry, it was learned that the French Government had given assurances of cooperation to the United States in the military zone of Shanghai. The situation there from the French point of view is divided into two phases, one military under the jurisdiction of the French military and naval commanders on the spot, and the other administrative under the direction of the French Consul General there who is naturally a member of the Consular Corps and who will cooperate with them.

Official Expressions Made.

It could not definitely be ascertained whether or not France had made representations to the Japanese government at the same time the other allies had taken this step, but it was nevertheless announced that the French Ambassador in Tokyo, Count de Martel, had had a lengthy interview with the Japanese Foreign Minister, M. Yoshizawa, and some French official expressions were made.

A French cruiser with additional troops is now on the way to Shanghai from Saigon, it was also announced.

The Italian Charge d'Affaires, Count de Marchetti, replacing the Italian Ambassador Giacomo de Martino, who had gone to New York earlier in the day, called on Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, chief of the Far Eastern Division of the State Department, and informed him of the cooperative moves the Italian government was taking in conjunction with the United States and Great Britain.

Protest Made by Italy.

Mussolini had cabled the Italian Ambassador at Tokyo to protest, along the same lines as the Anglo-American move, the Japanese excesses in Shanghai. Later in the day cables were received at the Italian Embassy that this was done.

The effects of these allied representations were not apparent up to a very late hour last night. The Japanese Ambassador during the day had called also at the State Department to receive any reports regarding the formation of the neutral zone around Shanghai which had been proposed as the necessary preliminary for peace. He would make no formal announcement at this time, but contented himself with stating the pacific intentions of the Japanese and their anxiety to see the Chinese cease firing.

League Move for Truce.

The move of the League of Nations to bring about a continuation of the truce, which is at best a stopgap until the arrival of more impressive American military representations, was made known by the Secretary yesterday. He declared that Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, had informally invited American participation on the league's proposed inquiry commission. The other nations to be represented on the commission at Shanghai were the British, French, German, Italian, Norwegian and Spanish governments mostly through their consular envoys.

The United States will participate, but only on condition that the activities of the neutrals repose on other bases than the league covenant which, being an integral part of the league's constitution, has never been accepted by this Government.

Prepared to Cooperate.

On any other basis, the State Department assured the league secretariat, it would be prepared to cooperate with the other delegates at Shanghai. The interest of the United States was cited because of its desire that international peace be preserved, as well as the protection of its own treaty rights and interests in the International Settlement be safeguarded.

The same pacific intent of the American military and naval operation at Shanghai was stressed in a formal statement from the State Department, which said:

"With reference to the movement of American ships and troops to Shanghai, these movements are solely for the protection of American lives and property and for the fulfilling of our responsibilities to American citizens at Shanghai and other exposed ports in the Yangtze and elsewhere in China."

Tenseness Increases.

The tenseness of the situation at the mouth of the Yangtze continues to increase instead of abating, according to the final reports from American naval officers and consular chiefs.

The consul general at Shanghai, in a dispatch to the Secretary of State, announced that yesterday the sniping by plain clothes men, both Japanese and Chinese, was worse than it had ever been and that the number of snipers was increasing. Sniping occurs occasionally in the central district close to the American consulate general, but is very intense at the Hongkew district, which was taken over by the Japanese marines on Saturday night.

The Chinese Legation here announced that cables had been received from Waichiaopu which described the bombing of Chapei, the Chinese city in Shanghai, by Japanese airplanes.

Set Fire to Residences.

The report said:

"Streets are strewn with corpses. Japanese plain clothes men set fire on Chinese residences along North Szechuan road and occupied the Sixth police station on Tsaochiatu. Another report from Shanghai garrison said heavy firing had been raging on Boone road. Japanese civilians were firing over American lines into Chinese territory, killing two Chinese in the American area and many more in the Chinese area. Five more Japanese warships were reported to have arrived at Shanghai. All banks in the settlement, the French concession and the Chinese city remain closed."

The scene of critical activity suddenly broadened with the news at the Navy Department from Lieut. Comdr. P. W. Rutledge, U. S. N., commanding the U. S. S. Simpson now at Nanking, some 165 miles up the river from Shanghai, that a Japanese cruiser was firing on the city. He reported later:

"Japanese vessels continue firing on Nanking. Have shifted berth to get out of line of fire. Firing continuing intermittently. No warning given."

Rapidly Becoming Worse.

Further radios from Lieut. Comdr. Rutledge indicated that the up-river situation was rapidly becoming worse. He wired the Navy Department late yesterday afternoon:

"At 11:03 p. m., Nanking time, February 1, rifle shots near Bund in vicinity of N. K. K. (Japanese steamship company) dock. Tsushima (Japanese cruiser) opened fire at short intervals and irregularly until 11:30 p. m. Japanese naval sentries on N. K. K. dock may have fired rifle shots followed by machine gun bursts. Cause of firing unknown. No small arms fire seem to come from shore. Neither Chinese battery on shore, nor Chinese men o' war returned fire. If consul general desires Simpson will evacuate American nationals during daylight of the 2d. Shifted to safer berth. Still in radio communication with shore."

From later information from Lieut. Comdr. Rutledge the warships were identified at Nanking, the former capital of the Chinese Nationalist government. The government fled Saturday to the prehistoric town of Loyang, formerly known as Honanfu. The following ships are in the harbor now:

Japanese: The cruisers Hirado, Henryu, Tsushima and four destroyers. British: Bridgewater, fleet sloop, and the Aphis, a river gunboat. The Chinese have two cruisers, six river gunboats, and four destroyers.

The United States has the Simpson, but reinforcements are on the way.

Naval Chiefs Deny Calling Reserves

(Associated Press.)

Naval officials said yesterday they were unable to explain the basis for the frequently recurring rumors that naval reserves were being mobilized.

Those directly in charge of naval reserves said no such orders had gone out and none were contemplated. They believe the confusion may result from the summoning back to duty of some reserve man who has asked for an assignment. Quite frequently one is called to act as a keeper of a ship the reserves use.

Each summer fleet reservists go on a two-week training cruise, but orders for these cruises will not go out for months. Unemployed merchant marine reservists were urged last week to take this opportunity to get in a 15 or 30 day training period with the fleet.

FRANCE DISPATCHES MARINE BATTALION

Paris Also Orders Several Warships From Indo-China to Shanghai.

Paris, Feb. 1 (U.P.).—The government today ordered a battalion of French marines from Tonkin (Indo-China) to Shanghai to reinforce the troops in the French concession.

The troops were given orders to assist the British and American troops in defense of the International Settlement, if necessary. The French concession adjoins the settlement.

The cruiser Waldeck Rousseau and all gunboats, dispatch boats and sloops which can be spared from Indo-China were ordered to sail for Shanghai.

The French consul general at Shanghai was instructed to cooperate with the American and British defense officials.

Diplomatically France has exerted every effort to prevent aggravation of the Shanghai situation, it was said in official circles. The ambassador at Tokyo has made representations to Japan and the French representatives at Geneva have worked vigorously to prevent spread of the hostilities.

France informed Japan that she expects the French concession to be respected. It was officially denied that France is supporting Japan's move in Shanghai, either financially or morally. It was stressed that the Franco-Japanese accord of June, 1907, mutually guaranteeing rights in China, applies only to parts of China bordering on territory of the two countries. It is not applicable to Shanghai.

JAPANESE ATTACK NANKING IN LANDING

shaw coolies to extinguish their lamps, with the result that a chaotic tide of humanity became mixed up with traffic and collisions were frequent.

The bombardment, laid down by the cruisers Tsushima and Tenru and the destroyer Hazu, began at 11:15 o'clock last night and ended at 1 a. m. today.

At 2:30 a. m. the situation was quiet but the utmost tension prevailed.

City officials, not knowing what might happen next, ordered the power plant to shut off all lights, and traffic was stopped in the streets. Rickshaws and automobiles gave way to armored cars and tanks that patrolled the thoroughfares for the rest of the night.

Forts Do Not Reply.

The forts of Lion Hill did not reply to the guns of the Japanese warships. It was reported that several direct hits had been scored on them.

Chinese accused a Japanese dock patrol of starting the hostilities. They declared the patrol had fired on a Chinese detachment near the waterfront railway station and that immediately thereafter the guns of the ships boomed. It also was reported the guns were brought into action to prevent Chinese national guard troops from crossing the Yangtze to Nanking.

Shortly after 1:30 a. m. the American Consul General said he did not intend to evacuate the America residents. Foreign consulates generally were shocked at the new turn in events, and some of them prepared to move their nationals out of the city.

Seven Japanese Ships.

A total force of seven Japanese ships of war is lying off Nanking. This includes four cruisers and three destroyers. The cruiser Tenru is armed with 5.5-inch guns and the destroyer Hazu has 4.7-inch guns. The only other foreign vessel in the river, aside from the Simpson, is a British destroyer.

In informed quarters it was said that the impending arrival of American and British reinforcements at Shanghai might avert a Chinese declaration of war on Japan.

LONE BIDDER TAKES CARAWAY MANSION

Calvert Manor Obtained by Percy W. Pickford, Mortgage Holder.

(Associated Press.)

Historic Calvert Manor in nearby Maryland yesterday passed from the hands of the Caraways, of Arkansas.

Following the decision of Mrs. (Senator) Caraway to give up the old manor, built sometime between 1750 and 1800 and occupied by one of Maryland's old original families, the place was sold by auction to satisfy a $22,500 mortgage given by the late Senator Caraway when he purchased it in 1926.

Percy W. Pickford, of Washington, from whom the late Senator Caraway bought it, held the mortgage and was the only bidder when the colonial mansion went on the block yesterday.

Rising atop three high terraces at Riverdale, Md., some five or six miles from the District line on the northeast branch of the Anacostia River, Calvert Manor was the scene of many gatherings at which Senator and Mrs. Caraway were hosts.

Mrs. Caraway has been living there since her return to Washington at the beginning of Congress with her sons, Lieut. Paul W. and Bob Caraway.

They have as yet made no plans where they will live the remainder of her term in Washington. Prior to her reelection for the next full term, Mrs. Caraway had indicated she planned to go back to Arkansas to live and therefore had decided to give up Calvert Manor.

The old plastered-over brick mansion of some 20 rooms set in a scenic 17-acre tract long has been an object referred to tourists visiting historic places. The Caraways have obligingly shown their callers through the home on the average of once a day, but sometimes oftener.

Senator Johnson, of California, was renting the place when Senator Caraway bought it, and a dispute arose between them as a result.

Mrs. Caraway Sworn In As First "Duly Elected"

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway celebrated her birthday yesterday by taking the oath as the first "duly elected" woman senator.

Widow of the late senator from Arkansas, Mrs. Caraway dressed in traditional mourning, was escorted to the dais by Senator Robinson, the minority leader, and was sworn by Senator Moses, president pro tempore.

She had been sworn once previously, but that was after she had been appointed by the governor of her State. She was duly elected January 12 to fill out the unexpired term of her husband. The term ends March 4, 1933.

Debuchi Calls Japan Eager For Peaceful Settlement

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Debuchi told the Associated Press yesterday afternoon that Japan is extremely anxious about the Shanghai situation and eager to see it quieted by negotiations.

"Japan is one of the powers which have a great stake in the International Settlement," he said. "That settlement really is a foreign republic. It isn't China, and Japan could not possibly have any territorial aspirations in Shanghai. It already has its share in the International Settlement and about 25,000 citizens in the Shanghai area.

"Of these 7,000 are in Chapei, which has been the scene of so much fighting."

Mr. Debuchi said he had no information from his government about the bombardment of Nanking by a Japanese warship which was reported to the State Department yesterday.

"I am hopeful that the strained situation will be relieved by the intercession of the United States, France and Great Britain suggested by our minister of foreign affairs," Mr. Debuchi continued.

"It is difficult naturally to negotiate with China as there have been many changes in the Nanking government and its officials are reported to be scattered. But I am optimistic and believe a settlement of the trouble will be worked out."

He reiterated that Japan does not desire to send army reinforcements to Shanghai to support its sailors unless forced to do so by new developments.

CYR STARTS OUSTER SUIT AGAINST KING

Court Action Alleges Long Conspired to Control Governorship.

Lake Charles, La., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—An ouster suit, based on charges that Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. Alvin O. King conspired to seize Louisiana's chief executive offices, was filed against King in circuit court here today by Dr. Paul N. Cyr.

In his petition to the court, Dr. Cyr reviewed the history of his case, dating back to last fall when he attempted, as lieutenant governor, to remove Long from the governorship on the grounds that the latter was a United States senator.

The petition read:

"On January 25, 1932, the said Huey P. Long took the oath of office of senator of the United States at Washington, D. C., in open Senate.

"That before leaving Louisiana, as aforesaid, by conspiracy between the said Huey P. Long and Alvin O. King, the said Long placed the said King in charge and possession of governor

"Wherefore, plaintiffs pray that the said defendant, Alvin O. King, be duly cited to appear and answer this petition, and * * * judgment be rendered in favor of plaintiffs and against Alvin O. King, ordering Alvin O. King to immediately vacate the said office of Governor of Louisiana and to deliver the same to Paul N. Cyr."

When the suit was filed, Gov. King was on an inspection tour of the Louisiana flood area and Long was on a train between New Orleans and Washington.

Dr. Cyr was represented in Lake Charles by counsel. He remained at his headquarters in the Louisian Hotel in Baton Rouge.

JOSEPH W. BYRNS.

IT WOULD be something approaching heresy to introduce Joe Byrns as Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, for though there are other Burnses (or of some other spelling), there is only one Joe Byrns in the Capitol to members of Congress, newspapermen and others familiar with the national legislative halls.

Not that Mr. Byrns is one of those dynamic, bubbling-over, back-slapping personalities whose glad hand is out to every stranger—as a matter of fact though he commonly is referred to as Joe Byrns, most persons say Mr. Byrns when they address him.

The South was in the travail of the reconstruction when Joe Byrns was born near Cedar Hill, in Robertson County, in Tennessee, on July 20, 1869. Now he has the appearance of a fierce-fighting man who refuses to recognize the weight of years. Blue eyes are under jutting, bushy brows. If he walked, unknowingly, into a brick wall, it seems that the first thing to hit the wall would be his out-thrust, fighting chin.

For all that he is a mild-mannered enough man. He doesn't make a speech every day, but when he does he leaves no doubt that he is in earnest about what he says and closed fists are at the end of churning arms. When he speaks most always has a good attendance on both sides of the House, a trifle which doesn't show in the Congressional Record, perhaps, but does show in the House. He is chairman of the powerful appropriations committee.

Should Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, decide to give up that job it is likely Joe Byrns would be elected to the post. Incidentally Mr. Byrns' secretary waxed indignant because a newspaper reporter said that he couldn't have been elected leader if he had chosen to fight for the place instead of withdrawing in favor of Representative Rainey.

Like many other members of Congress who have risen to power in the national councils, Mr. Byrns began his political education in his own bailiwick and served in the State Legislature before coming to the Sixty-first Congress. He has been reelected since and has become a sort of a prideful habit of his constituents. His political perspicuity, as well as his energy, is attested by the fact that he is chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee.

LOUISIANA TO SEEK U. S. AID ON FLOOD

Monroe Schools Are Closed; Pupils on Levee Duty; 1927 Record Falls.

Monroe, La., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Describing flood conditions in north Louisiana as approaching a catastrophe, Gov. Alvin O. King and Raymond H. Fleming, adjutant general, today promised to have the situation brought to the attention of the Federal Government.

The governor's party, traveling in boats, inspected the area around Colfax, stricken town on the Red River above Alexandria, and tomorrow will visit Monroe, the center of the unprecedented Ouachita River flood.

The State official told J. W. Duncan, chairman of the Grant Parish Chapter of the Red Cross, that at least 100 tents were needed immediately to house 250 families camped on high ground at Colfax.

The Atchafalaya is flooded in the Sugar Bowl country of south Louisiana, and the Mississippi River is nearly 2 feet above flood stage at Arkansas City and Vicksburg, and just in flood stage at Baton Rouge.

The Tennessee River at Chattanooga is rising slowly, threatening to reach flood stage of 33 feet and inconveniencing lowland residents.

Monroe today was the hardest hit city in the flood sections, but clear weather was aiding a fight along 20 miles of levees on the Ouachita. Five thousand men were thrown into the battle against the river.

High schools closed in Monroe and students went out to combat the high water. Many business houses suspended temporarily. The river here today was nearly 10 feet above flood stage, with an inch or two more water predicted.

Xerophthalmia Hinders Proceedings of Senate

(Associated Press.)

One word — xerophthalmia — stopped the Senate yesterday and no one ever did pronounce it.

Senator La Follette (Democrat), Wisconsin, ran across the word, which is the name of an eye disease, in reading a report from a physician on health conditions during the business decline. The senator made no attempt to pronounce and simply spelled it.

"I will have to have the help of Dr. Copeland," he said.

The New York senator didn't happen to be there just then, but Senator Hatfield, of West Virginia, a physician, went to La Follette's side. They put their heads together and Hatfield whispered, but La Follette proceeded with the explanation:

"We will refer this to the subcommittee."

COLD GRIP WREAKS HAVOC ON TRAFFIC

San Francisco, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Taking no chances on what the traditional ground hog may do, winter struck a stinging blow through the West today.

Rainfall at coastal points and biting temperatures and heavy snowfall in the higher altitudes marked the course of the storm from the Pacific Coast to the Rockies.

Highway and railway traffic was blocked or delayed. Mail and passenger airways were grounded. Some communication lines were disrupted.

San Francisco looked askance as snow fell in some sections of the city, then hastily refreshed memories of an 80-degree temperature two years ago this date. Torrents of rain, accompanied by high wind, swept Southern California.

Biting temperatures but clear skies prevailed in the Pacific Northwest, following a blizzard that piled huge drifts over railroads and highways.

Temperatures in Oregon moved downward. It was 1 above zero at Bend. Nevada mining camps were isolated by snow. Reno was buried under a 7-inch blanket.

After five days of cold unequaled in the last two winters, Montana welcomed a forecast for warmer weather. Denver, with snow flurries yesterday, enjoyed "golfing" weather today.

Embassy in London To Be Tenantless

Mrs. Dawes and Nephew to Join Former Envoy in Capital.

London, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The American embassy in Grosvenor Gardens will be temporarily without a tenant after tomorrow when Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the Ambassador who recently resigned, sails to join her husband in Washington. Henry Dawes, her nephew, will go with her.

There is still much speculation regarding the general's successor. The latest candidate nominated by gossip is former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois. Americans in London who know Mr. Lowden say he is eminently fitted for the job.

Although the present troubles in the Far East find the American Embassy without an Ambassador, the Charge d'Affaires is Ray Atherton, an experienced career man who has served his country in both China and Japan. He is carrying on the negotiations in which his government is concerned.

Wall Street Challenged On Tire Reorganization

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.)—John N. Willys, Ambassador to Poland and well known automobile manufacturer, today threw down a challenge to Wall street supporters of a plan to reorganize the Fisk Tire Co., which went into receivership on January 3, 1981.

Any reorganization of the company at this season of the year, he said, when it "is in the midst of taking spring orders and closing dealer contracts, would, in my judgment, be very unsettling to the dealer organizations and harmful to the business of the company." The Toledo manufacturer is a large holder of bonds and notes of the Fisk Tire Co.

Reaches New York in Two Hours, Ten Minutes From Columbus.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Capt. Frank Hawks landed at Newark airport at 4:08 p. m. today, having flown the 500 miles from Columbus, Ohio, in 2 hours and 10 minutes. His average speed was 231 miles an hour.

Hawks flew later to Roosevelt Field to have the instruments of his plane checked. He had helpful winds from Columbus and flew most of the way at 7,000 feet. He left Chicago this morning and covered the 175 miles to Fort Wayne, Ind., in 50 minutes. Fort Wayne to Columbus, 143 miles, required 45 minutes. His average speed for the whole trip from Chicago was 219 miles an hour, he said.

Hawks went West several weeks ago to make an aerial survey of the central transcontinental route for the Transcontinental and Western Airways, Inc. At all points, he said, he found operators anxious to jump the speeds of the planes to provide swifter transportation.

Colony With Red Ideas May Turn Capitalistic

Homestead, Iowa, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Members of the Amana Society, which began as a Communistic organization in Germany and has survived in practically its original form since its transfer to America, voted today to reorganize on a modified capitalistic corporation basis.

The vote was 825 to 41 in favor of a proposal submitted by trustees of the colony, who pointed out, however, that the corporation plan will not become binding until signatures of all members have been obtained. They expressed a belief that this will be done within a few days. All seven towns which comprise the colony of 26,000 acres ratified the proposal by a large majority. In High Amana no votes were cast against it.

THEY'RE DOTTY ABOUT DOTTY

Dorothy Mackaill's great-great something-or-other was Bobbie Burns, the famous Scotch poet, and she's as popular in Hollywood as golf—'nother Scotch import. She is more popular with prop boys and electricians than any star in the chin-ema city. Her favorite pet is a Brazilian monkey. You see the monk in the new FIRST NATIONAL PICTURE, "SAFE IN HELL." Dorothy has smoked LUCKIES for six years, and not a cent was paid for her statement. We're mighty pleased with the nice things Dorothy Mackaill says about LUCKY STRIKES, and so we're making a sweeping bow and saying, "Thanks, Dorothy Mackaill."

JAPAN IS ACCOUNTABLE.

China has outwitted Japan in the all-important matter of fixing responsibility for the conflict that now seems to be developing into war. Dr. Alfred Sze's skillful diplomacy at Geneva placed Japan repeatedly in the wrong. The confusion at Nanking, resulting in the apparent collapse of the Chinese government, had the effect of postponing what would have been a premature declaration of a state of war. The present provisional government of China avoids such a declaration, while Japan commits one act of aggression after another. Whatever may have been the provocation for the Japanese invasion of Manchuria, recent aggressions by Japan have aroused the nations whose citizens and subjects are imperiled.

The Japanese government has mystified the world by its evasions. With fatal ineptitude that government has antagonized world opinion while the Chinese have won almost universal sympathy. One Japanese cabinet has fallen, presumably because it was lukewarm in supporting the militarist program in Manchuria. The present cabinet speaks softly, while the army and navy wield the big stick with a recklessness that threatens to draw down terrible reprisals. The only conclusion that can be drawn is that the Japanese government is either overpowered by a war machine that is running amuck or deliberately pursuing a war policy of unparalleled audacity, with a curious inability to justify its course by any standard of right or law.

The ranging of the great powers in defense of their nationals at Shanghai is the direct result of Japanese aggression. Collisions may occur between the Chinese and foreigners, but there is no thought of war between them. The possibility of war between some of the powers and Japan will develop if Japanese operations result in loss of foreign lives. The powers, in short, hold Japan accountable for what is occurring in China.

The indignation of Americans increases as they read reports from China which indicate that American life and property are endangered by Japanese operations. The evacuation of all American citizens from danger spots is contemplated. Loss of American life would provoke this country into war fury. The Government, however, is in duty bound to move circumspectly, having regard for possible complications in many directions. The question of joint or associated action with other powers in dealing with Japan is one that calls for keen foresight. Common defense within the International Settlement at Shanghai is manifestly expedient; but the experience of the United States following the World War is a warning against the association of this Government with any other in war operations.

THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY.

No one who has visited the Washington Automobile Show can doubt that the motor industry will play an important part in the revival of prosperity. This great industry contributed much to the steady rise in living standards during the decade from 1920 to 1930. During the depression the industry lost ground, but it is now gaining momentum. The enthusiasm with which the 1932 models have been received is indicative of a heavy demand for cars this year. It is not improbable that the motor industry will lead the way to better times.

Production of automobiles reached a low point last November, when only 68,867 cars were turned out. In December there was a sharp upturn. In fact, the increase over November was about 77 per cent. This buoyancy in the automobile industry gives hope that the early months of this year will surpass those of 1931 in output. Employment statistics graphically reflect this improvement. Since the last of October Detroit's factory pay rolls have been augmented by nearly 6 per cent. Apparently the demand for automobiles to replace worn-out cars has reached considerable proportions.

Nearly $2,000,000,000 is invested in the business of manufacturing motor vehicles in the United States. In spite of high foreign tariffs this country continues to supply 87 per cent of all automobiles in use throughout the world. During 1930 the wholesale value of cars, parts and tires produced by the American industry was $3,330,775,532. At a time when machinery has displaced millions of workmen, this enormous industry has given employment to millions. It has revolutionized modes of travel and transportation and wielded a powerful influence over modern civilization.

Manufacturers of automobiles have gone forward in perfecting models, designing more beautiful cars, increasing their motive power, their comfort and durability. In spite of the fact that quantity production has been checked, the prices of many automobiles have been reduced. The industry offers a striking example of commercial ingenuity and resourcefulness. There seems to be no question that it has set its house in order and is ready to advance toward another era of prosperity.

THE RAIL WAGE AGREEMENT.

Conclusion of the railway conference in Chicago, in which rail employes agreed to a temporary wage cut of 10 per cent, and the carriers pledged themselves to maintain and extend employment wherever possible, is one of the most hopeful signs that have appeared in the whole business spectrum since the depression began. The spirit of cooperation there manifested is a landmark in the history of organized labor. Behind this agreement may be found an attitude of enlightened self-interest that will lead the United States out of the depression wilderness.

The conference did not agree upon a reduction in the basic wage scales of railway employes. The carriers were not seeking to revive prosperity by reducing the purchasing power of railway workers. But they were faced with an emergency condition which made it imperative to increase their revenue or reduce their expenses. As a contribution to relief of this condition the unions agreed that 10 per cent may be deducted from each employe's pay checks for one year. At the end of that time it is contemplated that the country will be on the way to better times and that the normal wage scale can be restored.

In return for this concession the railroads agreed to abandon their move to secure a 15 per cent wage reduction under the railway labor act, and to do everything possible to "maintain and increase railroad employment." The carriers did not bind themselves to put any definite number of men back to work. After extensive negotiations the brotherhoods decided to rely upon the good faith of the rail executives in carrying out their promise to relieve unemployment to the greatest possible extent. This confidence between employer and employe lends further tone to the cooperative spirit in which they are seeking to overcome their difficulties.

About $215,000,000 will be available to the railroads for improvement of facilities and strengthening of credit. The limited increase in freight rates allowed by the Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to add another $125,000,000 to operating revenue. As a result the railroads should be able to enter the market once more for much needed equipment and supplies. Business in general should feel this stimulus. Life insurance companies and savings banks which have more than $4,600,000,000 invested in railway securities immediately assume a stronger position.

The full extent of the benefits to be derived from this agreement can not be measured, however, in terms of dollars and cents. It signifies a willingness of great industrial groups to pull together toward better conditions. As Daniel Willard, head of the railroad presidents' committee, pointed out, this controversy might have "left bitterness where now there is friendship and harmony." Each group was actuated by a desire to aid in lifting the Nation out of the depression as well as to strengthen its own security. This commendable spirit may serve to mark a definite turn from disintegration to constructive recovery.

RELIEF FOR AGRICULTURE.

Little has been heard in the present session of Congress about farm relief, but this comparative silence seems to be merely a "lull before the storm." Farmers will not let the unemployed do all the complaining. It would be something of a miracle if Congress should adjourn without being confronted by the so-called "farm problem" in its most acute stages.

A delegation from the Western agricultural States, representing the Farmers' Union, is already in Washington preparing to unload its troubles upon Congress. This is doubtless the first contingent of an organized force of lobbyists that will descend upon the Capitol. As with one voice they will demand that "something be done." But what? Even the farmers do not have a clear picture of what Congress might do to relieve them. Within Congress there are almost as many ideas as to what should be done as there are members.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, has introduced a bill "to abolish the Farm Board and secure to the farmer a price for agricultural products at least equal to the cost of production." Here is the true Oklahoma spirit exemplified. Senator Thomas probably does not intend that his bill should be taken seriously in Congress. It makes a potent appeal to the weather-beaten farmers from the "forks and cricks" of the West, but the senator does not encourage them to look for salvation from his measure, because "the officials who run things here are all multimillionaires."

Some other assaults upon the Farm Board are planned, but most of them are sponsored by individuals who wish to punish the board because it failed to perform miracles. Every one must agree that the board's failure did not arise from lack of endeavor along that line. But how could the farmer be benefited by taking vengeance upon the Farm Board and forcing the liquidation of its large holdings of wheat, cotton and coffee? The excursions of the board into the fateful realm of stabilization ought not to obscure the constructive work that it has done in promoting cooperative marketing and in discouraging overproduction.

Under any circumstances a death warrant for the Farm Board could not be considered as a relief measure for farmers. What do they propose that Congress should do to improve their condition? Some agricultural organizations have revived the export debenture and the equalization fee, apparently because these are the only panaceas that have not been demolished by experimentation. Farmers who contemplate the disaster that followed the Farm Board's attempt to create artificial prices for surplus commodities must wince with misgivings every time they think of what might be the result of an agricultural bonus from the Government.

Since any aid in the form of price stabilization simply encourages farmers to overproduce to a still greater extent, what can Uncle Sam do? The Department of Agriculture and the Farm Board have joined in warning farmers against producing more than the available markets can absorb, and in organizing farmers for purposes of curtailment. Shall Congress counteract that good work by offering a subsidy to the overproducers?

Before farmers come to Washington demanding relief legislation it would be well for them to consider this ever-present enigma. Congress has already demonstrated that it knows of no magic formula by which prosperity can be restored to the farm without the farmers' cooperation. When organized agriculture is prepared to face the music on a sound economic basis, the Government may be in a position to extend further aid. In the meantime farmers will find little sustenance in the phantasies of reckless politicians.

RADICAL FUTILITY

From the Boston Transcript.

How a radical bloc functions when a partisan measure is under discussion and how helpless it is when legislators get together to discuss measures on their merits is well illustrated by the attempt to tack eleventh-hour amendments upon the resolution in the United States Senate which appropriates $500,000,000 to set in motion the machinery of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Had the radicals, whose names are so familiar, had their way, the corporation could not have loaned to corporations paying any official a salary of more than that of the Vice President of the United States—$15,000, perhaps to be reduced 10 or 20 per cent; loans would have been called upon all borrowing corporations reducing the wages of their employes earning less than $2,000 a year. To its credit, the Senate rejected, without a record vote, an amendment of King, of Utah, prescribing that the Reconstruction Corporation should not pay salaries in excess of any paid by other governmental agencies for similar work. Sympathy with some of these ideas was expressed by some senators that voted against these amendments, but they advanced the argument that to embody these restrictions in law would constitute such an invasion of private business as could not be defended.

The resolution as passed left the situation sweet and clean, with the inference that the officers of the corporation would exercise their judgment in the making of loans and would reject applications from concerns which obviously were wasting their money. The Senate, in its nonpartisan action, accepted the principle that the measure of a man's worth or of a corporation's wastefulness is not the salaries paid, but the quality of service rendered. An official paid $100,000 a year who can capably disburse $2,000,000,000 is cheaper than one paid $10,000 a year who does not know what it is all about. The head of a corporation which reduces salaries in accordance with its necessities is a better judge of its action than a law which arbitrarily lays down a rule to cover a case wherein wreckage might follow if the rule were to be followed.

We advert to this episode to demonstrate the advantages of nonpartisan and unprejudiced action where the Senate is left free to exercise its own judgment and is not impelled by partisan or personal prejudice to "put something over" on the administration. Until circumstances so grave as to threaten national disaster came about the Senate was operating under the bloc system. When it became sufficiently impressed that the danger was acute it refused to submit to the dictation of the gentlemen who supported the ridiculous proposals we have described. The Hoover program is receiving nonpartisan support because it does not take on a partisan character. Cooperation of this kind is the best thing for the country and good for both parties. But it has taken the Senate many years to appreciate that simple fact. The balance of the program should be enacted on the same lines, now it is discovered that a thing is not necessarily "progressive" because it is labeled as such.

POST HASTE.

Just as we began to fear Japan had militaristic designs, Tokyo issues an appeal to the powers "to persuade the Chinese to abandon warlike operations at Shanghai."

As an additional precautionary measure to insure the safety of her pacific policies, Japan should demand that the league's false teeth be scrapped.

But now and here if Wall street doesn't react to the bully news from Chicago that the railroad wage controversy has been peacefully settled, we are going to send for the Japanese bombers.

"With the smile that was childlike and bland," China again asks the league to take "effective measures to prevent Japanese aggression." The shade of Bret Harte must still think the "Chinee is peculiar."

If the Geneva conference meeting today is sincere in its desire to prevent war it will begin by disarming Japan.

The world is beginning to think that Japan not only considers treaties and truces scraps of paper, but license to scrap.

This one can't be avoided: As futile as the resistance of Chinese infantry to Japanese naval guns and airplane bombs.

Consul General Cunningham reports that "at the time a bomb dropped through the roof of the building of the Methodist Church South a Japanese airplane was overhead, and the consensus of opinion was that the bomb came from the airplane." It is gratifying to learn that despite exciting events in Shanghai the powers of reason and observation have not been lost.

Americans sometimes smile at Poland's fears, but if Canada were Russia and Mexico were Germany, we might feel differently.

About 1,500,000 employes of 210 leading railways agree to give up 10 per cent of their wages during the next twelve months. It will amount to $210,000,000, and if the roads add twice that amount and spend it promptly for needed supplies, both labor and capital will be helped.

If His Thoughts Are Fixed on Gandhi, He Overlooks the Needy at Home.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is no arbitrary or accepted standard by which to measure the importance of your interests.

Certain things seem important to you because environment, training or self-interest gave them a prominent place in your thoughts.

Our vanity endows with supreme importance the thing on which we choose to fix our attention, and brushes aside as of little consequence the things that fail to engage our interest.

Yesterday you talked and thought and dreamed about your school work and nothing else on earth seemed of equal importance. Today your thoughts are fixed on your job or your health or your love affair, and this has become the one matter of vital significance.

There is nothing important but thinking makes it so.

War or politics, bridge or religion, depression or prohibition—it is for the moment the thing of greatest importance because you have developed the habit of thinking about it.

The fact that things are made important merely by being held in mind explains the zeal of the propagandist. The man who can hold your attention has you tied to his chariot wheel.

Before the great war, few Americans gave thought to the affairs of other nations: We were a provincial people, content to mind our own business.

War propaganda taught us new habits. We heard much about the great heart of America and America's duty to the world. We developed a messiah complex. We couldn't enjoy a beefsteak for thinking of the starving and downtrodden across the ocean who needed our bounty.

Once formed, the habit stuck. Today we are partisans of the Bolsheviki, Gandhi or the Chinese. We are anti-Fascist, anti-Hitler or anti-France. Our thoughts, prejudices and compassions are reserved for people far away. We are deeply engrossed in matters that don't concern us and have lost the knack of attending to our own business.

Statesman and citizen, high and low, we are enslaved by a mental habit. The affairs of other lands seem all important because we have thought about them too much.

Find a citizen quick to defend Gandhi, Mussolini or Hitler and usually you have one who has forgotten to be a good American.

You can't serve two masters. If you would save America, free your mind of its slavery to matters that don't concern you.

That an additional tax be levied on heavy motor buses and trucks, particularly those of the common carrier type which have been cutting in so heavily on railroad incomes.

Ordinarily, not knowing just what either of the two is, when it comes to basing an opinion upon the party platforms, the average citizen is left to his own devices in arriving at the differences. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Bad Effect of Gangster Movies Upon Idle and Feeble-Minded.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Statistics show that we have had a colossal increase in crime in the past few years, and that there is a rapidly growing army of vicious and violent criminals in nearly every section of the country. Now what are the causes? The causes are many, but I am just going to designate one of the supreme causes, and that is gangster pictures, which are being featured in every theater, and which the public at large devours with fervent zeal.

Many people attribute the increase in crime to the present economic depression. Yes, that has somewhat to do with it, both directly and indirectly. When desperately depressed, despondent and hungry people spend their last dime to go to a movie, and see one of these gangster pictures, it no doubt poisons their minds and conveys to them many foul ways by which a little easy money can be obtained.

It is true, most of these pictures depict a bad ending for the villian or crook, but do most people give much thought to what the end may be? Emphatically no! In the meantime, they picture the amusing time they can have with the money, and, if they are found out, at least they have had a glimpse of the high life money offers. And then they think they may not be as unfortunate as the criminal on the screen. They'll try to be a little more discreet. This is what these crook pictures convey to undeveloped and slightly unbalanced minds, and we have many.

Rural Carrier Protests Against Statement That They Engage in Side Business.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Just a few words of comment about your editorial, "Postoffice Waste," which appeared January 27.

Granting that $40,000,000 annually may be wasted through the use of 42,000 odd rural carriers, mention any department of our great Government that contacts each day one-half as many citizens as the rural letter carriers of the Postoffice Department.

The statement that rural carriers are allowed to engage in transportation of passengers for profit is contrary to postal laws and regulations. Not only are they debarred from transporting for profit but even for courtesy. Being a subscriber to your paper I am deeply hurt that you should publish such an incorrect and misleading statement. It can do a great deal of harm.

If the writer of the editorial will make arrangements to travel one day around a typical and average rural route with me, I shall see that he is properly sworn in by the postmaster and further promise that on his return to Washington he will think Senator King's bill a little strenuous. In reality, the editorial does the carrier more harm than Senator King ever intended. Stick with us one day. If my route is not convincing, there are 25 other routes in Loudoun County to choose from.

As a rural carrier it rather hurts to be called something that we aren't.

Automobiles Tags, "We Want Beer!" Stirs Resentment in a Patriot's Breast.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am not naturally a pessimist, but I must say that the politics of the present is at times calculated to make me one. On leaving the house this morning my eye was attracted by a conspicuous tag on an automobile parked up the street, said tag being lettered with the wet slogan, "We want beer!" It is factory-made, and so I suppose numbers of such tags are being supplied for the use of antiprohibition crusaders. Every good citizen should be thinking about the serious economic and international questions just now troubling the Government, and under the circumstances it doesn't look encouraging if we are to have a political fleet of beer-tagged automobiles scattered throughout the country. It wouldn't look quite so bad if this was only a thoughtless show of surplus animal spirits by young America. But it does seem very much so when they take pains to make us understand that they "want beer" in the name of Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln, as well as Raskob and the ghost of old Jim Booze himself. A little wine for the stomach's sake is very well in moderation, but beer as a political issue is not good for the body politic. Now, can you blame me if I feel a little bit like getting pessimistic?

COURAGE.

The little lady, old and gray,
Still had a lovely smile for all
And many a cheery word to say
When people came to call.

And if you stopped beside her gate
In summer, autumn or the spring,
Your coat lapel she'd decorate
With some gay bit of blossoming.

We thought of her as always gay
And lovely as a sunny morn,
Who smiled our bitterness away,
And yet herself no care had born.

She showed no scar of injuries old
And never mentioned hurts she'd known,
She listened to the woes we told;
Deep hidden kept her own.

Yet out of sorrow's bitterest hours,
And out of heartache and distress,
The little lady raised her flowers
And earned that smile of loveliness.

5,000 COAL MINERS STRIKE ON WAGE CUT

Ohio Hocking Valley District Quiet After Walkout; Situation Watched.

Athens, Ohio, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Quiet prevailed over the Hocking County coal field today as 5,000 miners quit work in opposition to a reduction in wages put into effect by mine operators.

The miners, employed at 35 bituminous shafts in the Hocking Valley field, did not report for work today, preferring to remain at their homes rather than accept a wage scale of $3 a day for day workers and 38 cents an hour for loaders.

Cautioned by their leaders not to show or advocate any violence, the diggers stayed away this morning, and throughout the day the quiet continued. Only one mine in the territory was in operation today. It was the Ohio Colleries Co. shaft at Drydock. This company has announced it will maintain the prevailing wage scale.

Officers Watch Situation.

Meanwhile, National Guard officers at Columbus were watching the situation and were prepared to meet any eventuality in the field. National Guard observers have been here for several days.

Quiet also prevailed in the Tuscarawas County fields, where last week several men were accused of wrecking the ignition systems of several automobiles. The difficulties in this field were based on attempts to organize nonunion mines.

Only one untoward incident occurred throughout the vast Ohio coal fields. A bomb was exploded alongside the home of E. B. McNichol, superintendent of the Columbiana Coal Co., at Salineville. Mayor H. R. Cameron said he believed the bomb was the result of recent clashes between union and nonunion workers. Mr. McNichol and members of his family escaped unhurt. Damage to the house was slight.

Recognizing Russia Opposed.

Indianapolis, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America, in a resolution adopted here today, took the position that recognition of Soviet Russia should be withheld until that government concedes the right of the American people to manage their own affairs.

The miners also adopted by a unanimous, rising vote a resolution pledging themselves to do their utmost in securing the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill in Congress.

Resolutions on unemployment insurance, Federal regulation of the coal industry and the principle of Government acquisition of basic industries were adopted.

Sundry other resolutions were considered while awaiting reports of the important scale and constitution committees. The wage question is expected to come up at tomorrow's session. A general policy for the bituminous field will be determined by the convention. Contracts will expire in Indiana, Illinois and several other States within the next few months. Two years ago each district was instructed to obtain the best possible contracts with the coal operators mittee, one of five outstanding committees, could not progress unless it also took into account how the last war is to be paid for.

In some European delegations there seemed to be a feeling that America's participation in the Disarmament Conference would offer an opportunity to get the United States on record in this question, which it allegedly sidestepped by declining to participate in the proposed Lausanne discussions.

Will Stand Aloof.

American delegates were quick, however, to inform American correspondents—without specifically referring to this question—that on all problems affecting Europe or one group of conference participants only, the United States delegates would stand aloof. This was taken to be a clear hint that America would not be drawn into the reparations issue.

Among the mass of impediments before the delegates are several clearly defined points of conflict and, alternately, a few hopeful rays.

One group of beclouding factors involves the traditional French, German and the Russian policies.

The long-recognized stanchness of French demands for security has led to a strongly supported charge that France is the chief obstacle to success of this February conference.

France, on the other hand, insists that:

Her compulsory military service has been reduced from three years to one.

Her overseas army has been cut by almost 75,000 men.

Her air force construction program has been retarded.

And that she will go as far as any nation toward pledges against a mutual aggressor for international security.

But German marshals against this a foreign policy of determination to free herself of Versailles Treaty bonds and submits these figures:

Land forces: France, 578,000; Germany, 100,500.

Naval strength: France, 628,693 tons; Germany, 125,780 tons.

Air forces: France, 2,375 military planes; Germany, none.

Russia Has Broad Scheme.

Russia enters this confusing picture with a broader scheme than any other nation for disarmament, but faces a disposition of several great powers to "doubt Soviet sincerity." The Russian plan, supported by the Turkish delegation, and broadly by the Germans, is, tersely:

An original plan for complete, immediate disarmament for all, modified perforce to a scheme "for partial and gradual reduction." The preparatory commissions turned its back on this plan, which also contemplates, (1) proportional reduction; and (2) a numerical coefficient for the general arms cut fixed in the draft convention of the conference.

These conflicting factors are but one group and do not even touch upon the Franco-Italian naval impasse.

The conference will open tomorrow afternoon, but is expected to limp along for the first few days. It semeed almost certain tonight that the sessions would be postponed until Thursday after the opening address by Arthur Henderson, British president of the conference, and a few words by Dr. Giuseppe Motta, president of Switzerland.

Civilization and the Police

By H. G. WELLS

ONE might write a history of civilization in terms of police and public order, in which attention would be concentrated throughout upon the growth of organized controls and protections in the developing body politic. I can not decide in my own mind which is most symbolical of social organization, a lighthouse, a cadastral map, a ship's wireless apparatus or a traffic policeman. But I incline to think it is the traffic policeman. The stage is not so very remote—indeed, it is still theoretically in existence in most countries—in which every man was expected to do his share in keeping order, suppressing fires and performing similar public duties whenever he was called upon. Sheriffs, constables and so forth, came into existence primarily as directors and marshals of the common effort and became the nuclei of special forces only by degrees. In the small highly localized, toilsome but uneventful countryside community of the past, there were few real strangers, crimes were almost family events, and the necessity for an organized control of such things as traffic, public cleanliness, and personal safety did not appear. The great towns of medievalism in Europe, India and China were dark, insanitary, dangerous tangles, and it did not seem they could ever be anything else. But the change in human methods of communication which has made all the world neighbors has conversely made the man in the street a stranger, and the organization of his protection and direction struggles to overtake the sweeping reconstruction of our homes and ways and roads that is now in progress.

* * * *

The city, to begin with, we may note, was a planned and unified affair. It centered on the arx, it was walled and well organized, the brain and heart of a small countryside. The typical Greek city was this; even Rome was this in its beginnings. The sanitary planning of kingly Rome or Cnossos was sound and adequate. But so soon as political organization enlarged to the scale of kingdoms and empires, cities began to lose their figures and spread. It is only now that the modern architect and the modern policeman are setting out to get these vast, loose, flabby monsters into shape again.

* * * *

THE story of the modern police, after the historical retrospects usual in such studies, would begin in good earnest in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Crime and mob were getting out of hand during that period with the growth of a larger economic framework that admitted of quicker escapes, ampler hiding places and less controllable gatherings. A large part of police duty was, to begin with, repressive. Mobs out of hand, rioting was a marked and distinctive feature of eighteenth—and early nineteenth—century history. The first French Revolution became a riot on a large scale until a whiff of grapeshot cleared the streets. The nineteenth century saw the steady development of a police not simply of repression but of order. Any history of police would have to note continually the steady increase of directive duties and the relative diminution of a more primitive repressive functions. Less and less does a modern police constrain us to do this or that, and more and more does it become a service of specialists associated with the layout of roads and habitations, dissolving congestions, arresting annoyances, averting dangers, assisting people to do what their education has presumably disposed them to do.

* * * *

I think in an encyclopedic expansion of this present survey there might be a long and interesting chapter on fire-fighting, tracing its organization from primitive neighborly helpfulness to the splendid discipline and equipment of today. In the uneventful life of the newspaper-less past a fire was not without its consolation of excitement. It must have stirred up everybody and been a nine-days' wonder. People must have talked of all they did and thought and felt. And who set the place alight? The Cloth Hall of the town of Traxted in Essex still preserves the iron hooks on long poles that were once used to drag the thatch from burning houses, and some of the water buckets that were passed from hand to hand along the street. From that sort of thing we have ascended stage by stage to the watchtowers and ever-ready engines and fire escapes of a modern great city.

* * * *

AND the ordinary man in the street is no longer a helper but a nuisance at a fire. Precautions against fire were admitted very reluctantly to the list of public functions. The earlier fire brigades were paid to keep up to the mark by insurance companies. Great fires sweeping away whole quarters of the congested cities of the time, are normal incidents in the history of the Middle Ages. They are much less important relatively under contemporary conditions. It is lamentable to note how much of the records of the art, literature and science of the past has been destroyed by fire. The Great Fire or London swept out of existence all the apparatus of Gilbert, the most interesting of all our scientific pioneers. Fires at Dantzig, Copenhagen and Petersburg did much to diminish the tale of early telescopes, and all Volta's original apparatus was destroyed by a fire at Como. Priestley's library and apparatus were destroyed by mobs in 1791, another aspect of inadequate protection.

* * * *

The agglomeration of the modern community in cities, residential districts and organized areas of production, not only created a new need for systematic regulation and protection but raised also another set of problems through its wearing out of its fabric and its accumulation of waste material. In addition to the activities of constructors, engineers, builders, furnishers, and the like, in addition to the activities of police and firemen, there are the perpetual repairing and replacement of material that go on, the wrecking and removal of outworn buildings and other structures, the removal of debris, the dustbin and the dust destructor. There is a vast industry of salvage in the modern social organism. I am told by a competent adviser that the Waste Trade, considering altogether, is the fifth greatest industry in England. It salvages everything from old iron, rusted girders, scrapped machinery and brick rubble, to bottles, bones, rags, worn-out tires. It is a filthy and at present ill-organized service in which much sweating, insanitariness and dishonesty prevail.

* * * *

THE defilement of scenery is one of the minor evils that arise from the ill regulated extrusion of waste materials. I would like to give a picture of that once beautiful corner, the Point de Nice at Grasse, to illustrate that point. The picture would not reek and smell, however, and so it would give only a very imperfect idea of how a backward municipality may still defile the world. This dump engenders a plague of flies and forms a sort of club and prowling place for a miscellany of mongrel dogs. In the Middle Ages waste and debris lay where they fell; filth and rubbish were everywhere, but they were diffused. The effort to banish these offenses precedes the effort to destroy them and leads to hideous concentrations. While I cry aloud at the Point de Nice, my friend Bernard Shaw bewails with equal bitterness of dumping of London rubbish at Welwyn.

CAPONE AID'S FLIGHT BARES MISSING PASS

Officials of the county jail had not been questioned long before it was disclosed that a visitor's pass issued to relatives of Neil Montague for January 24 had been removed mysteriously from the warden's files and used without authorization when Montague walked out yesterday.

Montague, collector of beer receipts for the imprisoned gang leader, escaped in the hat and overcoat of his brother, Stanley, who allowed himself to be locked up. Stanley faced possibility of life imprisonment if he should be tried on the kidnaping charge pending against his brother, as Illinois law permits.

One in Series of Uproars.

The brotherly substitution was only another of a series of uproars in officialdom since Capone was taken to the jail pending approval of his income tax conviction. Periodic reports that he has been shown favoritism have usually resulted in sterner regulations secluding him from members of his liquor syndicate.

Removal of the canceled pass from official files, upon which Warden David Moneypenny could throw no light, reminded Chicago a secret list of "public enemies," for whom warrants were to be issued, disappeared from the detective bureau a year ago. It was found later in a Capone hangout during a raid, with the names of eight Capone men deleted.

Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the criminal court questioned jail officials and then directed State's Attorney John A. Swanson to seek indictments for conspiracy to help Montague escape.

Montague's brother and wife, and Joseph Casey, political worker who obtained the letter from Deputy Sheriff Frank Wright for use on January 24, might be involved if an indictment were returned, officials said.

Wide Search for Prisoner.

Casey was in custody as a witness, but Mrs. Montague was not. A wide search for the missing prisoner, who had been held without bond as a member of a Midwest kidnaping ring, was under way.

The brother, his hair dyed red like Neil's, continued alternately to deny complicity in the escape and to name reasons for compliance in it. He mentioned "threats from the gang," and denied he was "getting anything out of it."

MEMORIAL SERVICE HONORS ROSENWALD

Speakers at Lincoln Temple Church Pay Tribute to Philanthropist.

Exercises in memory of the late Julius Rosenwald were held last night under auspices of the Rosenwald Memorial committee at Lincoln Temple Congregational Church, where addresses were made by Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University; Dr. Abram Simon, representative Oscar DePriest, Judge William C. Hueston, Dr. Ernest E. Just, Garnet C. Wilkinson and the Rev. W. H. Jernagin. Bishop E. D. W. Jones presided.

An expression of appreciation of 612,295 colored youth, benefited by Rosenwald philanthropy through organization of 5,756 rural schools in the South, and their incorporation in the departments of education of the various States, was presented by Mr. Wilkinson. Dr. Just expressed his gratitude that Mr. Rosenwald made possible his work in scientific research.

Rabbi Simon compared the spirit of Rosenwald with that of Lincoln, both of whom were natives of Springfield, Ill., declaring that the philanthropist was "so imbued with the atmosphere and reared under the aura of Lincoln that he realized his ideal of justice, mercy and humility." Judge Hueston illustrated the life of Rosenwald as a challenge to all men to be above their prejudices in affording opportunity to all. This idea was enlarged upon by Representative DePriest, who gave examples of diversified philanthropy of Rosenwald, in Chicago, throughout the State of Illinois and throughout America.

"Mr. Rosenwald's gifts of money to Negro education," Dr. Johnson said, "were the material outflowing of a generous heart, simply and deeply interested in Negro welfare. All of us who came into contact with him personally knew that he was just as willing to invest his time and energy as he was to invest his money, and we have learned long ago to add to our gratefulness for his gifts a genuine feeling of affection for his earnest and continuous interest in every phase of Negro life and welfare.

"Insofar as he turned the hearts of Southern white public men to have increasing concern for the Negro, insofar as he turned the heart of the Negro with gratitude and increasing confidence toward the public life, he has carried forward the work of Abraham Lincoln, sharing his purpose and spirit. In the coming years the name of Rosenwald will be remembered and loved by Negro people and by white people of this Nation along with the name of Lincoln."

SPEAKERS URGE NAVY AMPLE FOR DEFENSE

Women's Conference Hears Doak and Stevens Plead for Protection.

A plea for a Navy large enough to safeguard the country's interest and to keep unsullied the respect for the flag was sounded last night by Henry L. Stevens, jr., national commander of the American Legion, to the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense.

Those who are advocating total disarmament in this country were sharply criticized by Secretary of Labor Doak, who placed them in the same category with "those, who, not so many years ago, in the face of imminent danger did what they could to make it hard for the United States vigorously to conduct a war that was froced upon it by aggression of a foreign power."

In discussion of subversive alien elements in the country, Secretary Doak attacked those "who are doing what they can to defend the activities of men and women whose effort it is to disrupt this country." He divided these aliens into two classes. The first, being those who came here for the expressed purpose of preaching the overthrow of the Government, and the second class, being those who break the law intended to protect life and property.

Pleads for Adequate Navy.

Mr. Stevens told the assemblage in Constitution Hall that "the poor old Regular Army has been reduced to where the National Guard is now in the first line of defense. The legion is not begging for a big Navy, but the legion is begging, believing that we know the facts, that our sea power, that thing upon which we depend to repress an invading foe, should be adequate, that it should be sufficient to safeguard your interests and protect your home."

Pursuing his attack of the extreme pacifists, Secretary Doak said: "There are some people in this country, a good many of them, who, despite dictionaries, insist on interpreting the word 'defense' as meaning 'offense.' Our Army and Navy have been formed for defensive purposes. All I think that the protective societies of this country ask is that our country should be in a position at all times to defend its liberty and its property. In this position I agree with them whole-heartedly."

Alluding to alien radicals in this country, he characterized them as "borers from within." "It is my belief," he said, "that there would be fewer attempts at open propaganda against our institutions by these aliens if they were not assured always of quick and ready defense from certain Americans and American institutions."

No Desire for Conquest.

Secretary Doak declared that "we have no desire for any one's property, but we do have a desire to protect our own, and, of course, we can not give this protection unless we have the means of protection. So far as the great national defense is concerned, that is, as it affects our land and sea forces, there is nothing to suggest offense. It is purely a defensive feeling which animates the majority of our people when the interests of the country, as a country, are under consideration."

The recent conviction of eight leaders of the Communist movement in Canada was described by Norman Sommerville, king's counsel, of Toronto, Canada, who conducted the prosecution. He also narrated the experiences of Sergt. John Leopold, of the Royal Canadian mounted police, who exposed the Communist movement in Canada after working for the party, under the guise of a party member, for seven years.

Bill Would Stop Radio Advertising on Sundays

(Associated Press.)

Commercial announcements would be barred over the radio on Sundays under a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Amlie (Republican), of Wisconsin.

"I do not see why they should seek to commercialize every minute on Sunday as well as on the rest of week," Amlie said. "Business on the whole respects the Sabbath. Why should not the broadcasters be made to respect our finer sensibilities on that one day of the week even though their earnings for that day be slightly reduced?"

After questioning him for two hours yesterday, the committee, composed of Senators Schall (Republican, Minnesota, and Walsh (Democrat) Montana, decided not to announce its decision until a full meeting of the judiciary committee.

The questioning of Jonas centered mainly around newspaper articles quoting him as having sharply criticized Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, and his campaign expenditures committee two years ago in connection with the North Carolina election.

Miss Elsie Tuckerman Wed To Benjamin H. C. Biays, Jr.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Tuckerman, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Tuckerman, to Benjamin H. C. Biays, jr., formerly of Cumberland, Md., took place yesterday afternoon in the pretty chapel of St. Joseph of Arimathea, of the Washington Cathedral. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop, assisted by the Rev. Joseph E. Williams, rector of St. John's Church, of Bethesda, Md., where the Tuckerman family worship. The chapel had a simple embellishment of calla lilies in the tall vases in the chancel, and because of the limited seating capacity only the families of the bride and bridegroom were witnesses of the ceremony. Mr. Edgar Priest, organist of the Cathedral, played a recital during the seating of the guests, and for the entrance of the bridal party he played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a princesse gown of heavy ivory satin, the long train of which had a flounce of rose point lace worn by her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Abercrombie-Miller, and by the bride's mother on their wedding gowns. The cowl neck of the gown had a vest of old pointe de neige lace, worn by the bridegroom's mother and other brides in his family on their bridal gowns. The long, tight sleeves had cuffs of the lace, and it also formed a cap from which the tulle veil fell to the end of the train. The veil was edged with point lace, and the bridal bouquet was a sheaf of calla lilies.

The bride's attendants were her sister, Miss Laura Tuckerman, who wore peach-color lace made long and full and with a cape effect, with a small hat of peach-color ribbon and carrying Talisman roses held with wide, long turquoise blue ribbon, and Miss Ruth Tuckerman, another sister of the bride; Miss Helen de Peyster, cousin of the bride; Miss Louise Brooks and Miss Christine Ekengren. They all wore gowns of turquoise blue lace made in similar fashion to the maid of honor, with small hats of blue grosgrain ribbon with bows at the sides of peach color, also similar to that of the maid of honor. They all carried arm bouquets of Talisman roses tied with peach-color ribbons. Miss Alice Noel Tuckerman and Miss Margaret Cary Tuckerman, the two little sisters of the bride, were flower girls and wore frocks of point d'esprit made in the same fashion as the bridesmaids, and carried old-fashioned round bouquets of sweetheart roses.

Mr. Biays had for his best man his brother, Mr. John Sheridan Biays, of this city, and the ushers were Mr. Gale H. McLean, Mr. Thomas J. Mills, Mr. John H. Greenway and Mr. James Biays, jr., cousin of the bridegroom.

A small reception followed the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Tuxeden, in Edgemoor, Md., the parents of the bridegroom receiving with the parents of the bride. Mrs. Tuckerman wore a gown of black velvet with yoke and cuffs of flesh-tinted lace, with black hat trimmed with black ostrich feathers and a sable scarf and corsage bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Biays was in brown velvet with brown hat and wore a corsage bouquet of spring flowers.

Tuxeden was decorated with Talisman roses, spring flowers and palms and ferns and a string orchestra played in the sun parlor. After the reception and buffet supper the bride and bridegroom left for a month's wedding trip after which they will be at home in Philadelphia.

CAPPER SAYS CHEST IS CITIZENSHIP TEST

$500,000 Yet to Be Raised for Full 1932 Quota of $2,601,000.

Voicing an appeal to residents of Washington to help raise the additional half million dollars which will put the Community Chest quota over the top, Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the District committee, told his audience over WRC last night that in the appeal for the $2,601,000 asked of the Chest is "presented the supreme test of the citizenship of Washington."

"The appeal of the Community Chest extends into all parts of the community and to every citizen," he said. "No one can dodge the responsibility of helping and helping adequately his fellow citizen in need. Indeed there should be only two classes in Washington now, only two parties—those who give and those who receive. All Washingtonians can certainly unite in the cause of love of one's fellow men."

Senator Capper declared that the $2,601,000 goal seemed to be reasonable in view of the development of the unemployment situation in the District and of the services which must be rendered during the current year to people in all kinds of need.

Clergymen on Program.

Other speakers on the program who pointed out the extensive activities of the Chest and told of the emergency which it is meeting at this time were: Dr. Abram Simon, Rabbi of the Hebrew Congregations of Washington; the Right Rev. John N. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of the Baltimore diocese, and the Right Rev. William F. McDowell, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Elwood Street, director of the Chest, acted as master of ceremonies, and made a few pertinent remarks about the crisis now faced by the Chest, asking help in a situation which affects the lives of "all Washingtonians."

Seriousness Not Realized.

Every mode of attack that can be devised by the Community Chest board of strategy will be put into operation by the Chest "army" today and tomorrow in an effort to raise that last half-million dollars that stands between the "army" and success Wednesday night. This was decided at yesterday's meeting at the Willard Hotel after the various units had reported only $52,218.12 for the day, bringing the total to date to $2,100,029.31. The minimum goal set for the Chest by the budget committee is $2,601,000.

"I can not yet believe that Washingtonians realize the real seriousness of the situation," Campaign Chairman Edward F. Colladay said. "Thinking people must realize that unless we meet this need that has come upon our city, there is going to arise the necessity for meeting it with public funds and that this means increased taxes on all of our homes."

Clarence A. Aspinwall, chairman of the special gifts unit, yesterday reported $5,860 for his group; Sidney F. Taliaferro, chairman of the schools unit, reported $979.17 for the day; H. L. Rust, jr., chairman of the metropolitan unit, reported $18,990.95; Lloyd B. Wilson, chairman of the group solicitation unit, reported $26,388; the total for the day being $52,218.12, making the total to date $2,100,029.31, leaving a balance of $500,970.69 to be raised by Wednesday night.

An amusing feature of the report of the metropolitan unit was the presentation by Thomas J. Groome of a black cat, named Mount Vernon, which was presented to his division by the Nu-Grape Co. as a mascot with the assurance that it would bring good luck and insure the division's reaching its quota. The cat will be auctioned off today, with the understanding that it goes to some one who will give it a good home.

Section 1066, C. R. Kurtz, chief, has raised $4,845, or 220 per cent of its quota, being the highest section in the group solicitation unit announced at yesterday's campaign meeting at the Willard Hotel. The next nine highest sections of the unit follow:

Section 10312, J. E. Anderson, chief, $18,378, or 125 per cent of quota; section 1064, T. J. Groom, chief, $1,672, or 124 per cent of quota; section 10313, Dr. G. E. McGann, chief, $7,062, or 109 per cent of quota; section 1013, D. L. Luxford, chief, $3,455, or 106 per cent of quota; section 1016, C. A. Stott, chief, $8,074, or 102 per cent of quota; section 1065, L. P. McLachlen, chief, $5,816, or 95 per cent of quota; section 1062, W. J. Waller, chief, $2,694, or 93 per cent of quota; section 1045, Robert Dugan, chief, $1,476, or 85 per cent of quota, and section 1037, B. A. Harlan, chief, $5,537, or 83 per cent of quota.

The ten teams of the Metropolitan unit, which have raised the highest per cent of their quotas to date, were reported at yesterday's luncheon as follows:

Team 2243, Mrs. J. V. Brownell, chairman, $7,048, 280 per cent of quota; team 2251, Maurice Maser, chairman, $2,605, or 188 per cent of quota; team 2344, Dr. Raymond Hutchinson, chairman, $1,316, 139 per cent of quota; team 2343, Charles Krey, chairman, $417, 135 per cent of quota; team 2262, William Hanson and Wilmer Stickle, chairmen, $1,996, 121 per cent of quota; team 2363, Frank M. Dent chairman, $803, 108 per cent of quota; team 2324, J. F. Carlson, chairman, $655, 104 per cent of quota; team 2252, Miss Leah Levin, chairman, $1,189, or 99 per cent of quota; team 2352, W. J. Toomey, chairman, $1,530, 86 per cent of quota, and team 2261, Henry L. Gessford, $2,035, 78 per cent of quota.

Harrison Begins Duties As Virginia Prosecutor

Winchester, Va., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Burr Powell Harrison, successor to T. Russell Cather as Commonwealth's attorney for Frederick County, today began the discharge of his duties, faced by a crowded calendar.

There are 31 indictments to be sought by the State against alleged chicken thieves and those charged with prohibition law violations. Robberies and forgeries are also on the list. It is expected that more than 100 witnesses will be called before the grand jury.

Sheriff Farley Accused Before New York Jury

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Evidence that Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, Tammany official, appropriated for his own use the interest which accumulated on money he held in trust for court litigants, was presented today to a grand jury. Twenty witnesses were called.

It was the first direct indication the grand jury would investigate the sheriff, as it already has his predecessor, former Sheriff Charles W. Culkin. Farley claims he has a legal right to the interest and has said he would continue to take it until a ruling is made.

TEMPLE SISTERHOOD MAKES PEACE PLEA

Dr. Simon Says Workers Should Not Falter at Far East Events.

With war clouds gathering in the Far East, the Sisterhood of the Eighth Street Temple conducted a peace and disarmament program yesterday, celebrating the twenty-seventh anniversary of the founding of their organization. The members were told by Dr. Abram Simon, rabbi of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, that in spite of the grave situation in China "workers for disarmament and peace should keep on dreaming and planning and aspiring."

Dr. Simon admitted that disarmament is an embarrassing subject to discuss at the present time. "But are we to lose hope because the sun is temporarily clouded?" he asked. "Is all the work on behalf of peace to go for naught?"

Admitting that we "stand more or less confounded by this specter in the East," Dr. Simon declared that plans for the disarmament conference at Geneva should go ahead. "No matter what happens between China and Japan we will deplore it for the sake of those two countries and for the sake of the world," he added.

A feature of yesterday's celebration was a presentation of dramatizations by Mrs. Reba Cohen, of Charleston, W. Va., written by herself. One was a plea for peace, showing a nurse at the side of a wounded soldier. A series of scenes portrayed the development of a girl who aspired to be a nurse. Mrs. Cohen displayed versatile histrionic ability, taking several parts in each of the playlets. She is a past president of the Council of Jewish Women and president of the State Federation of Jewish Women in West Virginia.

A number of spirituals were sung by the Glee Club of Howard University.

Mrs. Harry Lewis, president of the sisterhood, presided.

The sisterhood was founded by Mrs. Abram Simon, the year after Dr. Simon came to Washington. The sisterhood had planned to carry out a peace program in accordance with a request from the National Sisterhood before the trouble broke out between China and Japan.

Fletcher was convicted of unethical practice in that he disavowed an assignment he had given Herman Van Senden which purported to be on a claim he then had against the City of Cape May, N. J. His appeal will come up soon.

PSYCHIATRISTS TAKE STAND IN JUDD TRIAL

Accused Woman Described as Ignorant of Right and Wrong by Doctor.

Courthouse, Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Opening volleys in the battle of psychiatrists were fired by the defense today in the Winnie Ruth Judd murder trial after Dr. W. C. Judd had described his wife as a frustrated woman who "dwelt on thoughts of a child."

Dr. George W. Stephens, superintendent of the Arizona State Hospital for Insane, testified Mrs. Judd "did not know right from wrong" on last October 16, when Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson were slain.

"She has paranoid delusions, particularly in regard to people," Dr. Stephens said, adding that she still suffers from "dementia praecox with a paranoid fixation." The psychiatrist said the slender, bobbed-haired defendant had told him a number of things that he was satisfied were not true.

Dr. Judd, first witness of the day, told of his wife's plans for a child, which never materialized, and said that at times she seemed to believe she had a baby.

The trial was resumed today after a recess of several days due to the illness of two jurors and Mrs. Judd, who was suffering from a severe cold. Mrs. Judd, being tried on the indictment in the Leroi slaying, protested against resumption of the case and was threatened with being handcuffed before she abandoned her fight. Physicians had said she was able to return to the courtroom.

Dr. Judd said his wife was in a "disturbed" mental condition much of the time and that once after a "brainstorm" she started for Mexico City from Indianapolis and he finally found her in Phoenix.

THIN without starving

The Modern Way

Do you know that multitudes of people, nowadays, lose excess fat without starving? Look about you—note how slenderness prevails. Everywhere you see the amazing results of this new way of treating obesity.

Modern science has discovered that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. That gland secretion helps turn food to energy. When it is lacking, fat piles up and vim goes down.

Doctors, the world over, now feed that lacking factor to the over-fat. And the method has largely changed the world.

Marmola prescription tablets present this method in right form, at small cost. A famous medical laboratory prepares them for that purpose. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. The slender figures which surround you now are due largely to the factors in Marmola. Modern doctors know that.

No secrets about Marmola. A book in each box gives the formula—tells you exactly why the weight drops and vim comes up.

Go try this method. All other ways are bound to fail if this gland cause is not corrected. Ask your slender friends who have used Marmola. Go do what they did—now at all druggists.

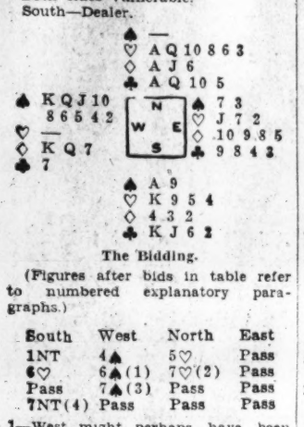
FREAK HANDS AND UNUSUAL BIDDING.

FREAK hands at Contract are the exception to the rule. They prove nothing except that they are exceptions, but because of that very fact they sometimes afford unusual and spectacular bidding, as well as remarkable results.

The hand below, played recently in a Duplicate match at Cleveland, is one of the few of which I have any knowledge that produced three Grand Slam bids and saw the making of a Grand Slam vulnerable by means of a squeeze play.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.



The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1NT	4♠	5♡	Pass
6♡	6♠ (1)	7♡ (2)	Pass
7NT (4)	Pass	Pass	Pass

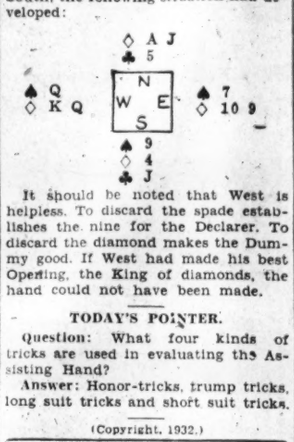
1—West might perhaps have been well advised to pass the six-heart bid. It is questionable whether a Grand Slam would have been bid against him. However, he can see a loss of not more than 3 tricks on the contract of six, which would be partially compensated by the honor bidding.

2—North reasons that South must certainly hold the Ace of spades in view of his Opening bid.

3—Fearful that North can make his Grand Slam contract, West continues with the idea of a sacrifice.

4—South refuses to give up the hope of the profit in a Grand Slam vulnerable for the lesser reward of defeating the Grand Slam in spades. His bid, while it succeeded, was extremely optimistic.

In the play, West opened the King of spades, which South, of course, won and then proceeded to cash 6 heart and 4 club tricks. Before the lead of the last club by South, the following situation had developed:



It should be noted that West is helpless. To discard the spade establishes the nine for the Declarer. To discard the diamond makes the Dummy good. If West had made his best Opening, the King of diamonds, the hand could not have been made.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Answer: Honor-tricks, trump tricks, long suit tricks and short suit tricks.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Earl Carroll Is Witness In Girl's $500,000 Suit

New York, Feb. 1 (AP.).—Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, was called as a witness today by counsel for Dorothy Knapp, show girl, in her $500,000 suit against Mrs. Anne Penfield, widow of the former American Ambassador to Austria. Mrs. Penfield, backed Carroll's production of "Fioretta," part of the music of which was composed by the late Romilly Johnson, a protege of Mrs. Penfield.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Jeanne Lanvin gives richness to her informal evening gowns in this manner.

New York, Feb. 1.—'Tis rumored in the smartest circles that the platinum blonde is demode! So if you aren't the original platinum blonde herself, be cheered to hear that this expensive and charming eccentricity is no longer absolutely essential to your happiness.

In fact, a certain famous and lovely baroness who was one of the first to turn her stylish locks to white, (I mean platinum) was seen at her coiffeur's all but dissolved in well-bred tears because an attempt to turn her silver locks to something else resulted in a wild green—and she was faced with a choice of either having her head shaven like a wartime "rookie" or having her hair dyed a bitter black.

What price elegance!

Fashion French Pronunciation.

Let's just review all the fashion words as we write 'em every day, shall we? For instance, above I have written "demode." That word means the equivalent of "out of style," and is pronounced "day-mo-day" with the emphasis on the last syllable. Say it aloud, go ahead * * * so that it will trip off your little tongue with ease and smoothness.

Then there was "coiffure" which is so often confused with the word "coiffeur." They are spelled differently, but there is scarcely any difference in the way they are pronounced. "Coiffure," ("hairdress") is pronounced "kwaf-fure" with the "ah" sound given to the "a," and the "fure" just like the English word "fury" without a "y." While "coiffeur" which means the hairdresser himself, is pronounced "kawf-er." And of course, the emphasis is on the last half of the word for both the "coiffeur" (hairdresser,) and the results of his arts, the "coiffure" (hairdress).

The emphasis is all over the place on the fact that you can have six distinctly different and separate afternoon and informal dinner dresses by just merely sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for this week's illustrated leaflet!

How? By making the dress itself, which is a simply made but not at all a simple looking model, out of the two and a half yards of material that it just exactly takes; and then by making the five different sets of sleeves and matching gilet which go on a guimp and are worn with this dress. And the guimp goes onto the underskirt which makes a costume slip for the dress—and you have six dresses instead of one for half of what one would cost you without this leaflet! Better hurry, because this leaflet "hace mucho calor" if you want to know it, and is burning a hole in our desk right now!

The informal evening gown again—this time I have sketched two tops to this type of frock, both shown on black gowns cut with the greatest simplicity and art. These two gowns were in Lanvin's recent collection, the sleeves and top of the decollettage on the upper figure being of tubular black beads in a lighter weight composition that resembles jet, without its heaviness. The sleeves and little blouse effect which showed under the left-open belt in the front of the lower figure, were of supple and very brilliant lame (lah-may). 'Nif this doesn't give Clever Fingers some ideas!

"DISILLUSIONED."

DEAR Frances McDonald:

I hope that writing this letter may bring me help—and decision. I am afraid to marry the man I love. It has gone on from year to year. Yet when I think of the future I seem to think of him and of marriage—and no man means to me what he means. We have gone through everything, quarrels and misunderstandings, and now we are temporarily not seeing each other. But we will and, oh, how I hope you or some one who can advise will help me decide.

It seems that I should marry him—or no one. Because several years ago, in fact when very young, we made one very grave mistake. No one knows of it—not even my people. It was just one rash act, but I can not forget it. Yet I am afraid to marry him. Again I feel different when I stop to think that if any one ever knew I would be friendless. When I talk that way he always says he is ready to marry me if I will say the word. Should I marry and get this terrible burden off my mind? Or do I really want to marry him? This is what I really want to know. He says he will never marry any one but me, but I do not know what to do. Our mistake seemed to turn me against him.

Please help me to decide.

"PAULINE."

You are a bit unjust in blaming the man for what was as much your fault as his. Stop being morbid and unfair and marry. Life is a series of experiences. Learn as early as possible what to remember and what to forget. You can poison the future for yourself and this man you love if you persist in dwelling upon an incident that should be forever wiped from the slate.

As to your doubts, every intelligent mortal has doubts about marriage. Who wouldn't? A percentage of one divorce for every three marriages would make any one do a little doubting. But who on earth would want to live without some element of chance? Who would want to be sure of what tomorrow would bring forth? Any girl who has known and cared for one man for several years may be reasonably satisfied that their chances are as good as the other "two out of three." So make a start. The world belongs to the brave!

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m to 11 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 a. m. to 9:10 a. m. and from 2:15 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The practical producers of the world will be blessed by unusually propitious configurations on February 2, and their efforts will be both fruitful and clever. Plunges may be made into new undertakings with confidence, as the stars seem to smile on such attempts. Some danger to health is to be feared.

Children born on this February 2 will not be "clinging vines," and will not be perfectly content until they can strike out for themselves. They will love to argue and will be slow to admit that they are in the wrong. They will be quick, but none too thorough, workers. They will need to cultivate an even mind and temper.

Born February 2, you are highly strung with the mercurial temperament of an artist. That which would pass unnoticed by a more placid being throws you into an emotional storm or sets your nerves completely on edge. In general, you are fortified and consoled by a certain optimistic fatalism that eventually everything will turn out to your good.

You are unwilling to come close to others in terms of friendliness until you have tried and tested them by various means, and proven that they are incapable of giving offense to one of your keen sensitiveness and susceptibilities. It is difficult, however, to shake your loyalty, once you have taken any one to your heart.

Your mind is a mill of many ideas and the promoter of many plans, but it is difficult for you to make them of marketable value. Your talents need the backing of a more practical and business-like mind than you are able to give them. You can not help but express your originality and creative ability, even though it be only in some hobby. You are not careful about money matters, and it is not in you to save. If you be a woman, you have a passion for beautiful clothes and are unhappy if you can not have them. There is matrimonial happiness for you, if you learn not to expect too much perfection from your so-called "better half."

Successful people born February 2: Fritz Kreisler, violinist.

Knute Nelson, United States senator.

Benny Rubin, film artist.

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me why it is unwise to plant a small palm in a large pot. It woud eliminate the bother of transplanting the plant every eighteen months or two years.

MRS. GEORGE W.

If a palm is overpotted (use of too large a pot) the soil becomes sour very easily. A shift of one size at a time is enough. When transplanting be very careful not to injure the roots; but if this does occur, cut off the injured portion with a sharp knife, making a clean cut. Where the roots extend through the hole in the bottom of the pot, remove them so as to injure them as little as possible and cut away any broken portion. The new soil must be firmly packed about the new ball. To do this use a potting stick or your fingers. It is possible, of course, to get the soil too firm, but this is a mistake an amateur rarely makes. Keep the plant in a cool, rather shady place for the first week after transplanting.

Is it possible to grow cactus from seed? MARY G. K.

Yes. To grow castus from seed, sow the seed in any well-drained soil of the same texture as the soil you use for annuals. After germination give less water than for other seedlings, or the young plants may "burst," meaning that the skin will crack open, resulting in a scar that is permanent.

I have a genista which has flowered earlier than usual this year. When it is through flowering, what treatment should the plant have?

MRS. SIDNEY G. T.

After it is through flowering cut it back and shift it into a size larger pot and syringe it daily over the tops and roots until you are sure it is well established. Then give it plenty of air and a light shade. As soon as the weather permits, plunge the pot in your garden, but continue to water it daily. A genista must be given plenty of light and air, as it will mildew easily.

I have three old stevia plants which have outlived their usefulness. Is there any way of starting new plants before I discard them?

MRS. EDWARD F. T.

Yes. As soon as they are through flowering, which is usually about the end of January, take off cuttings, shifting them from time to time until you have them in 6-inch pots. When all danger of frost is past, plunge the pots outdoors in ashes. The pots must be continually turned to keep the plants from rooting through into the ground. Pinch out the ends of the shoots to induce a more bushy growth. Without this attention the plants will be sure to become leggy. When cold weather comes in the late fall, keep the plants in a cool but light place and bring them into a warm, sunny place in December.

I always fail with bouvardia cuttings. They do all right until I attempt to transplant them; then I usually lose all I have. Why is this?

LOUISE A. H.

Bouvardia is rather hard to transplant, so must be very carefully handled. After transplanting it keep it shaded for several days and be sure to keep it well syringed. The young plant may be cut back in late April and planted in the open as soon as all danger from frost is over and you know the soil is warm. Bouvardia is apt to be attacked by aphides. When this occurs syringe the plants with nicotine solution.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

GREEK-LIKE GRACE.

It is black sheer crepe. The seams are joined with black silk tagoting which by the way, may be bought all ready, and is quite as effective as hand fagotting. However, some may prefer the plain seaming, which is equally smart. Narrow white lace finishes the becoming neckline and interesting sleeves carrying out the fashionable black and white scheme.

Style No. 674 is designed for sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material with 2⅜ yards of lace edging.

Possible Democratic Choice Speaks on National Topics Before Kentuckians.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland told the Kentucky General Assembly today the Nation needed "a formula of home rule which will end the strain the eighteenth amendment has put upon our social and economic structure everywhere."

Senators and representatives, crowded in the House chamber, heard the Maryland executive outline his views on economic problems and prohibition. Gov. Ritchie came to the Bluegrass State in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination and by invitation of the Kentucky General Assembly. After greeting hundreds of Kentuckians in the State reception room and lunching with Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky at the executive mansion, he motored to Cincinnati to continue his homeward trip to Baltimore.

Candidacy Reference Avoided.

Gov. Ritchie was the second potential presidential candidate to visit Kentucky this year. Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, came to the Capital recently to argue for the freedom of the press in the suit of the Knoxville News-Sentinel against Judge Henry R. Prewitt, of Mount Sterling before the court of appeals.

The Maryland Governor's address, while not referring to his presidential ambitions, dealt almost entirely with national issues. He digressed once from his prepared text to comment on the budget system of Maryland. He remarked Maryland "fortunately" was in a sound financial position.

Citing the Nation's "unlimited resources" in a discussion of business problems, Gov. Ritchie said: "He must, indeed, have a little faith in his country or little vision who can not forsee a future greater and more comprehensive than ever."

Temperance Is Goal.

Discussing prohibition, Gov. Ritchie said he was not concerned whether the Nation "be wet or dry, but how can Government best deal with the problem in order to reach that goal which ought to be the objective of all of us, wets and drys alike—temperance and temperate living."

"More than ten years' of experience shows," he added, "that in this country of diversified peoples and diversified conditions you can not reach the goal of temperance by imposing a hard and fast constitutional limitation which will apply everywhere.

"I can see no way out," Gov. Ritchie said, "except by turning the question back to the States and up to the States with a Federal power limited to its sound constitutional function of seeing that the interstate phases of the subject are controlled so as to give effect in each State to the popular will of that State."

Rendezvous of Harding Deserted by Marion Club

Marion, Ohio, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Memories of the campaign of 1920 and of the benign personality of Warren G. Harding, flitted through the empty rooms of a large, white residence here today as members of the Marion Club moved into new quarters in the Hotel Harding.

The Marion Club, an organization of business and professional men which played an important part in the life of Harding, had occupied the home-like dwelling since 1901. It was here that Harding took a leading part in all community affairs, for the club initiated and cooperated in practically all civic projects. Here he met his "cronies" and passed away many a social hour while laying his foundation for his career.

Murderer of Wife Hanged.

Alexandria May Be Depot Of Atlantic Dirigible Line

A site near Alexandria, Va., is one of four under consideration as the Western terminus of a hugh transatlantic airship line, contemplated under a bill to encourage creation of such a transport agency, introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Robert Crosser (Democrat), Ohio.

Similar in purpose to the McNary-Parker bill, introduced at the last session of Congress, and the McNary bill, recently put forward in the Senate, the Crosser bill would apply the steamship code developed during the last 80 years to aircraft plying the ocean.

The plan, still in embryo, looks to use of airships somewhat larger than the Akron, with carrying capacity of from 60 to 100 passengers. They would cross the Atlantic in two and a half days.

According to Commander J. C. Hunsaker, vice president of the International Zeppelin Corporation, terminals would be located inland from the coast, between Philadelphia and Richmond.

Besides the Alexandria site, three others have been located tentatively, he said. One is near Richmond, one in the Baltimore area, and one near Philadelphia, he indicated. No decision will be reached on the site pending action of Congress.

3 FAMILIES EVICTED AS POLICE HALT RIOT

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—While agitators shouted "Down with police cossacks!" and police skirmished with unruly crowds, a crew of Negro laborers today carried the furniture of three "rent striking" families out of a Bronx apartment house and piled it on the sidewalk.

Six men and a woman were arrested. Police, who formed an aisle for the perspiring movers, said the woman urged the crowd to attack them. As she was hustled into the patrol wagon, she cried hysterically that there was no one to care for her baby.

The woman and the six men late in the day were fined $5 each, but chose the alternative of a two-day jail sentence. Neighbors had taken care of the baby.

Allerton avenue in the congested Bronx neighborhood was a milling mass of excited humanity, with the uniforms of 25 police and six mounted patrolmen standing out among them. Fifty detectives mingled with the crowd.

The Negro laborers were carrying out eviction orders against the Perlstein, Kalmas and Newmark families, called by apartment owners leaders of a strike for lower rents. That movement caused a riotous demonstration several days ago.

As the first furniture loads came down, two of the workmen were set upon by the crowd. They dropped their burdens and fled.

The first skirmish occurred at the entrance of the Communist Cooperative Community across the street from the movers, a huge tenement pile covering four square blocks. Fists flew and police clubs swung, as the crowd swayed and pushed. Four men were arrested.

Another clash came 15 minutes later and two more were arrested. The woman was loaded into the patrol wagon as she started to lead a third outbreak, police said.

Eleven more families are scheduled for eviction this week.

Arizona Asks Retention Of Two Posts on Border

Nogales, Ariz., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Cancellation of plans for abandonment of Camp Stephen D. Little and Camp Harry J. Jones at Douglas, Ariz., as United States Army posts on the Mexican border, will be sought by personal intercession at Washington, H. R. Sisk, president of the Nogales Chamber of Commerce and E. K. Cumming, chairman of the Santa Cruz County Republican committee, left for the Capital yesterday.

The War Department's recently announced retrenchment policy provided troops would be maintained in Arizona only at Fort Huachuca, 20 miles on an airline from the border, between Nogales and Bisbee.

ROSE ALLEN STATES LOVE FOR SLAIN MAN

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Rose Allen, one of the principal figures in the killing of her sweetheart, Francis A. Donaldson 3d, reasserted her love for the dead man today as her brother, Edward, went on trial for slaying him.

While a jury was being picked in the courtroom to pass judgment on the brother, [illegible] sat in the office of the district attorney and told of her feelings for the man he brother shot down.

"I love 'Skinny' as much today as I ever did," she said, referring to Donaldson. "My allegiance to 'Skinny' is just what it always has been," she added, after a pause. "I feel as if I am still engaged to the man I wanted to marry."

Miss Allen tried to keep back tears as she haltingly talked.

Socially Prominent Family.

Donaldson, 24-year-old son of a socially prominent family, was killed with a shotgun by Allen at the Allen apartment in the Green Hill Farms Hotel after a quarrel. Donaldson went to the apartment to try to bring about peace between Eddie and his sister. She had gone to a Philadelphia hotel, summoned Donaldson and told him she had been ordered from the home.

Miss Allen was clad in black today. Her mother died last spring. After professing anew her love for Donaldson, Miss Allen bowed her head in her hands and then lifted a face that tried to smile.

"Still, we all have to go on, don't we?" she asked. "I suppose the only thing to do is try to forget."

"'Skinny' and I had wanted to be married for months, and every once in a while we came to my father asking him to permit it," she said. "It was my father who first suggested that we were not to get married. A girl certainly has the right to choose the man she wants to marry. 'Skinny' was a fine man."

Anxious to Testify.

The 18-year-old society girl said she would not appear in the courtroom until District Attorney Stewart Nase calls her to the witness stand. As for the nature of her testimony, she said she would be impartial.

"I am not helping either side in this case," she declared. "I am going to tell my story the way I know it. I am anxious to testify and get it over with."

In the meanwhile the court was slowly picking the jurors in a room that was filled with an eager, listening crowd. When court adjourned for the day, shortly after 5 o'clock, seven jurors had been selected, one of them a woman.

Allen, highly nervous when he was first brought into the courtroom shackled to a guard, calmed down as the task of selecting the jury proceeded.

Legal Cotton Limitation Defeated in Texas Court

Franklin, Tex., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Cotton limitation by law, attempted as a relief measure from overproduction in many sections of the South, lost in its first encounter with Texas courts today. Judge W. C. Davis, of the Eighty-fifth District State Court, held the Lone Star measure to be "unconstitutional and void."

The Mississippi statute already had lapsed, because of a provision automatically making it void unless other cotton growing States passed similar measures; and one of the last official acts of Huey P. Long as Governor of Louisiana was to suspend the similarly conditional law in that State. Arkansas and South Carolina also passed conditional statutes.

Man and Woman Elope From Prison But in Vain

Kansas City, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—An elopement of two Kansas penitentiary prisoners was halted here today. After escaping from Lansing, Kas., in a prison truck, Miss Bobbie Phillips, 22, Reno County, and A. J. Williams, 36, a trusty, Wyandotte County, were arrested here while looking for rooms.

Lloyd Grimes, suspended policeman, said their appearance convinced him they were fugitives. He encountered no resistance in arresting them. Grimes is under suspension pending investigation of a dispute with a State highway trooper.

HAITIAN GUARD GETS MILITARY CONTROL

Two Marine Officers Are Relieved From Department of West.

Port au Prince, Haiti, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The Haitian National Guard today took over the military department of the West, replacing two United States Marine officers with Maj. Fernand M. Lafontante, a Haitian, who rose from the rank of private.

In an impressive ceremony attended by Maj. Gen. Richard T. Williams, commandant of the Haitian Guard; President Vincent and distinguished company, including cabinet members, Maj. Lafontante took over command of his new post.

Today's ceremony marked the passing of the second of five military departments into the hands of Haitian officers. Major Lafontante enlisted in 1915 in the guard as a private and has twice been decorated by the government.

The transfer of authority to Haitian officials both in civil and military departments so far as possible has been going on since October 1, 1931. An accord between the Haitian and American governments was reached on August 5 last year, in line with President Hoover's Haitianization policy. The first step placing the transfer in operation was taken in October, when a large part of the civil government passed into the hands of Haiti.

The military department, however, remained under control of United States Marines.

Reports since then have indicated an increase in prestige and morale of the native guard forces presaging the transfer of authority, such as took place in today's ceremonies at Port au Prince.

Youthful Bryan to Lead New Democratic Society

Minneapolis, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Another Bryan—a nephew of the late commoner, William Jennings Bryan—today accepted leadership of a new organization aimed to unite young members of the party in a fight for Democratic victory at the presidential polls this year.

He is Silas Bryan, son of Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, who assumed the presidency of the Minnesota Veteran Democratic Club after it announced its purpose to provide "a medium of expression for young Democrats who want to keep the principles of the party alive."

Suicide on Funeral Pyre Is Theory in Man's Death

Tuscumbia, Ala., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Death on a funeral pyre of his own construction was the theory advanced by authorities today after the charred body of John F. Funke, 50, was found in a pile of burning newspapers.

Smoke boiling up from a forest near his home attracted a brother, Henry Funke. He found the body and summoned officers. A pistol was discovered just outside the circle of flames and 200 yards away was John Funke's automobile.

week, will talk over the essays they are preparing to enter in the contest. Tune in tomorrow night and get some fresh inspiration about the contest from these active Boy Scouts, who are entering many essays in the hope of capturing some of the prizes, and as a tribute to George Washington in the bicentennial of his birth.

One of the nicest letters received by The Post Essay Editor came yesterday in the form of the following letter of appreciation from a mother who welcomes the chance for her children to join in such a progressive movement. She wrote:

"Having children whose interest I have tried to arouse by The Post Essay Contest, I can not avoid being appreciative of the opportunity offered to participate in this splendid educational contest.

"Without a doubt the example of Washington leaves little to be desired, as he coordinated both the ideal and practical to perfection and applied them to the great material advantage of his countrymen.

"We can not enlarge upon his capacity as his purpose was embodied in the Constitution of the United States and survived the inspection of a great people whose strength comes from the moral influence which he protected by his advice.

"The study of such subjects as this one promoted by The Washington Post is of the greatest advantage to young people and should receive the support of all parents. Parents should remember that when they indorse these methods of study that they provide a brighter future for their children."

Contestants are reminded that no Washington booklets will be distributed after Saturday, February 6; therefore, those wishing them are urged to send in the blank printed in today's Washington Post as soon as possible.

Milton Barry Hoppen, 6313 Connecticut avenue; Heners David Mess, 821 Tiller street northwest; E. THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A DEPRESSION INTERVIEW WITH A COLONIAL FATHER.

Q. Well, what do you think of the depression?

A. It's rather a strange word. I don't recall that we ever used it in my time.

Q. You had hard times in your day, did you not?

A. Oh, I suppose so.

Q. Well, what did you call them slumps, major crises or what?

A. I think we referred to them as trials of the spirit.

* * * *

Q. Very well, then, what do you think of America's present, er, trial of the spirit?

A. Somehow I don't quite seem to see it.

Q. Can't you hear the complaints and lamentations?

A. Quite clearly, but you don't mean to tell me they are from Americans!

Q. They sure are.

A. What's the matter with them? They look quite fat and prosperous as a whole.

Q. I'll admit that the fat and prosperous ones are doing the most squawking, but the country's really going through a terrible ordeal. It's quite heartbreaking.

A. I'm afraid I'll need more facts to appreciate the situation. How many cabins have been burned down this winter?

Q. Cabins? We don't live in cabins anymore. Only the very poor in the very isolated sections.

A. How interesting! In my time everybody was poor and all sections were isolated. You must be quite comfortable.

* * * *

Q. Just take another look around. Can't you see what hard times the country's going through?

A. Not very clearly. But of course I'm sorry for the folks who have been scalped by Indians. It's particularly harrowing to be scalped by Indians in freezing weather. How many Americans have been scalped so far this winter, by the way?

Q. None that I know of. What are you driving at?

A. What! Not an American scalped all season? I thought you said the people were going through unprecedented hardships.

Q. They are. Can't you appreciate it?

A. I'm trying to be sympathetic, but I need more facts. How many families wiped out by attacks by savages? How many husbands slain from ambush? How many children murdered by redskins——

Q. Now, listen—

* * * *

A. Have you been having much trouble with bears and wolves this year?

Q. No, but—

A. Has freezing to death indoors been very common?

Q. Will you please talk sense and—

A. What are this year's facts on plagues, blizzards, crop failures and starvation? I'd like to have them before I would feel qualified to discuss this here—what do you call it?

Q. Depression.

A. Oh, yes—depression, well what's it all about?

Q. Lemme see if I can make it clear? People have lost millions of dollars in the stock market, security prices have been declining for more than two years, the Steel Corporation is operating only 24 per cent of capacity.

A. Never mind going any further. It's all over my head. I'll be going back now. When the people get so they have to go shoot a wild turkey or a bear in order to eat you might give me another call. I'd be qualified to recognize a crisis then!

TAX PLANS REVISION ASKED OF TREASURY

(Associated Press.)

The House ways and means committee yesterday asked the Treasury Department to reconsider its estimates on its tax increase proposals.

The request was submitted to Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury when he met with the committee in its first executive session on the new tax bill.

The Treasury also was asked to submit estimates on probable revenue from a tax on oil importations, electric energy and household gas.

Acting Chairman Crisp announced the group would resume hearings today on the proposed taxes on imported petroleum, electricity and gas. Mr. Crisp said preliminary arrangements had been made for drafting the bill.

"The Treasury was asked to reconsider its estimates on its revenue proposals because Undersecretary Mills said their figures were based on probable yields in October and November," he said.

Mr. Crisp said that since the Democrats and Republicans had decided against making any of the taxes retroactive, "there is no hurry about getting the bill out, and it will take long enough as it is."

Besides Mr. Mills and Assistant Secretary Ballentine, of the Treasury, a group of tax experts were at the session.

American U. Body Selects Officers

Dr. A. C. Christie Named Chairman of Promotion Committee.

The new promotion committee for American University has been organized with election of officers and preliminary formation of plans, it was announced last night by Dr. Arthur C. Christie, president of the board of trustees, who was elected chairman of the committee.

Clyde B. Aitchison, commissioner of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was elected vice president and Arthur B. Flemming, of the United States Daily, secretary.

Several subcommittees were named to launch activities in their own field for the advancement of the university. Subcommittee chairmen are: Methodist Episcopal Church relations, Dr. George B. Woods, dean of the College of Liberal Arts; finance committee, Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, dean of the Graduate School and of the School of the Political Sciences; public relations, Dr. Harry E. Woolever, editor of the Methodist Press; relations with the general conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. Benjamin Meeks, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church; special groups, Dr. Ellery C. Stowell, professor of international law, Graduate School, and new students, Arthur S. Flemming.

The third member, Senator Wagner, of New York, said that while he favored a public works program he did not consider it a substitute for relief and announced he would vote for the La Follette-Costigan bill.

A sound and solid hit, ladies and gentlemen!

Even were the prologue and acts one and two only a quarter as good as they are, act three still would be enough to write this impertinent play safely up in the hit column. But the prologue and first and second acts are in themselves provocative of keen entertainment, consistently and hilariously alive and pursuant of a course of cumulative melodramatic intensity that culminates in a last-act curtain that is a positive smash. No smarter, swifter or more shrewdly contrived bit of expert playmaking has come along in months and months and months. Perhaps it is years I mean.

There can, of course, be no mistaking the metropolitan personality upon which the central character of the tabloid columnist in "Blessed Event" is founded. We meet this Alvin Roberts first while he is pinch-hitting for the vacationing Mr. George Moxeley—a green kid just dragged in from the advertising department in an emergency.

Because he has happened upon an unique quality of gossip and a bizarre manner of expressing it, he is given the column as his regular stint. From that prologue point on, the blessed events depicted deal with the rise of the young "journalist" from $50 to $2,000 per week and a sufficient degree of importance in the lives of several notorious New York night life figures to be systematically and skillfully "put on the spot" in a hotsy-totsy night club which he has been forbidden to enter by the crooner whom he has so persistently flailed in his paper.

As far as this reporter's present purpose is concerned, it will be necessary for you to see the play to learn what happens next.

This is rapid, racy, impudent entertainment, with a laugh almost literally in every line, that only lets down from its dizzying speed momentarily in the second act. It is as interesting as the column on which it is based and will be enjoyed by about the same people, and in equal number, that religiously pore over that column every day in the cities throughout the country where it is syndicated.

There are more explosive lines and punch scenes in the play than any newspaper column ever could carry. Some of those words we are not allowed to use—not even in the rowdiest of the tabloids!

The role of Alvin Roberts was—and again, I think, literally—made to order for Roger Pryor, last seen here in "Up Pops the Devil" in the same theater late last April. He plays it right up to the hilt. His portrayal of the columnist is marked by a splendid change of pace, an impetuous alertness and a tremendous enthusiasm for his job that should be immensely flattering to the original of the character. This is no easy assignment that has been handed Mr. Pryor, and that last act leaves him just a bit breathless and limp. But he does a grand job and is entitled to a pant or two after it is over.

Lee Patrick, as the movie critic on the Express, who becomes Mrs. Columnist, and Linda Carlon, as Roberts' sophisticated and hard-berled secretary, for whom life holds no secrets, are decorative and efficient and Jean Adair is especially sympathetic; charming and humorous as Alvin's doting mother. Charles D. Brown, as Moxely, from a thin start grows into one of the impressively important contributors to the gayety of the evening.

Two comparatively minor parts are made major by the consistently excellent work of Isabel Jewel and Allen Jenkins—the former as the dancer concerning whom Roberts made his one colossal columnar blunder; the latter as Frankie Wells, the gorilla, who was sent to "throw a scare into him" and remained to be a stalwart henchman.

There are so many worthy of commendatory mention in this long cast that all can not be included, but among those who can not be omitted are Milton Wallace, in a momentary comic bit as an expectant father willing to give Roberts the "scoop;" Ralph Locke, as the blustering and easily bluffed owner of the paper; Thelma Tipson, the society backer of night clubs, secretly married to the crooner, and John Robb, as Emil, the waiter.

NATIONAL

"THE BAND WAGON." Max Gordon presents a revue in two acts and 23 scenes, by George S. Kaufman and Howard Dietz, with music by Arthur Schwartz, starring Fred and Adele Astaire, Frank Morgan and Helen Broderick, supported by a large cast and ensemble. Staged by Hassart Short; dances by Albertina Rasch; settings by Albert R. Johnson. Costumes by Kiviette and Constance Risley. Al Goodman orchestra under direction of Max Meth. Reviewed by Dorothea Lewis.

From its more than clever and unusual beginning until its uniquely staged finale (save for two or three—maybe two-and-a-half smudgy spots), this revue scintillates.

It couldn't very well help it with four such shining stars. The Astaires, light-hearted, light-footed, lightning like; Helen Broderick with her delicious monologuing; and Frank Morgan, with his king-like head, pained expression, and funny voice, all combine into a really rare treat. It isn't the Astaires' dancing but the way they dance their dancing—if you follow. And Frank M. and Helen B. are always better than their material which is not at all bad. Nor are the chorus and other members of the cast to be overlooked in giving praise.

And the music! Just think of "Dancing in the Dark," "I Love Louisa," the tintillating, toe-tapping "Sweet Music" with Fred and Adele keeping the wolf from the door so merrily that smiles arrive to spend the evening; "New Sun in the Sky," and "High and Low," all in one show!

And such costuming and staging on those revolving stages,—well—if, as Frank Morgan says, the idea behind this show (and he mounts a scale or so explaining just how important an idea is behind the show) was just to make money, it did pretty well for itself on the artistic side.

The beauty of the whole affair is amazing. The Beggar Waltz of Fred Astaire and Florence Chumbecos, indescribably lovely; the shimmers and thrills of that weird, mirror-staged "Dancing in the Dark;" the golden dancers of the modernistic flag number; the merry-go-round; the gray and black and yellow of the Confession Dance, and that French park with its great tree and the balloon man and Fred and Adele rolling hoooops!

We'd like to stop right here and ignore those aforementioned smudgy spots but we won't.

"The Band Wagon" succeeds in being a very clean show throughout most of its too-short length, by concentrating (and we mean, concentrating) its questionable material in two or three numbers.

But three against at least seventeen delightful numbers, ranging from the delicate to the delirious, isn't much of a weight in the pan. On the wrong side of the scales.

GAYETY

"Girls From the Follies" is a fast, snappy show that should please the most critical burlesque fan. It has many beautiful scenes, where pretty girls parade in gorgeous costumes. The comedy skits are really funny and to round out a good show Manager Lake has Hinky and Pete, local colored lads, do some fancy dance steps.

Gypsy Rae Reed and her sister Gertrude, both pretty red-heads, carry off top honors. Gertrude presents several gracefully executed dances and wins much applause. Gypsy Rae is at her best in her "Minnie the Moocher" number, very clever.

Mary Noel plays a snappy violin to win much applause. Her appearances were far too few, as were those of the Francis Sisters and Nonna Martin. This trio harmonized well in a short specialty number. Francis Mazza, a small girl with black hair, made up for her lack of size by her fast and furious dances that certainly pleased the boys.

The many comedy scenes were well presented by Charles Smith and Lee Hickman. This pair worked hard and much of the success of this show is due to their efforts.

The chorus is one of the best.

"Blessed Event" is presented as the fifth attraction of the Professional Players' second subscription season and last night drew a capacity house, in all of which there was not a dissenting voice at the fall of the final curtain.

There were, however, six resounding curtain calls for the members of the cast, if that conveys anything of importance to you.

Spanish Jesuits Plead for Time.

Madrid, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Monsignor Tedeschini, papal nuncio, asked Premier Manuel Azana today to grant more than the ten days allowed by government decree for the dissolution of the Jesuit Order in Spain. He said a longer time was needed because of the wide holdings of the Jesuits.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE is more of substance to the viewpoint and attitude toward life of Miss Sylvia Lent, Washington's own violin virtuosa, whose only individual concert appearance of the season will be made in the auditorium of Central High School, Thirteenth and Clifton streets, under the auspices of the Community Institute this evening at 8:15 o'clock.

Despite her youthful appearance, Sylvia Lent is a young woman of decided convictions about the need of balance in one's life. Her views on the subject are by no means dogmatic—she has too little of the aggressive qualities of the propagandist for that—but when questioned as to why artists so seldom "behave like human beings," she ventured the opinion that there was not the necessary balance—in other words, that the ego was out of alignment.

If an artist thinks too much about self and art, it will necessarily result in the ego taking on weight entirely disproportionate to its base and becoming top heavy. To reduce the ego and restore the artis to normalcy means a gradual drawing away of the thought from its center of attraction by daily exercise, such as tennis, golfing, swimming, horseback riding.

However, even with the best efforts to forget, one's art will obtrude, and Miss Lent acknowledges that her happiest moments are with her beloved Gagliano, a rare instrument that was given to her by her father when she was a little girl. She finds her greatest thrill in playing with orchestra. Despite her youth, she has already a significant list of successes with orchestra, including her appearances with the New York Symphony, the Chicago, the Philadelphia and the Detroit symphonies.

Sylvia Lent is an American girl, who gained her entire musical training in this country. Her first professional visit abroad was made upon the advice of the late Prof. Auer, with whom she coached here in this country. He suggested that she make her formal debut in Germany, prior to her first appearance in this country. This she did, giving her first Berlin recital in 1922. Her American debut occurred in March of the following year.

The several allusions that have been made in this space to Weldon Heyburn, importantly cast in "The Silent Witness," opening at the Fox on Friday, as a former Washingtonian called "Spanny" Franks, have occasioned a great many inquiries concerning him that I would have been wholly unable to answer without the helpful research work of Mr. Lou Brown, chief of the Fox publicity department, who evidently drove Maj. Franks, the lad's father, up into a corner last Saturday night at that preview and plied him with strong questions!

So listen:

Weldon Heyburn was born at 916 Nineteenth street northwest on September 20, 1904, the son of Maj. W. G. Franks, of the United States Army Signal Corps, who now resides at the Kennedy-Warren Apartments, and was named Weldon Heyburn Franks after his uncle, the late Senator Weldon Heyburn, of Idaho.

First he went to the Cook Public School and then to Central High School, from which he graduated. While at Central he went in for football, track and swimming. While at high school he became one of the most popular students.

The University of Alabama next welcomed him as a member of the varsity football squad. And, incidentally, he and John Mack Brown, who has also made a name for himself in the movies, roomed together and both made the football squad.

It was while Mr. Heyburn was a member of the famous Black Friars Club, at the University of Alabama, that his thoughts turned to dramatics. Florence Reed, the nationally known actress, recently seen in "Mourning Becomes Electra," saw him play and asked that he come to New York. He did, and as a result played a part in "Lullaby," in which Miss Reed was starring.

Heyburn then played with Marjorie Rambeau, Jeanne Eagels, and then entered stock, playing with the Wright Players in Lansing, Mich., and in Syracuse, N. Y. Then Lenore Ulric placed him in "Pagan Lady," which was seen in Washington some time ago.

Since you probably don't, I mean that this morning at 9 he is holding a preview screening of "Mata Hari," starring Greta Garbo, with Ramon Novarro opposite, in the Columbia Theater. That 9 a. m. business is a bit steep for some of the boys and girls on the morning papers, but we can no doubt arrange conveniently to stop by on our way home!

Then this afternoon between 3 o'clock Mr. Barron is holding open house to the press in his apartment at the Willard. Maybe it's between 4 o'clock. At any rate, I am given to believe that the main idea is just to ramble in and out as the spirit moveth—and please make that singular, Mr. Compositor!

As long as we are momentarily on the topic of Loew, Inc., it might be well to remind you that a week from Friday, Joe Cook, late star of "Fine and Dandy," will occupy the Palace stage in person with his own unit.

And reverting for only a second to Mr. Barron—don't go 'way—it has just leaked out that his arrival at his new post in the National Capital and the celebration of his guess-what birthday almost synchronized.

This may be part of the observance that is being solemnized today—how should I know?

Among yesterday's callers was James G. Peede, advance courier for Fred and Paula Stone in "Smiling Faces," coming to the Belasco. Jim is an old pal whose friendship dates 'way back yonder to those distant days when he was general manager for Richard Walton Tully, author and producer of "The Bird of Paradise" and resigned his job after many years because so much salary and so little work genuinely irked him.

Can ya imagine!

Charlie McClintock is again prevalent in our midst, too, side-kicking around with old Col. Francis Philipe Morse, the bounding bond broker, as usual. They first-nighted at the Belasco last evening, along with the rest of us professionally indigent guests of the management.

Jimmie Dunn, appearing in person at the Fox this week, is taking time out this afternoon to dash out to Walter Reed Hospital and give the boys a treat.

You can see now why they were in such a hurry to get that grass grown at Fifteenth and the avenue in front of the Commerce Building, where Poli's used to stand.

They wanted to be sure it would be ready in time to dig up!

INSURANCE CONCERN MARKS PROSPERITY

New England Mutual Life Earns Largest Profits Since Founding.

The word "depression" means nothing to the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., according to an announcement made at the organization's eighty-eighth annual meeting in Boston, Mass., by George Willard Smith, president.

All records for increase in business, since the time of the company's founding, Mr. Smith declared, were broken during 1931. The demand for life insurance, he said, has never been greater than at the present time.

Mr. Smith pointed out that the majority of life insurance companies throughout the country reported that in 1931 they fell 11 per cent below their mark of the previous year. His company, he said, gained $1,324,698 in new business over 1930.

Surplus Becomes Highest.

The year 1931, it was pointed out, brought the company's surplus to its highest figure, and its total insurance in force to double the volume of ten years ago.

Nearly $11,000,000 in dividends was paid to policyholders, completing the thirty-second consecutive year that the company has not omitted or reduced a dividend. The dividend scale, it was declared, will continue during 1932, and $11,350,000 has been set aside for distribution.

Figures of the company's annual report showed that more money was paid to living policyholders than to the beneficiaries of those who died during the year.

The outstanding record of new business was made at a lower cost per 1,000 of insurance than ever before, it was announced. The average policy amounted to $5,719, the highest in the company's history. The long-time conservative investment policy and the confidence-creating effect of maintaining a strong surplus, were cited as factors in the record showing.

Guarantees Grow in Favor.

"The insuring public realizes today, as never before," Mr. Smith declared, "that the guarantees in life insurance are positive and do not fluctuate. Many men, whose holdings have suffered from shrinkage in values have turned to life insurance as the surest, as well as the most convenient method of restoring their estates."

The company extended its organization during 1931, it was declared, by opening three new agencies—making 66 agencies in 58 of the country's largest cities.

The Washington agency of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. the report stated, had an active part in aiding the company's all-time record.

The first agency was opened in Washington in 1846. Banking relations, established with the National Metropolitan Bank, still continue. Earle W. Sapp is the general agent here.

TRADE BOARD PLANS MARDI GRAS DINNER

Spirit of New Orleans Fete to Mark Program Set for Saturday Night.

Everything is in readines for the midwinter dinner of the Washington Board of Trade, to be held Saturday night at the Willard Hotel, it was announced yesterday by Harry H. R. Helwig, general chairman in charge of the celebration.

The spirit of Mardi Gras will be the theme of the dinner and elaborate entertainment program to follow. Senators, representatives, Cabinet officers and other high Government officials have been invited to attend. The large ballroom of the hotel will be converted into a likeness of the Vieux Carre of old New Orleans. In the small ballroom, where the 800 celebrants will first gather, a boat will be docked at a levee. Entrance to the large ballroom will be made through the mouth of a gigantic clown.

Mr. Helwig said that the decorations will be the most dazzling the board of trade has ever had for a midwinter dinner, and the entertainment, he added, will leave nothing to be desired. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 6:45 o'clock and will continue until until 11:30 o'clock. Vice President Charles Curtis and Gen. John J. Pershing head the list of honor guests invited.

Former Judge Indicted In Bank Closing Case

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The finding of three indictments against former Judge Francis X. Mancuso and Isidore Siegeltuch, director of the closed City Trust Co., was announced today by Supreme Court Justice W. F. Bleakley. Both pleaded not guilty and were held in $1,000 bail each for trial February 23.

They are charged with participation in a fraudulent bank insolvency. In addition Mancuso is accused of perjury, and Siegeltuch of misapplying funds of the closed bank. Mancuso was chairman of the board of directors of the bank. The new indictments replaced others recently dismissed on technical grounds.

MAN CONVICTED 15 TIMES IN 35 YEARS

With a prison record dating back to 1897, which included fourteen separate convictions, Michael Quinn, possessed of five aliases, yesterday went before Justice F. Dickinson Letts on a charge of breaking into and robbing the Brightwood postoffice and was convicted for the fifteenth time.

Accepting the jury's findings as true, Quinn, whose real name no one, not even the Government prosecutor, John J. Sirica, knows, is now facing his fifteenth term in prison and because of the seriousness of the offense and his age, he may spend his remaining days behind prison bars.

The Government painted him as a big-timer, what with his record of burglaries, safe robbings and the like. The other side of the picture showed a mild mannered man, about 60 years old; one whose picturization belied the Government chemists who said he had enough nitroglycerine to blow up the entire courthouse.

Quinn broke into the Brightwood postoffice on the night of December 6, last, and stole a worthless allotment of "due stamps," something that couldn't be sold to any one. He was caught in an automobile in Anacostia, and two men with him fled, evading capture. Never once did he offer to "squeal" on his pals.

He will be brought up for sentence Friday, at which time the extreme limit of the law probably will be given him.

Gov. Pollard to Attend Washington Exercises

Richmond, Va., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard will attend special exercises in Fredericksburg tomorrow in honor of Mary Washington, sponsored by the National Mary Washington Association of Washington, and the Mary Washington Monumental Association of Fredericksburg.

Dr. H. R. McIlvaine, State librarian, and Harry M. Smith, jr., president of the Virginia Society, Sons of the Revolution, will represent the society. The exercises will be held at St. George's Church at 10:30 a. m., conducted by the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker.

Robbers Cart Off Safe And $14,000 in Cash

Florence, S. C., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Robbers early today entered a Negro barber shop here and carted off a safe containing approximately $14,000—the savings of a large number of Negroes made fearful of banks because of recent closings.

Walter Lide, proprietor of the shop, told police he had allowed residents of the Negro community to place their surplus cash in his safe. Police said a truck was driven to the front door and a truck was used to carry the safe away.

2,600 SEE BROWN GAIN DECISION OVER GALLAGHER

D. C. Fighter Rocked by Punches

Raymond Outclasess Braunstein in Semifinal.

By JACK ESPEY.

WITH a relentless body attack and a deceptive left hook to the head that seldom missed its mark, Natie Brown, young but battlescarred Philadelphia Hebrew, slowed Marty Gallagher, Foggy Bottom Irishman, down to a walk along the fistic trail last night. Before 2,600 fans, who were hostile to him for the most part, Brown won all but two of the eight rounds and the decision of Referee Heinie Miller.

By comparison with the supporting card, the bout was dull, as the action was concentrated at close quarters except for the all too few occasions when Brown broke out of clinches and walloped Marty with left hooks to the head.

Gallagher Backs Water Before Brown.

Holding the advantage in weight, 202 to 185½, and measurably taller, Gallagher presented a strange sight as he backed away from Brown's crouching, boring-in fusilade. Much of the battle was fought on the ropes and in the corners where the more agile Hebrew ripped short blows to the chin after wrestling out of Marty's arms. Gallagher ponderously flailed his foe about the body in the clinches but made no use of his longer arms otherwise. It seemed he could have jabbed Brown into submission with the lighter man always forcing and walking in.

Only in the first round did Gallagher appear to advantage. While Brown was feeling his way about, the Irishman let out steam in an effort to crumple his opponent with punches all over the midsection. But this wasn't strong enough, and Brown thereafter took thhe initiative along the same line of attack and remained the aggressor until the final bell.

In the fourth, Brown let fly the first punch either propelled from long range. It was a left hook that resounded throughout the arena as it collided with Gallagher's face and drew blood from his nose. Again in the fifth, Natie landed in the same place, driving Marty against the ropes, and in the sixth and seventh the Irishman was knocked back several steps.

Essinger Wins By Knockout.

By far the most thrilling of the night's clashes was the opening preliminary in which game Billy Essinger, Washington lightweight, knocked out Jack Lamar, of Cleveland, after having been on the borders of dreamland himself. With but 52 seconds remaining of the fourth and final round, Essinger slammed a right to the chin and Lamar dropped unconscious. Until then Essinger had been staggering from the effects of a shower of both lefts and rights for which he had no defense. His Merriwell finish brought the fans to their feet in wild acclaim.

Lew Raymond, clever Baltimore junior welter, easily disposed of Sammy Braunstein, local marine, in the eight-round semifinal. It looked ak if Raymond reserved some blows for the next guy he encounters. Braunstein fought himself out in the first two rounds, after which he was an easy mark for a finishing blow, but Raymond apparently permitted him to hold on. At that, the Baltimorean gave a pleasing exhibition.

Jimmy McKenna, making a comeback in the main preliminary of six rounds, secured only a draw with Patsy Lewis, sharpshooting Baltimorean. McKenna clearly outboxed Patsy, but marred his performance somewhat by throwing him about while Lewis was off balance. Patsy, however, can consider himself lucky today that his Alexandria record does not show a defeat, for McKenna several times had him groggy.

Marino Marini's wild-swinging body blows were too much for Soldier Clark in a four-rounder.

Buster Brown to Meet Jacobs at Alexandria

The Day Nursery Athletic Association announced last night that Buster Brown, Baltimore lightweight hope, and Stumpy Jacobs, two-fisted Hopewell, Va., battler, will headline a show of 32 rounds next Tuesday night at Alexandria. Henry Irving, local knockout artist, and Walter Kirkwood, Norfolk, will clash in the semifinal of eight.

Toomer, Perkins Tie In St. Augustine Golf

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 1 (U.P.).—Jack Toomer, Jacksonville, Fla., and T. Philip Perkins, Stapleton, N. Y., tied for low honors in the first day of qualifying play for the national amateur championship of club champions. Each turned in a 79, 3 under the next low of C. Bayard Mitchell, jr., Woodbury, N. J.

Davis Cup Draw Today; 30 Nations Compete

Paris, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Thirty nations, the same number as last year, today had challenged for the Davis Cup, international tennis trophy now held by France. Twenty-two of the nations will compete in the European zone, five in the North American zone and three in the South American. The draw for the European and North American zones will be held tomorrow.

The United States, Canada, Mexico, Australia and Cuba have challenged for the cup in the North American division. With Argentina competing in the European section, Chile, Paraguay and Brazil will compose the South American zone.

LEWIS BOUT SOUGHT BY TURNER

MATCHMAKER JOE TURNER, head of the local rassling trust, returned to Washington yesterday from an extended meeting with the mat moguls of the metropolis, and brought news of the fact that there will soon be presented for the consumption of the local rabidity none other than Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

The old Strangla, champion for years of the grapple game, probably will headline the next card of bouts here, February 11, at the Auditorium. His opponent has not ben chosen, but Turner is offering to Tiny Roebuck, Sandor Szabo and George Calza the dubious honor of meeting the headlock Hercules. Turner attempted to sign either Ray Steele, Rudy Dusek or Jim McMillen, but all three found they had engagements booked for the night of February 11.

There is, to all appearances, none other in rassling like unto Strangler Lewis. He followed that lumbering line of elephantine matmen whose dynasty began with Frank Gotch. He beat Joe Stecher for the championship in 1920, lost it the same year to Stan Zbyszko and won it back before 1921.

Wayne Munn Took Crown.

He held it until 1925, when Wayne Munn took it, Zbyszko tossed Munn and Stecher beat Zbyszko, and Lewis was able to claim the belt again in 1928, when he beat Stecher. Then Lewis lost to Sonnenberg, who lost to Don George, who in turn lost to Lewis, who in turn bit Henri-DeGlane, to whom the title was defaulted.

Illinois and a couple of other States still recognize Lewis as the "champion." Lewis is nearly 40 years old and weighs 235. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky.

Lewis, finding general apathy in interest on the Coast, where he has been conducting a clique composed of himself, Don George, Joe Savoldi and a collection of slightly mangy colleagues, recently succumbed to the wiles of the Mondt-White group in New York, generally known as the Curley wrestlers. In his first bout he beat Pat O'Shocker in 12 minutes.

Lewis, in years past, has beaten Jim Londos at least twelve times, he contends.

Vic's Quintet Opposes Eastons Next Sunday

Frank Grube's Easton Pals, hailing from Easton, Pa., have been booked to oppose Vic's Sport Shop quintet next Sunday in the Silver Spring Armory.

Grube, who is also a catcher with the Chicago White Sox baseball team, first gained recognition as a basket ball player while at Lafayette College. In 1927, when he was rated as one of the outstanding guards in college ranks, he held Joe Schaff, of Penn, the leading scorer in the East, to 3 points.

Other members of the Pals, all former college men, are Pete Collins, of Lafayette; Roy McKee, Manhattan; Fred Hart, New York University; Bud Ross, Syracuse; Horace Grube, a brother of Frank, Temple, and Elmer Zink, Muhlenberg.

The Knights of Columbus and Jewish Community Center unlimited teams will clash in a preliminary game at 2 p. m.

Dempsey's N. B. A. Suspension Lifted

Dempsey was suspended Saturday, because of a controversy with the Mississippi Boxing Association, concerning the failure of the promoter to pay bills in connection with a boxing show in which the Manassa Mauler appeared as referee, at Columbus, Miss., more than a year ago.

Gen. Clinnin said it would be unfair to Dempsey to keep the suspension hanging over his head, and also unfair to the various clubs to which he has signed for exhibitions.

The N. B. A. chief said that Dempsey's proposal of posting a bond insured a settlement of the case, one way or the other, which will be decided by Gen. Clinnin here next Saturday.

The lifting of the suspension permits Dempsey, to start another exhibition tour in Milwaukee, February 8, which he figures will earn him a quarter of a million dollars between now and next June.

Donohue, of Red Sox, Refuses Terms Offered

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Pete Donohue, veteran right hand pitcher, announced today he had returned an unsigned contract to the Boston Red Sox.

"They offered me an increase over my 1931 salary with Kansas City, but I did not feel that it was enough," said Donohue. "I feel certain that I'll be able to reach terms with them."

French Sports Body Bans La Doumegue

Paris, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Jules La Doumegue, world's record holder in the mile, may not be available for French service in the Olympics as a result of disciplinary action taken by the French Athletic Federation tonight.

After an inquiry into the allegation that La Doumegue received payment, in disguised form, for a competitive appearance, the federation removed from its rolls or suspended temporarily all clubs and officials involved and withdrew La Doumegue's license pending a further investigation requested by the famous runner.

Hack Wilson's Salary With Dodgers $16,500

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Two weeks ago Lewis Robert (Hack) Wilson was no more than a discredited home-run hitter, somewhat overweight, looking for a place to land. Today, full of face and bursting with enthusiasm, the Martinsburg bomber strolled into the business office of the Brooklyn Robins and affixed his name to a contract calling for $16,500 for the 1932 playing season.

That is, the document was signed today, officially. As a matter of fact, it was learned on good authority that Wilson wielded the pen yesterday. The pudgy outfielder, purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals for a round $50,000, came to terms with his new manager, Max Carey, when they talked things over at Martinsburg several weeks ago.

Wilson's contract with Brooklyn carries no bonus clause, said President Frank York. It calls for a flat $16,500 for one year.

'32 SCHEDULE PLEASING TO NATS

18 Sunday Dates and 2 Holiday Twin Bills Listed Here.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IF Manager Walter Johnson brings his Nationals back from the Biloxi training base in winning form so that they can step right out as an American League flag contender, the 1932 schedule, released this morning, insures the Washington Club of a banner year financially. In addition to the two opening days—a special one here on April 11 against the Red Sox so that President Hoover may launch the national game in an official atmosphere and the regular opening in Boston the following day—the Nats draw no less than 30 other good dates.

Because Sunday baseball is not permitted in Philadelphia the Washington Club plays in Griffith Stadium on 18 Sabbaths, while the Nats also act as host on 12 Saturdays and on 2 holidays. And 6 of these Sunday games are listed with its arch rivals, the Athletics. The home holiday attractions will be double-headers with the New York Yankees on July 4 and with the Boston Red Sox on Labor day, September 5. Detroit and Cleveland, with 14 Sundays allotted them as hosts, come nearest to the Nats in drawing plums, all of the other clubs entertaining at home but 12 times.

Date Assigned Nats By Special Ruling.

The Nationals draw their special April 11 inaugural due to a decision reached by the magnates several years ago following President Clark Griffith's suggestion that, with the Chief Executive tossing out the first ball in the Nation's Capital, it would be inappropriate to ask him to do so after the season had actually started, so the Washington Club opens a day earlier than do other clubs in either league in the alternate years when it is not due to draw a regularly scheduled inaugural.

The season otherwise would start on the following day, with the Nats playing the Red Sox at Fenway Park, the Yankees visiting Philadelphia, the Cleveland Indians guests of Bucky Harris' Detroit Tigers, and the St. Louis Browns appearing before Chicago fans at Comiskey Park.

Nats Start West On June 7.

The Nats head for the Western sector on their first jaunt on June 7, when they open in Chicago, their other Western trips calling for them to make starts in St. Louis on July 26 and on September 8. They ring down the 1932 curtain with a Sabbath game with the Mackmen here on September 25.

Miller to Press Claim for Crown

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Out of the "no contest" ring fiasco here last week between Freddie Miller, Cincinnati challenger, and Christopher (Bat) Battalino, former world champion featherweight, Hartford Conn., came a statement from Miller today that he wanted all or nothing.

Battalino lost his title when he failed to make the weight. Miller lost his chance to get it when Referee Lou Bauman stopped the milling in the third round to declare it "no contest." Subsequently, Battalino was fined $5,000 and suspended indefinitely.

Miller was obsolved of any wrongdoing by the Cincinnati boxing commission but was given only $250 to reimburse him for training expenses. The customers also were given back their money. Miller said today he would not accept the $250 because it might be construed as meaning he admitted guilt in connection with the outcome. He said he would press his claim to the title before Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing Association.

Ruth Heads for South To Brush Up on Golf

The Babe is making the trip in his high-speed limousine, accompanied by his wife, Claire. The Ruths were escorted by Lyn Lary and wife in the Yankee shortstop's roadster.

After leaving Philadelphia tomorrow, the itinerary calls for halts at Pinehurst, N. C.; Augusta, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. The Babe will try to arrive in St. Petersburg by noon Saturday, when he has an engagement to play golf. He must arrive by Sunday to celebrate his thirty-eighth birthday there on that day.

Chicago, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Jay Bozeman, of Vallejo, Calif., went into a tie for fifth place in the world's three-cushion billiard championship today by defeating Tiff Denton, Kansas City, 50 to 48, in 67 innings. It was Bozeman's fifth victory in ten starts and Denton's eighth defeat over the same distance.

Jake Schaefer, of San Francisco, won his fourth match in eight starts, overcoming Allen Hall, of Chicago, 50 to 46 in 59 innings. It was Hall's sixth defeat in ten games.

RALPH BEACH REPLACES HUNTER

Middle Atlantic Pros Name New Head of Association.

J. MONROE HUNTER, recently displaced as professional at the Indian Spring Club, last night was automatically removed as president of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association in accordance with the requirements that all officers be members of the national organization.

Ralph Beach, of the Suburban Club, of Baltimore, succeeded him, with other officers as follows: Robert T. Barnett, Chevy Chase, first vice president; Glenn Spencer, Maryland Country Club, second vice president; Warner Mather, Woodholme, secretary, and C. T. McMaster, Rolling Road, treasurer.

Action Taken Against Job-Seekers.

Several hours were spent in secret session by the pros at the Manor Club, and it was voted to deal drastically through a revision of the by-laws or appeal to the national association with professionals who seek to displace other professionals from positions which they hold. Cases in Baltimore and Washington necessitated the step, it was said. It also was decided that hereafter all members of the sectional association must also be members of the national body.

Before the meeting a sweepstakes tournament, the first golf event of the season, was held on the Manor course. Glenn Spencer won first money with a score of 37—36—73. The scores were:

Glenn Spencer, Maryland Country Club, 37, 36—73; J. Munro Hunter, Indian Spring, 37, 38—75; George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring, 40, 36—76; A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, 38, 39—77; Gilbert Cunningham, Burning Tree, 40, 37—77; Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park, 37, 41—78; Walter Cunningham, 40, 39—79; Douglas Brooke, Hillendale, 38, 42—80; Warner Mather, Woodholme, 40, 40—80; Claude Orendorf, Woodmont, 40, 44—84.

Snowshoe Marathon 2d Lap Won by Hoey

Ste. Anne La Perade, Quebec, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Frank Hoey, of Montreal, won today's lap of the 200-mile Quebec-to-Montreal snowshoe marathon. John Jokela, of Toronto, who won the first lap yesterday, placed second today.

Candidates for Crew Report to Navy Coach

Annapolis, Feb. 1 (U.P.).—Crew candidates at the Naval Academy reported today to Coach Charles (Buck) Walsh. The first day's practice period was devoted to a lecture in which Coach Walsh said the same style as used by Navy in winning the Poughkeepsie regatta last summer would again be used this season.

Al Gray, bow of last year's boatload, has returned to the academy to assist Walsh, as has Lieut. Harry Sears, of the 1928 crew. Bill Farrell has remained as coach of the plebe 150-pounders.

LISENBEE SIGNS CONTRACT.

City to Stage U. S. Title Swimming

WASHINGTON virtually is assured of the National A. A. U. women's indoor swimming meet, to be held in April, it was learned yesterday from the local chapter of the Amateur Athletic Union. The Shoreham Hotel Pool would be the scene of the nationally known meet, which would attract such stars of the women's aquatic world as Helene Madison, Georgia Coleman and Eleanor Holme.

Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York and Miami have asked for the indoor event, along with Washington, but the twofold desirability of awarding it to the Capital—the city's accessibility to most swimming centers and Bicentennial Year—almost certainly will swing the feeling of the A. A. U scheduling committee.

Meet to Have Olympic Bearing.

The meet will have important Olympic bearing. While it is not designated as the Olympic tryouts, these will follow shortly after and the Shoreham event will be closely scrutinized by an Olympic committee. The Shoreham's Venetian Pool will be turned into a miniature stadium, with seats enough for 1,000 spectators. A nominal admission fee will be charged.

Helene Madison, Seattle swimming luminary, is to women's swimming what John Weissmuller was to men's. Every championship, indoors and out, between 50 and 220 yards, is her property. Georgia Coleman, of Los Angeles is national low and high board diving champion. Eleanor Holme, New York, broke two world's indoor backstroke championships three weeks ago in New York.

Culled from all corners of the United States, the entrance list is expected to scale 100. The meet is open to local swimmers. It will take three days to run off, heats being run in the afternoons. Among the entries to date is the world's 400-yard women's relay champions of the Seattle Swimming Club, on which Miss Madison swims anchor.

First National Tank Meet For District.

If it accrues, it will be Washington's first national swimming meet and one of the first sports events of the Bicentennial Commission's sports calendar. All of last year's champions will compete.

The national headquarters of the A. A. U. was informed yesterday by the local chapter that full sponsorship of the meet had been guaranteed. The national body had withheld awarding the meet to the other applying cities until it learned of the local chapter's ability to stage it. The Washington Better Business Bureau and the Shoreham were the main collaborators with the District A. A. U.

Rawson to Substitute For Retzlaff Friday

Boston, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Big Boy Rawson, of Boston, was substituted for Charley Retzlaff, Duluth, Minn., heavyweight, today when the latter reported he would be unable to oppose Jack McCarthy, of Boston, in the Boston Garden's ten-round feature bout Friday night.

Retzlaff informed Matchmaker Billy Ames he injured one of his hands in a bout last week and doubted whether it would heal in time for him to keep his Boston engagement.

Columbus U. Boxers Meet W.-J. Tomorrow

All set for some mixing fast and furious, Washington and Jefferson's boxing team today was preparing for its first invasion of Washington, D. C. Tomorrow afternoon the Washington, Pa., delegation is to report here.

Upon arrival here, the pugilistic Presidents will head for Jewish Community gymnasium, where team members are to frisk through a final workout before encountering the Columbus University mittmen at the Strand Theater Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock.

While thrills aplenty are promised on the impending card, the light-heavyweight event may produce the ultimate in action. In this feature, Gus Mirman, Columbus' 175-pounder, swings leather at Capt. Jack Demeditz, a punching President. Demeditz, a star of the gridiron, is said to have one of the best right hands in Pennsylvania college ranks, while Mirman boasts a pile-driving left.

While admission can not be charged to these bouts, athletic books necessary for admittance to Columbus' boxing and basket ball attractions are on sale at Goldie Ahearn's, Spalding's and Vic Sport Shop.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

JACKIE HAYES, erstwhile utility infielder of the Nats, who was traded to the White Sox, has let out several reefs in his chest and is figuratively thumbing his nose at the Washington players who were in the habit of making great sport of Clanton, Ala., Jackie's home town.

Clanton, be it known, is on the map again, having sent up to the big leagues Bob Connaster, the man who is slated to take over Eddie Morgan's first-basing duties with the Cleveland Club, should Morgan be traded, as there is an indication.

Hayes' off moments with the Nats were largely spent in trying to prove that Clanton contained two main streets and in fact was incorporated as a township, but the weight of opinion among his teammates voted him down.

The American Olympic committee has decided to give the foreign athletes visiting Los Angeles an idea of what this game of football is all about and to that end has chosen six Princeton seniors to play on the team that will give the demonstration.

There is grave danger, however, that the visiting athletes will be given a false idea of the correct way to play the game. The six Princeton men were part and parcel of the Princeton Team of 1931 which, if memory serves, compiled the nonimpressive record of one victory and seven defeats in eight games and amassed the staggering total of 54 points during the season to 164 points scored against them.

The tip apparently wasn't direct from the feed box because Dabster fell dead after the third race three days before when he ruptured an artery in his heart. Jockey Hank Mills, who had the mount, narrowly escaped serious injury.

W. D. Haight, whose fame as a forecaster ranges from picking the winner of the marathon dance to predicting the World War as early as 1900, scored his greatest triumph recently when he named every winner on Joe Turner's wrestling card and climaxed his prediction by singling out the bout which would end in a 30-minute draw.

At the conclusion of one of his poorest games of the winter season, Sam Rice of the Nats went on record to the effect that bowling is not an honest game. Rice contends the same balls delivered down the alley in two different games may net the bowler scores ranging from 85 to 140, depending on the breaks.

Hack Wilson signs with Max Carey's Brooklyn Dodgers for one year at a stipend of $16,500, but if he doesn't lift his batting average any higher than the .261, which marked his efforts for the Cubs last year, it might result in a case of Hari-Carey, very popular among despondent Japanese.

The site of the Maryland-Navy football game next October is hanging in the balance between Washington and Baltimore and has not yet been awarded to the latter city, according to Commander J. L. Hall, graduate manager of athletics at the Naval Academy.

Commander Hall yesterday made the observation that Washington, as yet, has made no move to obtain the game in contrast to the zealousness of the Baltimore Park Board, which is eager to list the battle for that city. It looks like a case for the bicentennial sports committee, if there is one.

Top Flight goes down in the winter books as the 6-to-1 favorite in the Kentucky Derby, the first filly in history to gain the distinction in a race won only once by a female of the specie in 57 renewals, the same being Regret. No better than even money is to be expected on Top Flight at post time, May 7, if she starts.

Howell and Huot Tied As Miami Medalists

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Two bad putts during his eighteen-hole play today forced Earl Howell, Miami, into a tie with Jules Huot, Quebec, for medal honors in a 54-hole tournament being played to select the last 6 of 32 entrants for Miami's $5,000 international four-ball tournament.

Howell and Huot had par 72s for the first day of play. The Miamian had 37—35—72 and Huot 38—34—72.

Howell's putting and difficulty came at the twelfth and seventeenth greens. He three-putted the first and saw his putt for a birdie on the other rim the cup and fail to drop.

Cardinals' Owner Predicts Banner Season for Martin

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The folks who thought they saw Pepper Martin reach the peak of baseball speed and ability in the 1931 world series "ain't seen nothin' yet."

Of course, Sam Breadon, the genial big chief of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals didn't exactly put it that way. Sam likes the Ozark country, but he speaks the king's English. However, he added:

"We will really take the wraps off Martin this year and let him go. After all, he was just a rookie last season, you know, and Gabby Street had to keep him under some restraint. But he showed what he could do when we beat the Athletics and he will go like a house afire this year. Gabby will give him every chance to run the bases and it would not surprise me to see Pepper lead the league in stealing. He's a great ball player and a great fighter."

You can't talk along with Breadon without catching his enthusiasm for the far-flung and exceedingly effective Cardinal "chain-store" system. After you've heard the details, listened to how this or that youngster is destined to be among the greatest, in a year or two, and checked over the existing situation, it is difficult to see anything but a long and prosperous flight for the Red Birds, now on top of the baseball roost.

"You know a lot about this Dizzy Dean," remarked Sam, "and there's no mistake in it. He is bound to make good. But they tell me our other youngster from Houston, Tex Carleton, is liable to be just as good

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The prize fighting championships, which formerly were regarded as titles of some little distinction, no longer convey their old prestige, and I doubt that you could find in a street car full of people today more than one who could name the incumbent champions of the various divisions. You might not find even the one. There have been several reasons for this decline, which is to be deplored or celebrated, according to your preference. Certainly the fighters themselves have done much to destroy the heroic illusion which used to exist among the people, but I would not exclude the prize fight commissioners of the various jurisdictions from the blame or credit, as the case may be.

The prize fight commissions did their bit. They first cheapened the old standard titles by creating a number of synthetic titles such as the junior featherweight, junior lightweight and junior welterweight championships with the object of stimulating the game, or racket, at the boxoffices, which was no proper concern of theirs. They then added to the confusion by creating a regular class of logical contenderships, as they called them, and appointing their respective lists of logical contenders.

Now the commissioners of separate jurisdictions began to grow jealous of one another, generally because one commissioner was taking in too much territory with his rulings. One commissioner might decide to recognize such a one as featherweight champion, for instance, and an envious commissioner in another State would say, "Well, no outside commission is creating champions in this State, and our commission refuses to recognize this appointment." Similarly, being composed almost entirely of extremely petty local politicians, they disagreed on the logical contenderships, and the result was that in time there were almost as many champions and logical contenders in each class, including the synthetic classes, as there were commissions.

It must be remembered that appointment to a prize fight commission is a very low form of political reward and therefore generally is acceptable only to very minor politicians. To serve as a prize fight commissioner a man must be willing

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (U.P.).—Top Flight, C. V. Whitney's champion filly, has been definitely installed favorite in the winter books for the fifty-eighth running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs May 7, according to quotations given the United Press today by the two foremost commissioners in the business.

Tom Shaw, of New York, who represents the East in prederby price-making, and Tom Kearney, of St. Louis, outstanding authority in the West, agree that the undisputed champion of 1931 is the most promising 3-year-old on the horizon.

Notwithstanding the fact that nominations for the Blue Grass classic do not close until Wednesday, February 3, Shaw is holding the daughter of Dis Donc—Flyatit at 8 to 1 and

English-Bred Filly Wins by 2 Lengths

Silverdale Captures Sprint Feature at New Orleans.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 1 (A. P.).—The English-bred filly Lullaby II, making her second local start, carried the green and orange bonner of the Howe stable to an impressive victory in the Coral Reefs Purse here today before a crowd slightly decreased because of cooler weather and a strong wind. Judiciously handled by A. Robertson, the winner sped past the pagoda pole two lengths clear of Mabla, the strong favorite, to pay $13.10 for $2. Jaffa, an outsider, took the show a length behind.

Lullaby II sped over the 5½ furlong distance in 1:05 4-5, under 100 pounds. Mabla was burdened under 118.

Robertson, by saving very important ground at the turn into the home stretch, really enabled the Howe Stable's filly to win. Sending Lullaby II into command approaching the first turn, Robertson urged his mount into a daylight lead over Jaffa.

Mabla Comes Fast at Finish.

Mabla was outrun in the early stages, but, after leaving the stretch, she got into her stride and began making up ground fast. Lullaby II swept into the stretch close to the inside rail, while Mabla came along in the middle of the track under the whip. The favorite was gaining at the end, but her move came too late. Jaffa just lasted to head off Single Star.

Apprentice Hank Mills, who narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday when his mount, Dabster, dropped dead and tossed the boy, started his day's work with an exhibition of riding that proved the mishap had no effect on his work. He piloted Hamilton to a thrilling nose victory in a blanket finish in the first race. Please was a like margin before Bob's Play for the place. Mills kept Hamilton in front al the way, but lease made the youngster do some powerful riding, as the winner never could draw far away from his chief rival. Bob's Play finished fastest of all. The winner paid $5.30. Mills completed a double by scoring on Don Tasker in the last race.

Silverdale Takes Feature At New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Dropping down into a claiming class after performing successfully in the handicap division last year, Mrs. M. B. Price's Silverdale today won the 6-furlong feature at the Fair Grounds.

The 6-year-old mare, ridden by Jimmy Burke, took command at the rise of the barrier and never relinquished her advantage, finishing a length in front of C. V. Whitney's Chimney Sweep. Third went to the rank outsider, John Goff's Mine Sweeper.

Silverdale's race did not compare with her victory in the Inaugural Handicap at Arlington Park last July. She was clocked in the fair time of 1:13, but might have run the distance faster if she had been ridden out.

With Chimney Sweep getting the majority of the backing in the mutuels, Silverdale paid $8.60, $5.20 and $4.20 across the board.

Pan Repeats in Havana Feature.

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Pan, a 7-year-old gelding, but of the money only once in six starts here, today won his second race of the Oriental Park season, defeating a field of platers at 1 mile and 30 yards.

Running in L. Clous' silks, Pan passed the pagoda pole two lengths in front of G. K. Allen's Achtol Lass, another consistent performer over the local turf. G. F. Jenkins' High Life was third.

On the basis of his other races at the Cuban track, Pan was made the favorite, paying 6 to 5. He ran the distance in 1:44 2-5.

TOMBEREAU sprinted into a commanding lead first furlong and held his opposition safe at all stages. CLEAN PLAY broke well, but was unable to keep pace with the leader. SUN MEMORY trailed the pacemakers to top of home stretch, where he moved up in resolute fashion and easily disposed of opposition last furlong. BACCIOCCO, used up racing DOUBLE HEART into submission, tired when put to a drive. He was on the outside of DOUBLE HEART all the way. Latter pinched off at stretch turn, responded gamely to punishment and came again at end. JAMISON, in a jam at start, was pulled up. He closed an immense gap after working his way up on the outside.

LULLABY II, breaking rapidly, went to the front with a rush and, after opening up an easy lead, was taken in hand. FAIR BILLOWS could not get to under wraps, was used up in battle for early supremacy with LUCKY RACKET and RUBRIDGE, but was next best. RUBRIDGE showed good speed for seven furlongs, tired thereafter. LUCKY RACKET tired after setting the pace to the head of the stretch.

VINCENT OUT OF OLD LINE LINE-UP

RUFUS VINCENT, sensational sophomore center, has been lost to the Maryland University quintet for a week due to an ankle injury sustained last Saturday night when the Old Liners defeated Virginia Poly. Vincent's loss will weaken the College Park team for its intracity clash tomorrow night with Catholic University in Ritchie Coliseum.

The veteran Jack Norris, whom Vincent ousted from the center position this year, will take up his old duties in place of the injured star. Norris showed last Saturday that he had lost none of his scoring ability when he tallied twelve points, only one less than Vincent scored. Vincent at present tops the entire Maryland squad in scoring, having sent the ball through the netting for 70 points in nine games.

C. U. Promises Old Liners Battle.

Catholic, despite Maryland's handicap, probably will enter the game tomorrow as the under-dog. The Cardinal quintet has been playing inconsistently. However, it is traditional that Catholic offers its neighbor warm opposition and Maryland anticipates anything but an easy contest. In six previous basket ball meetings with the Cardinals, Maryland has come out victorious four times.

Last year, as an example of the futility of comparing past performances in the case of these two teams, Maryland was barely able to subdue the Cardinals, although heavily favored in the pregame dope.

Maryland has won its last seven games and has been defeated only twice this year. Catholic has won five and lost seven.

BREADON EXPECTS MARTIN TO SHINE

a pitcher. We have another coming along, in AA company now, who should be better than any pitcher we have now.

"We get them young, teach them properly and develop them gradually. By a progressive process on our various clubs, each prospective star is checked and double-checked for any weaknesses. When he is ready for the Cards, we know all about him. We don't have to guess or gamble, because we have the records and all the evidence.

"That's the main difference in and the advantage of our system, as compared with the procedure of paying a high price for a minor league star on the recommendation of one or two scouts."

and Kearney feel that no longer quotations are warranted at this time because of Top Flight's sensational performance in her juvenile year, when she won all of her seven starts to set a new money-winning record for 2-year-olds at $219,000.

Mrs. L. G. Kaufman's Tick On, winner of last year's Hopeful Stakes, is second choice in both lists, Shaw quoting the On Watch colt at 12 to 1 while Kearney holds him 4 points less.

One of the several aspirants for Western championship honors, Burning Blaze, is the third choice of these astute judges of horseflesh. Kearney considers the Big Blaze offspring a 10 to 1 chance, while Shaw is willing to lay 15 to 1 against him.

RECORD A. A. U. TOURNEY SEEN

School Fives Registered For Play

Unlimited, 145, 130 Pound Courtmen Sign for Games.

Entries for Championships to Close February 23.

THE high school basket ball series is going to end a week from today, but thrilling reminders of this conglomeration of scholastic basket ball stars will carry over until late in March, for all five high schools have entered teams in the gigantic District A. A. U. basket ball tournament, which starts the first of next month at Tech High Gym under the auspices of The Washington Post.

Tech's contribution to the tournament will be the Scholastics, captained by Everett Russell, all-high satellite, and composed of the series-leading Tech outfit, Russell, Waverly Wheeler, Bernie Reichardt, Jim Reed, Artie Willison and Fred Thomas.

Eastern has entered two teams, under the name of the Eastern Blues, one an unlimited squad and the other a 145-pound combination. The unlimited outfit bristles with such players as Barney Kane, Jack Bayliss, Bernie Lieb, Bernie Phillips, Ed Edelin and Al Waters. The reserves will make up the 145-pound squad.

Business and Western will put clubs in the 145-pound section, bringing into the tournament players like Shore, Sherman, Tipton and Esenstad, of Business, and Latona, Swanson, Molineaux, McPherson and McCarthy, of Western.

Central's Regular To Play.

Central's first-string combination of Billy Burke, Gene Swift, Bits Keyser, Buddy Nau and Rex Smith, will play under the name of the C Club.

The Oakton (Va.) High, Class C champions of Virginia, were among the 145-pound teams who made a last-minute entrance into the tournament last night when the registration office of Charles Fyfe, of the Boys Club, worked until midnight, the zero hour for registrations of 130, 145 and unlimited team players not already registered in the A. A. U.

Independent teams have met the challenge of the high schools and sent their strongest forces into the field of the 145-pound and unlimited divisions. The independents look upon a victory over the scholastics as one of the chief endeavors of life, and this strong and natural rivalry will reflect even keener competition than that which marked the tournament of 1931, when the high school players split up into many unorganized squads.

There seems little doubt but that when February 23 rolls around and all teams are safely under lock and key in the tournament fold last year's record of 100 outfits of all shapes and sizes will be broken.

CENSUS, NAVAL HOSPITAL WIN

Census had a "hot hand" in the Government Basket Ball League last night and won a runaway 23-3 game from Bureau of Investigation at Bolling Field. The score stood 4-1, at the half, in favor of the winners, who opened wide in the second chapter.

Hitting the Head Pin

—By LEWIS F. ATCHISON—

THE Baptist Young Peoples Union is going in for intercity matches on a large scale, no less than six teams from the Richmond B. Y. P. U. League having been invited to this city for matches with six Washington teams Saturday night. Five games will be rolled at the Lucky Strike alleys this week, and the following Saturday will find the local teams in the Richmond city.

The high average bowlers from each of the 42 teams in the local league will be selected to represent this city in the matches.

Freddy Moore's 141 game for Navy and Gus Frederick's 82 set for Postoffice topped the individual scoring in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia. Internal Revenue pocketed the team game prize with 601, and Postoffice garnered the set award with 1,726.

Gus Arnold, Bill Himer and Paul Clark went on a spree in Section I of the North of Washington League at Silver Spring last night and carried away everything but the fixtures. Gus captured the set honors with 383, and Bill and Paul finished in a dead heat for the game honors with 144 each. Faulconer-Proctor's 605 game enabled it to take the deciding game from Acme Sheet Metal, while the Shade Factory hit the bottles for a set of 1,741 to win a pair from F. G. P., whatever that means. The Howitzer Giants and L. E. Breuninger teams were one game better than Kensington and Service Co. Silver Spring Electric shaved the whiskers of the old-timer for a clean sweep.

Twitty Wittington's 360 set was good for a prize in the King Pin Business Men's League at King Pin. Nash was hitting on all eight as most of the pins in his 142 game will attest. The First Americans rolled a game of 547 and set of 1,679 in winning all three from the Maccabees. National Lithographers cleaned up in their match with Lansburgh No. 2.

It was zero weather for the majority of the losing teams in the Men's Agriculture loop at Columbia. Horticulture, Grain and Fruits were frozen out by Standards, Farm Management and Cooperation. The latter rolled a game of 556 and set of 1,615. Nomics turned in the only one-game victory of the night, winning from Crop Estimate. Terwisse's 131 game and 376 set bagged the individual honors.

In the Ladies Agriculture League, all but one of the decisions recorded were by the odd games. Cooperation murdered the maples for a game of 471 and set of 1,365 to whitewash Inter-Division. Cotton defeated Live Stock. Accounts trimmed Information, and Extension bested Foreign Service. Elsie Romero's 117 game and Mabel Cunningham's 302 set took the individual prizes.

"Doc" Mayo (well, there are some doctors by that name), operated on the duckpins in the Typothetae League at Lucky Strike, and the result was a game of 150. Frank Mischou outlasted the doctor to cop the set laurels with his 4407. The boys from the Big Print Shop had big bowling scores, rolling a game of 602 and set of 1,689. Judd & Detwiler, R. P. Andrews, Columbia Printing, National Capital Press, and Standard Engraving won the deciding tilts of their matches. Gibson Bros., Charles H. Potter, Craftsmen, Byron S. Adams, and Central Printing were left holding the bag. Haywood smeared Potomac Electrotype, and Mellichampe whitewashed National Publishing in the other matches.

Lucy Owen was again the star in the Eastern Star Ladies' League at Lucky Strike, drubbing the duckpins for a 135-game score and 365 set. Washington Centennial No. 1 rolled a game of 535 and grand total of 1,523 in taking three from Mizpah. Another clean sweep was recorded by the Bethany quintet with Acacia on the receiving end. Brookland took two from Columbia, the latter dropping the final game by three pins, and Unity finished a step ahead of Joseph H. Milans.

Tony Santini, although given a battle, shook off Reds Megaw, Ollie Pacini and George Honey to cop the bacon in the District League at Lucky Strike. Tony's high game was 158, his set 411. Pacini rolled a set of 386, while Megaw and Honey finished with high scores of 136 each in a vain effort to collect the game prize. The Fountain Hams dropped two to Temple, rolling games of 583, 601, 576 to the victors' 596, 582 and 612.

For the first time in a month Mike Kapneck failed to win the individual honors in the Merchants' League at Convention Hall. The honors were garnered by Viands, of Thompson's Dairy, last night, toppling the pins for a high game of 147 and set of 365. Rubbing it in, Kapneck's team dropped a couple to W. R. Winslow. Uneeda Bakers finally won a match, taking two of the three from Thompson's Furniture, while Penn Electric jolted Southern Dairies with an odd-game win. Thompson's Dairy won all three from Barber & Ross, while the National Glass Shop took the final game from W. B. Moses.

The Fagans threw the league-leading La Billies for a two-game loss in the Sanico League at Convention Hall. Included in the winners' 1,620 set was a game of 554. The Tienckens rolled to a 2-1 victory over Uppermans, while the Willises and Kings stopped the Fosters and Hendricks by the same margin. The McFalls took all three from the Wynns. Moody's 143 game, and Douglas' 364 set, led the scoring.

It was Crew-Levick night in the Petroleum circuit, at least the Crew-Levick boys thought so, for they topped the teams in scoring with a game of 570 and set of 1,600 while winning two from Tidewater. Ken Stubbs, a member of the Twins, hammered the hardwood for a game of 139 and set of 345 to lead the individual pinspilling. Gulf took two from American, and Lord Baltimore walloped the Texas crew. The other matches were postponed.

Sam Del Vecchio and "Doc" Mayo (there he is again), staged a heated duel for the prizes in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike, with Sam taking the cake by virtue of his 138 game and 393 set. The doctor's best game was a 137, and a 365 set. Incidentally, Sam's team, Barnes Autos, defeated Mayo's King's Palace team by a single game.

Miss Butrimawick had a couple of scores almost as long as her name in the General Counsel Ladies loop at Lucky Strike. Her game of 111 and set of 295 took the awards. Civil hit the headpin for a game of 471 and 1,285 set to win two from Administration. Penal took the odd one from Answers, and Petitions was one up on Appeals.

NORTHERN PREPS WIN TWO.

In a game that went two extra periods before a decision was reached, the Northern Preps defeated the Brookland Athletic Club last night at Takoma-Silver Spring High, 35 to 31. In the preliminary, the Northern Prep 130-pound team defeated the Dixie Pig Preps, 36 to 13.

TIE FOR LEAD LIKELY FOR EASTERN

Should Beat Western Today; Central to Face Business.

EASTERN HIGH is heavily favored to gain a first place tie with Tech High team today in the high school series, when it meets the last place Westerners. The game, at Tech Gym, will start at 3:30 o'clock, followed by Central, next to last appearance in the tournament, against Business.

Eastern, like the present first place Tech team, survived the issuance of scholastic marks without a tremor and stands ready today to go into the home stretch with all cylinders except Ben Zola, guard, functioning. Zola sustained a knee wrench in the Eastern-Business game last Friday which has necessitated his walking with a cane since. He is expected to be out for the season.

Zola's place in the starting line-up today is expected to be taken by Eddy Edelin, the youth who, making his first series appearance last Friday, put Eastern ahead of Business with a minute left of the game.

Western will not have Everett Buscher, who graduated last Friday, and is expected to offer only passing opposition to the fleet and well-trained Lincoln Park outfit. Bill Payne, center, injured in the Tech-Western game, will play part of the game.

Central, hurt by the loss of Billy Burke, its captain and heavy scoring forward, is a bare favorite over Business in the second game today. Business lost Leon Esonstad, forward, and Bobby Cook, center, through graduation, but retains the heavy guns of the club, Carroll Shore, Ollie Tipton, and Huck Cavanaugh. Joe Sherman, absent through illness the last two games, is expected back and will play at forward. Grimm, a burley center, will tap off.

Tech's game with St. John's, at St. John's, is the feature of the remainder of the day's card, which also lists St. Alban's and Friends, at St. Alban's.

Eastern High Upsets Georgetown Preps

Eastern High upset one of the strongest prep school outfits yesterday at Eastern Gymnasium when Georgetown Prep was taken into camp by a score of 19 to 13, one of Eastern's narrowest scares of the year, which has brought them 22 victories and 1 defeat.

Georgetown Prep hung doggedly to the Lincoln Parkers until the very end of the struggle, when Edelen and Bayliss popped a basket apiece through the loop and separated the clubs as the final whistle sounded.

The score at the first quarter was 3 to 2, at the half 8 to 6, and 12 to 10 at the third quarter. Eastern was never headed, but found its mettle tested to the limit by the Garrett Park combination.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Hearty indorsement of the George Washington Essay contest sponsored by The Washington Post was voiced in a resolution adopted last night by the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce at its meeting in the Montgomery County Building.

The resolution was presented by E. J. Murphy, prominent in business and civic life of Washington and Montgomery County for many years. Mr. Murphy said he had noted that civic and business organizations throughout Washington and nearby communities had been indorsing the contest and that he felt formal indorsement by the chamber might act as a spur to Montgomery County school children, who are entering the contest in large numbers. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

The chamber on motion of John Sadler voted to appoint a committee of five to formulate a schedule of police ordinances which should be promulgated by the Montgomery County Commissioners to care for the needs of the suburban area. The chamber also adopted a resolution commending the action taken toward condemning Bethesda avenue and Reed street crossings over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks. Plans for the George Washington Bicentennial lighting of business streets presented by Thomas Laffin were referred to the committee on industrial interests.

G. Wady Imirie, chairman of the school committee, was directed to name two other members for a special committee to select a site for the proposed Western Suburban Senior High School. The chamber voted to go on record favoring the street car merger bill following the presentation of a resolution by J. Harry Welch, chairman of the committee on public utilities. Emory H. Bogley presented a resolution urging the removal of the animal husbandry experimental station of the Department of Agriculture and conversion of the property into a public park.

At the same time E. G. Buckland, president of the Railroad Credit Corporation, was planning to go to Washington tomorrow to discuss with Gen. Charles G. Dawes the matter of coordinating the activities of the Railroad Credit Organization with the Reconstruction Corporation.

The Railroad Credit Corporation was organized to collect the increase in revenues from the higher freight rates which went into effect on January 4, from which to make loans to needy carriers.

McBride's Wounds Check With Story of His Murder

The knife wounds received by Barney McBride when he was killed nearly ten years ago correspond with the location of the wounds described by witnesses who implicate Temple Biggs, Prince Georges County authorities said last night.

Mrs. Lily W. Pumphrey says Biggs told her McBride was stabbed several times in the back of the shoulder and neck. Sheriff W. C. Hopkins last night consulted the files of the police department here, in which the wealthy Indian oil man's injuries were described as being four wounds in the neck and back. Biggs' account of the murder, Mrs. Pumphrey said, also stated that another man struck McBride with a club. Wounds on the body corroborated this, the skull of the dead man having been battered in.

Another clue followed out by Sheriff Hopkins yesterday proved false, it was reported. A colored man living in Silver Hill was said to have overheard Biggs telling of the murder, but the man denied that he had heard any such conversation.

The sheriff said he plans to search today for the remains of the truck used to carry McBride's body to the culvert near Meadows, Md., where it was found. The truck was so bloody that it had to be taken into the woods nearby and burned, according to the statement alleged to have been made by Biggs.

Mrs. Biggs yesterday visited her husband in the jail at Marlboro, where he is being held as an accessory to the murder. Authorities do not believe Biggs to have been one of the murderers, but are trying to get him to admit his part in disposing of the body. They have statements made by both Mrs. Pumphrey and Leo Hazel which aver that Biggs has confessed to them his part in the killing. A hearing on the charges against Biggs has been set for February 9.

Mrs. Biggs told reporters yesterday that her husband had never said anything to her of the killing, added that he talked in his sleep and could not have kept it from her. She also said their youngest son, Aubrey, 3 years old, was ill with grief for his father.

ARLINGTON STUDYING 3 ROUTES TO BRIDGE

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Within the next 90 days Arlington County will have an adequate approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge, County Manager Roy S. Braden told the members of the Rosslyn Precinct Civic League at its meeting last night in the Woodrow Wilson School, at Fort Myer Heights.

There are now three different routes being studied and the one that will be of the greatest service to the greatest number of citizens of the county will be selected, Mr. Braden stated.

He stated that he has in mind now a development for the Rosslyn section and at the proper time it will be made public. "I want you to study it. If you approve it say so, if not let us get together and determine upon what is best for this section," he continued.

He further stated that all employes under his jurisdiction shall be qualified voters of the county, but who will not look to political influence to hold their positions.

Work of preparing a comprehensive financial statement for Arlington County, covering all delinquent water and scavenger accounts and sinking funds to retire the county water bond issue, was begun yesterday by the firm of James Stuart Ball, accountants, of Washington.

Blizzard Hinders Hunt for 8 Fliers

Brave Attempts Made to Find Plane Missing Since Friday.

Los Angeles, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A blizzard held in check today the main search for a Century-Pacific trimotored monoplane, which disappeared last Friday on a flight between Bakersfield and Glendale with five men and three women aboard.

A few brave attempts were made by airplane pilots and ground searchers to explore some sections of the mountainous region south of Lebec, but they were almost futile in the face of trying weather conditions. The most logical reports indicated the plane was last sighted in the area south of Lebec.

Fourteen planes were in the air for short periods during the day, ten operating out of Bakersfield and the remainder from Glendale, but they returned empty-handed.

ALEXANDRIA PARADE ROUTE IS SWITCHED

The route of the parade in Alexandria February 22 in celebration of the 200th birthday of George Washington has been changed and it is understood that the change is at the instance of Col. Starling, of the White House staff.

The route as amended will be east on King street to Royal street, thence north to Cameron street, west to Washington street and north to Wythe or the point of disbandment.

The stand from which President Hoover will review the parade will be located at Princess and Washington streets instead of at the point from which George Washington last reviewed troops under his command at Gadsby's Tavern. The procession will pass Gadsby's Tavern, but this fact loses the significance which had been planned by the George Washington Birthday Association, which had intended that this parade should follow the route taken by the Colonial troops in 1799 and should receive the salute which was accorded to them by their chief when he bade farewell to his command.

The Mary Custis Lee-Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will present a bicentennial program at the meeting tonight at 8 o'clock, in Lee Camp Hall. The pledge to the flag will be led by Archie Norford, of Jefferson School; address, "Ancestry and Childhood of Gen. Washington," Miss Virginia Saum, of Lee-Jackson School; address, "Washington, the Surveyor," Conway Brawner, jr., Alexandria High School; vocal solo, Miss Elizabeth Chamblin, with Mrs. Eva Gregg Lindsay as accompanist; address, "Washington, the Citizen," Miss Nancy Sentz, St. Agnes' Episcopal School; reading of the prize essay, "Gen. Robert E. Lee, the Man," Francis Coleman Rosenberger. This essay was given the award of the chapter at the banquet in honor of Gen. Lee's birthday, January 19.

The funeral of Mrs. Nannie Goodwin Weaver, wife of Joseph L. Weaver, of 338 Girault avenue, Virginia Highlands, who died on Saturday last, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the Wheatley funeral home, 809 King street. The services will be conducted by the Rev. J. W. Townsend, pastor of Calvary Methodist Protestant Church, Virginia Highlands, and burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Robey, widow of John T. Robey, who died Saturday, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of the church. Burial will be in Union Cemetery.

Elliott P. Hoffman, clerk of the corporation court, reported yesterday that in the month of January his office collected $873 from prohibition fines.

Mrs. W. G. Cram, a former missionary to Korea, will address the woman's missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal Chuch South this afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the church.

Husband's Uncle Sues Woman for $10,000

Suit for $10,000 damages alleging personal injury and assault was filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court yesterday by Robert S. Moxley, of near Kemptown, Md., against his nephew's estranged wife, Mrs. Tressie L. Moxley, also of near Kemptown. The suit was filed by Attorney Albert M. Bouic, of Rockville.

Mrs. Moxley earlier in the day had been ordered to pay a fine of $50 or serve 50 days in jail on charges of assault preferred by Mr. Moxley in County Police Court before Judge Charles W. Woodward. Mrs. Moxley appealed to the Circuit Court. Mrs. Moxley is alleged to have assaulted Mr. Moxley after she had warned him to remain off the property.

New South Wales Fails to Get Cash

Australian Loan Council Refuses Advance for Loan Interest.

Melbourne, Australia, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The Commonwealth Loan Council, which represents all Australian governments, has refused to advance $2,500,000 to the State of New South Wales to meet interest payments due in London and New York.

The refusal was revealed after a meeting of the council today at which Prime Minister Joseph Lyons, head of the new commonwealth government, accused Premier J. T. Lang, of New South Wales, of failing to carry out his solemn undertakings to the council.

It was believed the commonwealth government will appeal to the high court to compel New South Wales to meet its obligations. Meanwhile, the monthly returns to New South Wales, due under the revenue clauses of the constitution, would be withheld, it was believed, for application to the state's overseas obligations.

STOCK PRICES RALLY ON RAIL WAGE NEWS

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The security markets made the most of the news today, advancing along a rather broad front. Stocks found they had not fully discounted the 10 per cent wage cut for railroad labor, and that members of the "war" group could be advanced easily. The result was the best rally since January 13, amounting to 2.7 points in the averages.

Shares had a brisk rally at the opening, met some quick profit-taking and then advanced quietly until afternoon, when further realizing appeared. However, the day's dullest period came with this setback and there was a resumption of the advance at the close, which found leaders at or near their best prices, net gains ranging from 1 to 4 points for leaders. Turnover reached the modest total of 1,517,116 shares.

Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Atlas Powder, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft and the steels became vehicles of speculative attention in circles which seemed to feel that affairs in the Far East warranted creation of a "war bride" group. It was noteworthy, however, that the metal markets remained heavy, copper being reduced by custom smelters, and cotton closed about unchanged.

Steel Advances 3 Points.

Behind the gain of more than 3 points in U. S. Steel was probably a belief that railroads, aided by wage cut and higher freight rates, would soon place large orders for rails, and rumors to this effect was circulated. Nevertheless, only the other day a prominent steel executive said he expected the carriers in the event of a wage reduction would be in the market only for actual requirements and that no large buying program was in prospect.

Talk of a "war market" was frowned on in banking quarters which pointed out that formal hostilities, even though only two nations were involved should hardly be hailed as bullish when so large a part of the world is already laboring under enormous financial handicaps.

At the outset of the last war, it was recalled, business became badly demoralized and some time elapsed before the fighting in Europe had speculative reflections in Wall street.

Oil Dividends Maintained.

Three large oil companies—Standard of New Jersey, Socony-Vacuum and Standard of Indiana—maintained their dividend rates, the first named declaring the usual 25-cent extra. This news came around midday, when stocks were advancing and it added some fuel to the rise.

Active railroad shares were up 1 to about 3 points net. Coverage for interest charges now appears to have been assured, at least in a large majority of instances, and Wall street believes this protection should have a stimulating effect on railway bonds. At face value it would appear that the carriers' net had been swelled by something more than $300,000,000 by the wage cut and freight rise, although, in the final analysis, the maintenance of a comfortable safety margin depends on traffic. Car loading reports will be closely followed.

There were few signs of monthly settlements in the money market. The "outside" call rate firmed up to 3½ per cent, the official figure, but otherwise no surface changes develop. Bankers' acceptances are being offered in large volume. However, demand has recently diminished.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—In a big flare-up of buying on account of increased transpacific war dangers, wheat soared 2½ cents a bushel today.

Broader export demand for wheat from North America went hand in hand with war news. On the rise in prices, however, heavy selling to realise profits gave the market a decided setback from the top.

Upturns in wheat values began at the opening, and it soon became apparent that in contrast with what had heretofore been the case the major influence was war developments. At the outset, however, an advance in quotations on securities was the chief immediate factor, together with assertions that crop damage to domestic wheat had resulted from the cold wave. Anxiety about crop became of secondary importance, however, after general rising temperatures over the grain belt were noted.

The day's top prices in wheat were attained after a succession of reports of stirring events in China apparently indicated growing likelihood of other nations than Orientals being drawn into hostilities. The price bulges and the accompanying enlargement of North American wheat export business were in the face of a decided increase of the amount of wheat afloat for importing countries, both as compared with last week and a year ago. Incidentally, a further bullish factor was announcement that France would augment the quota of imported wheat allowed to be ground by French millers.

Corn and oats advanced with wheat, but the rise led to a marked increase in rural offerings of corn.

Provisions were strengthened by advances both of hog values and cereals.

GAS LIGHT'S PROFITS LARGEST IN HISTORY

Company Nets $1,277,623, Increase of $367,177 Above 1930 Gains.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The calendar year 1931 was described as the best in the history of Washington Gas Light Co. and its subsidiaries by George A. G. Wood, president of the company. In his annual report to stockholders yesterday, President Wood announced a new all-time high net income of $1,277,623.32, an increase of $367,177.34 above 1930.

High lights of the report follow: Gas production cost lowered from 34.69 cents in 1930 to 28.36 cents a thousand cubic feet; execution of a $1,668,324 program of modernization; decrease of distribution expense almost 10 per cent, in spite of a 13 per cent increase in consumption; net sale of $1,069,400 worth of appliances by the new business department; the companies showed a gain in the average number of meters in use of 44,776, and the income per meter increased $2.14 over 1930.

In spite of unprecedented warm weather in the last quarter, gas sales reached 7,047,375,000 cubic feet, as compared with 6,213,193,000 cubic feet in 1930. Gross earnings reached $6,527,345, a gain of $294,451. Net earnings were $2,374,516, a growth of $432,292. Net earnings, after income tax, rose $367,177.34. A rate reduction of $400,000 was overcome in addition to the net increase achieved. The annual meeting of stockholders was postponed two weeks, due to lack of a quorum.

Acacia Mutual's Stability.

Statistical reports which reveal the fundamental stability of the Acacia Mutual Life Association and bring out graphically the importance of that institution in the economic life of the National Capital have just been submitted to the board of directors by William Montgomery, president.

For example, Acacia's income during 1931, according to Mr. Montgomery's analysis, just made available, was more than $12,600,000 as compared with $12,000,000 in 1930. Assets of Acacia rose more than $5,600,000 in 1931 and now stand at more than $45,000,000, attesting notably to the strength of the association.

Of outstanding importance in the economic life and development of Washington is the fact that home office disbursements for salaries last year were in excess of $700,000. Furthermore, Mr. Montgomery has recently made known that Acacia will maintain its home office force of more than 400 employes intact.

Payments to Policyholders.

Noteworthy, also, are the figures covering disbursements to policyholders. During the last year, Acacia paid out more than $4,700,000 in claims, of which $2,900,000 was to living policyholders through dividends, matured endowments and cash values.

At the 77th annual meeting of stockholders of the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. held yesterday, all managers were reelected, as follows: Charles Kattelmann, L. Pierce Botteler, Charles M. Boteler Henry E. Bittinger, E. C. Brandenburg, Frank A. Johnson and Arthur Carr.

A resolution was passed authorizing the managers to apply to Congress for amendments to the company's charter, removing certain restrictions and permitting the company to transact a more active business.

Earl D. Krewson, director, Washington branch, New York Life Insurance Co., was honored with a luncheon at Lee House yesterday by the branch staff on the occasion of his 30th anniversary of service with the company, 22 years of which were spent with the local agency and eight in Philadelphia. During his administration local business has increased from $250,000 to $7,000,000. Mr. Krewson was presented with a gold wrist watch and an engrossed testimonial bearing the signatures of the entire force.

20 Years' Service Rewarded.

Two other members of the local staff were rewarded for twenty years' uninterrupted service. They are Z. B. Lloyd and John Grady. These were given, respectively, a desk set and purse of gold and both received engrossed testimonials. G. Lea Stabler presided and the presentations on behalf of the staff were made by C. E. Tuchton, John P. Lynch, Mrs. Edith C. Salisbury and C. K. Millican. Congratulatory telegrams included one from Vice President Langmuir of the company.

F. S. Munsell, Philadelphia, inspector of agencies for the Atlantic division of the company, was the principal speaker. He complimented G. W. Rothkopf as the outstanding cashier of the organization and expressed the hope that the division's accomplishment would be as brilliant as that of its local branch. He stressed the importance of gaining prospects. The agency did a $1,000,000 business last month. David Samakow headed the committee on arrangements, which had as members Miss J. M. Woods, George W. Rothkopf, C. E. Tuchton and F. Turner Munsell.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Utility and oil stocks led a moderate improvement in Curb Market prices today. Trading expanded slightly over recent volume, sales approximating 190,000 shares.

A few stocks falling in the so-called "war" group came to life but the general run of gains was small. Colt Fire Arms, usually inactive, rose 4⅞ net on light transactions. Aero Supply was up a point and Detroit Aircraft, in a fairly large turnover, improved fractionally.

Oils were helped by the regular dividend on Standard of Indiana, which traded rather briskly, improving ¼ net. Gulf's advance was 1⅝. Kentucky Standard and Humble were firm.

In the utilities, Electric Bond & Share returned a major fractional rise. American Gas and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were up a couple of points. Middle West, United Light "A," St. Regis Paper, Niagara Hudson and American Superpower had small gains. Associated Gas common dropped more than a point but the "A" was steady. This company is taking further steps to simplify its capital structure.

Low-priced industrials were steady and very dull. Investment trusts were featureless.

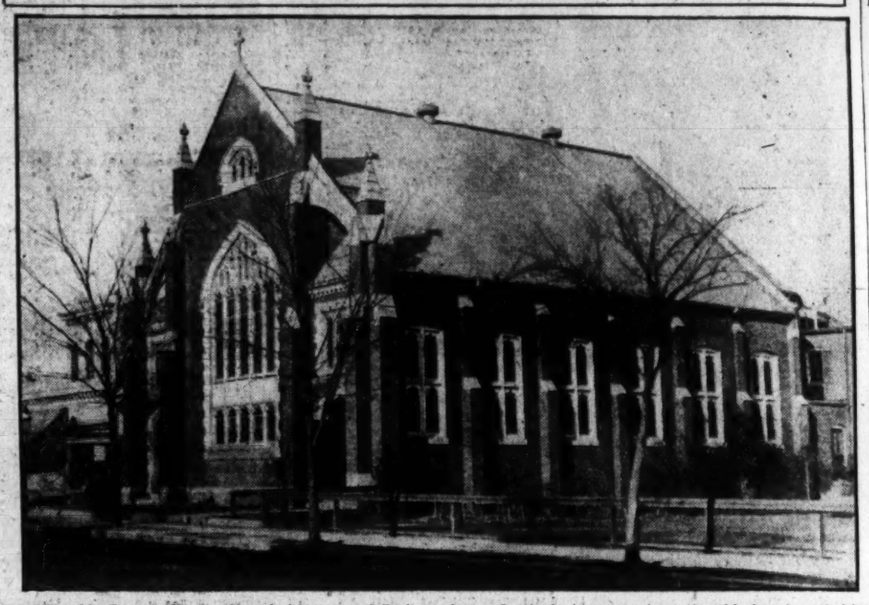
When Washington Was Younger—No. 182



THE old Sacred Heart Church, that stood on the site at Fourteenth street and Park road, where the Tivoli Theater now stands, is shown in the above picture.

This church was built in 1901 and was torn down to make way for the theater in 1922. That is also the year that the new church at Sixteenth street and Park road was finished at an approximate cost of a million and a half dollars.

The Rev. Joseph McGee was the first pastor of this church and he was succeeded by the Rev. P. C. Gavan eighteen years ago, who is still pastor of the church. His assistants that moved from the old church with him are Father John F. Eckenrode, now pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Baltimore, Md., and Father Michael J. Finnerty, who was at one time secretary to Cardinal Gibbons.

3 ARRESTS BELIEVED TO HAVE FRUSTRATED ROBBERIES OF BANKS

Two Maryland Men Accuse District Resident of Planning Holdups.

CAFE CHAIN COLLECTOR ALSO PLANNED VICTIM

An alleged plot to rob two banks and a collector for a chain of restaurants was believed frustrated with the arrest of three men yesterday by headquarters detectives, acting on a "confidential tip." They are being held for investigation.

Two of the men, from Sharpsburg, Md., gave their names as Harry Erickson Hamilton, 37 years old, and Hilton Elias Groves, 27 years old. It is said by police that they admitted the plot and implicated the third man, who was arrested later in the day when he went to headquarters to report the theft of his automobile. He gave his name as Chester Franklin Foote, 29 years old, of 1112 Florida avenue northeast.

Questioned About Holdups.

They were questioned by police in connection with the robbery of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank on January 15 and the holdup of a Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. messenger on a bus last Saturday.

According to the Maryland men's statement to the police, they came to Washington in response to a letter offering one of them a job, but when they arrived here the job failed to materialize and, instead, Foote, who is a poultry dealer, is said to have discussed plans for the robberies. The two banks that were to have been involved are at Gainesville, Md., and Del Ray, Va., and the collector is a woman working for a chain of restaurants.

Prison Records Charged.

Hamilton and Groves, according to detectives investigating the case, have both served terms in the penitentiary, one for counterfeiting and the other for participation in a bank holdup. Foote is said to have admitted planning the proposed holdups, but that he was under the influence of liquor at the time.

Witnesses of the local bank robbery and messenger holdup will probably view the suspects today.

2 Cabmen Escape; Liquor Is Seized

Detected While Unloading Cases at House; Two Women Held.

Police are seeking two colored cab drivers who escaped yesterday when they were seen unloading liquor from their cabs at a house in the 1600 block of Covington street.

Policeman J. A. Godbold, of the Second Precinct, saw the two men as they were carrying the last of a number of cases into the house, and when he called to them, they ran through the house and escaped by a back door.

Upon investigating Godbold found 26 quarts of alleged liquor in the house and arrested two colored women for investigation. A smoke screen equipment and a half-gallon of liquor later were found in one of the cabs, according to police.

Dental Gold Is Stolen From Building Offices

The offices of three dentists in Vermont avenue and L street norththe Medical Science Building, at west, were entered by thieves early yesterday morning and valuables, including quantities of dental gold, valued at $130 were taken.

The heaviest loser was Dr. Leroy Elliott, of 3700 Massachusetts avenue northwest, who told police that more than $50 worth of dental gold and a watch and chain valued at $60 were taken from him. Dr. Neal McDonald, of 2801 Adams Mill road northwest, lost $20 worth of dental gold. The office of Dr. Benjamin J. Madert, of 1117 Harvard street northwest, was forced open, but he said nothing was missing.

On a charge of destroying private property, Ladonia Williams, colored, the mother of sixteen children, yesterday was sent to jail for 45 days by Judge John P. McMahon, in Police Court.

She was convicted of taking a razor and slashing three suits, two overcoats, four pairs of shoes and three hats so that their owner, Everett J. Williams, colored, could not wear them.

Realty Seller Given Car at Auto Show

Paul G. Mills was rather excited last night when The Post informed him by telephone that he had been awarded a 1932 Plymouth coach on the third night of the automobile show.

Although he has a car, getting the new one was "mighty fine and mighty lucky," Mr. Mills, who is a real estate salesman, lives at 1530 Rhode Island avenue northeast. He said he left the show shortly before the tickets were drawn and did not know of his good fortune until apprised by The Post. He is married.

Attendance records for Monday's of all automobile shows were broken last night when nearly 5,000 persons gathered in the auditorium to view motordom's latest. On the same day last year the attendance was 3,000.

Tonight's gift automobile will be a four-door Studebaker sedan.

COMPANY TO REVEAL GAS CUT PLAN TODAY

Annual Report Shows 40 Per Cent Increase in Earnings in 1931.

Officials of the Washington Gas Light Co. late yesterday informed Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, that they would submit early today a proposed schedule of reduced gas rates for the Washington and the Georgetown companies. They gave no indication what the rates may be.

This action indicated that the board of directors of the two companies has approved the reduced rates proposed by the local management, as announced last week by George A. G. Wood, president. Engineers have been studying these rates in New York.

Accompanying Mr. Wood yesterday when he called on Gen. Patrick was Arthur Dean, counsel for the Central Public Service Corporation, and Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for the Washington Gas Light Co.

A stockholders' meeting, called for yesterday, was postponed for two weeks because of the failure to obtain a quorum. The report of Mr. Wood for the past year, however, was released to the press.

Net earnings for the Washington Gas Light Co. and its subsidiaries, as figured by the company's own accountants, failed to reach the $500,000 estimated by Mr. Keech but reached $2,374,516, or $432,292 more than in 1930 or only $367,177.34 after the income tax is deducted. This is a 40 per cent increase over 1930 net income.

This increase was attributed by Mr. Wood as "due to a combination of new business activities and operating economies." He also pointed out that "a rate reduction of $400,000 has been overcome in addition to the net increase achieved."

Columbus U. Picks John R. Fitzpatrick

John R. Fitzpatrick, assistant United States attorney, will succeed Sefton Darr as assistant dean of Columbus University, the board of trustees announced. Mr. Darr resigned recently.

Mr. Fitzpatrick has been serving as secretary of the university and professor in evidence since last year. He is a graduate of the school, holding LL. B., L. L. M. and M. P. L. degrees.

He has visited many countries in the foreign service of the State and Commerce Departments, and, prior to his appointment to the office of the district attorney in 1929, was secretary to the late Justice Siddons.

At his appointment he was assigned to the Police Court, and, after a year's service there, was placed in charge of the grand jury. Recently he was promoted to the duty of trial prosecutor.

'Indecent' Novelty Case Trial Is Set for Feb. 10

Nathan Sickle, 68 years old, operator of a novelty store, at 1011 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, demanded a jury trial yesterday when he was arraigned in Police Court on a charge of having for sale an allegedly indecent novelty that contained printed matter objectionable by the United States Attorney's office.

His trial was set for Febuary 10 and he was released on $500 bond.

Government Buys Apartment Houses

Some Tenants Stay But Prospects for Heat Are Nebulous.

The Government has gone into the apartment house business by purchasing two buildings in the southwest section of the city, but does not promise to be a very good provider of heat and service for its tenants.

The buildings, the Veronica, at 210 Thirteenth street southwest, and the Sussex, at 1228 to 1236 B street southwest, are on the site of the extensible building of the Department of Agriculture.

The Government purchased them yesterday and, although many of the tenants have moved out knowing that the buildings will soon be razed, several still remain and are not legally compelled to move for 30 days. In the mean time the Treasury is wondering where it will get any money to heat the buildings and keep them up before they can legally force the tenants out. And the tenants are wondering if there is going to be any heat.

TIRE MAN'S PENALTY IN RUM CASE UPHELD

Frank Shore Will Serve Year in Prison After Term for Court Contempt.

The conviction of Frank Shore, former New York avenue tire shop proprietor, on a charge of failing to pay the duty on imported liquor that was found in his place when police raided it, was sustained by the Court of Appeals yesterday in a ruling handed down by Justice Lawrence D. Groner.

The Court said: "We have examined the evidence on its merits, and we think that enough was proved to justify the verdict of the jury." The Government proved that the liquor found in Shore's establishment at 1223 New York avenue was imported, the Court held, and the failure of the defense to show that the import taxes had been paid on it justified the conviction.

In this connection, the Court of Appeals said that "It is consistent with all the protections of accused men to throw on them the burden of proving facts peculiarly within their knowledge and hidden from discovery by the Government."

Shore is already serving a sentence for contempt of court. On that, he would be eligible for parole in April. The sustaining of his second conviction gives him a year and a day in addition to serve.

"Bucky" Harris Pleads Guilty of Auto Speeding

Stanley Harris, better known to thousands of Washington baseball fans as "Bucky" Harris, yesterday plead guilty to an auto-speeding charge in Police Court, and was released on his personal bond by Judge Ralph Given.

He was arrested late in January, by Policeman H. O. Tutt. Mr. Harris gave his address as 2101 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Teacher Loses $30 From Desk.

Miss Florence Mortimer, principal of the Wheatley School, at Montello avenue and Neal street northeast, reported to police yesterday that her handbag was stolen from a desk drawer in her office. The bag contained $15 and other incidentals with a total value of $30.

BILL URGES BOARD FOR ECONOMY QUIZ

The Bureau of Efficiency would be made the instrument for departmental retrenchment, under a bill to create a "survey board" within the bureau, introduced yesterday by Representative James F. Fullbright (Democrat), Missouri.

The board, comprising four members appointed by the President from outside the ranks of Government employes, would make a complete survey of governmental agencies, with a view to increasing efficiency and decreasing the costs of Government.

Under ex-officio chairmanship of the chief of the bureau, the board would eliminate useless boards, bureaus and commissions; consolidate agencies whose functions are related and "modernize, systematize and standardize" Federal functions.

As two bills for abolition of the Bureau of Efficiency are pending before House and Senate, the Fullbright proposal is expected to meet with stiff opposition.

Three other bills affecting Federal personnel were introduced in House and Senate yesterday. Senator Wesley L. Jones (Republican), Washington, proposed extending the Saturday half-holiday law to Federal employes in the Canal Zone.

Two bills introduced in the House by Representative Frederick W. Dallinger (Republican), Massachusetts, would adjust the pay of laborers in the Railway Mail Service on the basis of 306 days per annum and establish a minimum $1,200 annual wage for cleaners in first-class postoffices.

Milton Guy, colored, convicted with John Borum and John Logan of the murder of Lamar Watson York, prohibition agent, in Brooks court northwest, April 12, 1930, will get a new trial, while the convictions of the other two will be allowed to stand as affirmed, the District Court of Appeals held yesterday.

The court said there was no testimony connecting Guy with the shooting, with the excpetion of a statement by Borum. On that ground, a new trial in so far as he was concerned, was ordered.

The Court of Appeals sent the case to the United States Supreme Court for a decision as to the consistency of a verdict which found all three men not guilty of actually firing the shot that killed York, and then found all three collectively guilty. The highest court said a verdict did not have to be consistent; that each count of an indictment stood as though it was a separate indictment.

House Bill Asks Curb on Firearms

Stringent regulation of firearms sale and possession, espoused by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, was proposed in a House bill introduced yesterday by Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey.

"All agree that its enactment would serve the need felt for the control of the possession, sale, transfer and use of pistols and other dangerous weapons in the District," Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer wrote the House District committee.

Another bill, raising from $1,000 to $5,000 the limitation on the Commissioners' powers to proceed without contract in construction and repair projects, will be introduced today by Mrs. Norton. The Commissioners contend the work can be performe more economically under this arrangement.

Two Houses Damaged By Fire.

Adjoining houses at 604 and 606 K street southwest yesterday were slightly damaged by fire which originated from an overheated stove on the second floor of the home of Claborn Roberts, at 606. The flames spread through the partition to the home of Clement Buth next door, before they were halted by firemen.

5 OBJECTIONS FILED TO PENDING BILL ON MERGING CAR LINES

Citizens Federation Official Seeks Changes in Terms; Hearing Today.

CHARTER BY CONGRESS TO BE URGED BY GROUP

Five objections to the traction merger bill were laid before two congressional District committees yesterday by Chairman William McK. Clayton, of the Federation of Citizens Associations' public utilities committee, who will testify at Senate District committee hearings opening at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Five amendments proposed to overcome the objections were left at the office of Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, chairman of the utilities subcommittee of the House District committee.

Representative Black will decide today whether he will hold hearings on the proposed amendments, or recommend that his subcommittee favorably report the bill out at a meeting of the House District committee tomorrow morning.

Traction Heads Favor Bill.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, and heads of the two street car companies, will indorse the bill in its present form at Senate District committee hearings opening this afternoon.

Mr. Clayton, backed by the Federation of Citizens Associations, will ask first that the new company be granted a congressional charter, so that it will be responsible to Congress for its conduct. He will urge that transfers from bus to bus and from bus to street cars be provided, and that the Washington Rapid Transit Co. be merged with the two traction lines.

Two other proposed amendments would strike out provision that no competitive transportation line be allowed to operate without a certificate from the Public Utilities Commission, and would stipulate that expenses of the merger be treated in the new company's accounts as ordered by the Public Utilities Commission.

Capper Is for Merg

Senator Capper, who will preside at today's hearings, is sympathetic with merger legislation, providing it can be proved in the public interest. He promised "thorough hearings."

Representative Black also favors a traction merger. He was in New York yesterday. Before he left he indicated his subcommittee will favorably report the bill, lacking opposition. The proposed Clayton amendments, awaiting his return today, may alter his position.

Howe Fraud Case Term Is Affirmed

Court of Appeals Rules for Conviction Verdict of Three Years.

The District Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the conviction of Zora E. Howe, who is now serving a three-year sentence following her conviction in the District Supreme Court on a charge of obtaining $1,500 under false pretenses from Jane D. Pierson, a nurse.

Mrs. Howe, posing as the wife of the late Henry E. Flagler, Florida railroad magnate, obtained from Miss Pierson "her life's savings through a sordid swindle without a single extenuating circumstance," it was charged. The Appellate Court said that such a conviction should not be lightly set aside.

The Court of Appeals had been asked to rule on the question of whether or not a police officer could testify about certain past crimes in such a case.

Girls Reported Missing In Bridle Path Garb

Washington police have been asked to look out for two girls, Elizabeth Roberts, 18 years old, and Dorothy Maxwell, 20 years old, who disappeared from their Berwyn, Md., home last Thursday.

Mrs. Maxwell said last night she knew of no reason why the pair, both of whom wore riding clothes, should leave home. They had no money, she said, and had not shown any inclination to travel. The Roberts girl is tall, with brown eyes and black hair. The other is slightly shorter, and slender, with blond, bobbed hair and blue eyes.

Shout Routs 2 Robbers Stealing Pants at Shop

When a neighbor saw two colored men steal three pairs of pants from a window of the tailor shop of Samuel Phillips, at 1420 P street northwest, he yelled and the thieves became so scared they dropped the pants and ran.

Fitzhugh Baskerville, of 1413 P street, was awakened early yesterday by the sound of crashing glass, and looking out his window, saw the robbers reach in and grab the pants, he shouted and the loot was left on the sidewalk. A brick had been thrown through the window.

Bicyclist Gravely Hurt In Collision With Truck

William McKinney, 20 years old, of 538 Eleventh street southeast, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he ran into a truck in the 3600 block of New Hampshire avenue northwest, while riding a bicycle.

He was treated by a private physician for a fracture of the left arm and lacerations to the face and head. He was later removed to Emergency Hospital where he is said to be in an undetermined condition. According to police, the driver of the truck was Robert Joyce, of 716 Lamont street northwest.

Trades Group Joins Fight Against Engineers' Shakeup

The sudden reorganization of the District engineer department, which created protest at a special meeting of the Federation of Citizens Associations Saturday night, was assailed from another source yesterday.

The executive committee of the Building Trades Employers Association at a meeting adopted a resolution not only protesting against the shakeup but also calling upon the District Commissioners to answer certain objections raised by the committee.

Charles J. Columbus, executive secretary, in explaining the action, said: "We are not fighting for any individual, but merely against the principle of the thing. Moreover, we are confident that a competent man could have been found in Washington to fill the position of director of construction, for which a Rochester engineer has been engaged."

The resolution in part follows:

"Whereas the District Commissioners in filling new and old posts have drawn the men from those simultaneously receiving emolument from the Federal Government, and who will then be recipients of two Government salaries.

"Whereas the Commissioners have further selected an engineer from another city to fill a new position in the engineer department, and such procedure seems to be in contravention of good public policy from an economic standpoint as well as out of respect to the engineer and other technical talent resident in Washington, and the method used by the Commissioners increases unemployment."

MRS. DU PUY SAVED FROM DEATH BY GAS

Mrs. Ada Lee Du Puy, 50 years old, well-known magazine writer, was found unconscious on the kitchen floor of her home, 1869 Mintwood place northwest, yesterday morning by her husband, with gas flowing from unlighted burners on the stove.

Her husband, William Atherton Du Puy, executive assistant to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, summoned the fire rescue squad and the family doctor. She was revived by the squad and the physician pronounced her condition as not serious, and she remained at home for further treatment.

The tragic death of her daughter, Jacqueline, 19 years old, who succumbed to a heart attack three days before last Christmas, caused Mrs. Du Puy to suffer a nervous breakdown, from which she has has never fully recovered.

Miss Du Puy suffered the heart attack shortly after having breakfast with her parents. She had been active in the social affairs of the younger set and was often a familiar figure at the affairs of the League of American Pen Women, of which her mother was an active member.

Marathon and Mapes Bill Scored by Citizens

The Marathon dance which ended recently at the Washington Auditorium was denounced in a resolution adopted last night by the Washington Highlands Citizens Association as "inhuman." The resolution also declared that the dance took several thousand dollars from Washington which might have been applied to some worthy cause.

The association also adopted a resolution expressing general disapproval of the Mapes bill, and another which approved the provisions of the Capper bill providing for regulation of the sale and possession of firearms in the District of Columbia.

Vanderbilt, Jr., Returns To Get His Lost Dog

The dog, valued at $10,000, disappeared from Mr. Vanderbilt's car, together with two valuable overcoats. The dog was found by a resident of Temple Heights, who notified the Mayflower Hotel.

2 Gem Thefts Net $600; Robberies Week Apart

Two thefts, a week apart, at 1751 New Hampshire avenue northwest, with a total value of $600, were reported to police yesterday.

Mrs. Florence B. Mills was robbed on January 25, of two rings valued at $400, and Miss Penelope Tarwater had stolen yesterday her handbag containing jewelry valued at $200.

Senate Gets Plumbers' Fee Bill.

The District Commissioners' bill to impose annual fees, ranging from $25 to $50, on master plumbers and pipe fitters in the District was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas. A similar bill recently was introduced in the House.

DISTRICT BILLS FACE ACTION DURING WEEK

Gambling Law Reforms and Credit Union Legislation Included on Slate.

District problems, from gambling law reforms to proposed credit union legislation, will be aired from any angles on Capitol Hill this week, with House and Senate District committees meeting every day except Saturday.

Tomorrow morning three bills will be favorably reported to the House District committee by its judiciary subcommittee — measures protecting union labels, extending the Commissioners' power in condemnation proceedings and giving police and fire trial boards the right to compel attendance of witnesses.

Tomorrow afternoon Senator Robert D. Carey's police and fire subcommittee of the Senate District committee will pass on bills to stiffen gaming penalties here. Bills extending death benefits to families of policemen and firemen, and increasing annual leave in Police and Fire Departments, also will be taken up.

Senator Otis F. Glenn's streets and avenues subcommittee will hold its first meeting Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and the following day the full Senate District committee will resume consideration of Senator Arthur Capper's bill to incorporate credit unions in the District. A favorable report is anticipated.

Two bills, already favorably voted on by the Senate committee, were reported to the Senate yesterday by Senator Capper. They would authorize Federal and District governments to transfer jurisdiction of land for administrative purposes, and would authorize the Commissioners to settle claims up to $500.

Indian Overtakes Zoo Deer in Chase

Swift Eagle Brings Back Prey, But Overexertion Causes Its Death.

It takes something faster than a deer to outrun Swift Eagle, a full-blood Indian, of 1430 Swann street northwest.

Mr. Eagle—if that is the correct way to address an Indian—was on his way to work early yesterday, and as he neared the south end of Taft Bridge was surprised to see a deer running at top speed across the span. Swift Eagle gave chase.

A short spurt across a straightaway, and the animal was overtaken. It was found the deer had escaped from National Zoological Park. A taxicab was hailed and the frightened animal was returned to its cage. But, because of long confinement, the deer's exertion was too much. It died a short time later.

Bicyclist, 20, Injured When Struck by Truck

McKenney was hit by a truck operated by Robert Joyce, colored, 21 years old, of 716 Lamont street northwest, according to police, as Joyce was turning into a filling station. The bicyclist was given first aid treatment by Dr. J. A. O'Keefe, of 4501 Thirteenth street northwest, and removed to Emergency Hospital, where he was admitted.

UTILITY BOARD SAYS IT WILL NOT CHANGE TAXI METER ORDER

REFORM IS SUGGESTED BY CHAMBER'S GROUP

Would Force Careless Drivers to Take Out Accident Insurance.

While the Public Utilities Commission yesterday was filing a memorandum in District Supreme Court, serving notice that it would not alter, modify or rescind the order requiring taxicabs to have meters, the transportation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce was setting forth five recommendations in the cab situation.

The Public Utilities Commission filed its memorandum after study of additional testimony in appeals of the Bell and City Cab companies taken before Justice Jesse C. Adkins last November.

The next brief to be filed in the case will be by William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, in defense of the order issued by the Utilities Commission. Jutice Adkins will probably render a decision in the case after this brief is filed.

Effective Date Deferred.

The taxicab meter order, when first issued, was to have gone into effect January 10. After the appeal was made by the two taxicab companies the commission made a ruling that the meter order would not become effective until 60 days after Justice Adkins' decision, provided his decision was favorable to the commission.

Peoples Counsel Richmond B. Keech last week filed a memorandum in District Supreme Court, attacking the validity of the meter order on the ground that the Commission had no authority to act.

In addition to its recommendations in the taxicab situation, the transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce, went on record as favoring the pending bill to force careless drivers to take out accident insurance. The committee's proposals will go to the executive board of the chamber tonight for ratification.

Committee's Suggestions.

The committee believes that taxis should have a means of measuring the length of their runs, and that the cost of service should bear some definite relation to the cost of operation. They also favor closer inspection of brakes and headlights and believe that taxicab companies should be able to protect their distinctive designs and color schemes from competitors. They also think the Public Utilities Commission should have power to issue certificates of convenience and necessity, to be able to refuse to license additional cabs unless need for them is shown.

Some time ago the chamber indorsed a plan to make accident insurance compulsory for all drivers. It now favors the alternate plan, pending in Congress, to provide that this insurance must only be taken out by persons who have had an accident.

Forest Hills Group Backs 60-40 Basis

Findings of the Citizens' joint committee on fiscal relations between the Federal Government and the District were approved last night in a resolution adopted by the Forest Hills Citizens Association, which met at the Ben W. Murch School.

This was a complete indorsement of the joint committee's stand on the 60-40 ratio of appropriations and on the four Mapes bills. In a further resolution the group recommended the establishment by Congress of a paid guide service at the Capitol.

The body moved to aid in establishing a garden at the Murch School ground. Five persons, Col. John V. Richards, John S. Safer, Charles J. Rohland, M. A. Cole and D. C. Crain, were voted to membership.

Dr. Simon to Address Round Table Tonight

Dr. Abram Simon, rabbi of the Washington Hebrew congregation and president of the Board of Education, will be guest speaker of the Round Table tonight at 8:45 o'clock. "Jewish Pioneers of America," by Anita Libman Lebeson, will be reviewed by Dr. Simon and discussed in open forum thereafter.

The meeting is to be held at the Jewish Community Center, Sixteenth and Q streets northwest.

22 Degrees Registered As Low for Winter Here

The coldest tempearture of the season was recorded here yesterday. It was 22 degrees at 7 a. m., two degrees under the low mark of December 8. Warmer weather, however, is on the way, the Weather Bureau reported.

The forecast for today is cloudy and warmer, with rain in the late afternoon or night. Wednesday will also bring rain and warmer temperature. Skating enthusiasts took heart at the sudden cold wave and had visions of rare winter sports on the Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool. They were disappointed, however, for no ice appeared on the pool.

50 Syracuse University Graduates Hold Banquet

Recent developments at Syracuse University were discussed last night by Dr. Burgess Johnson, director of public relations there, before alumni who gathered at a banquet in his honor at the Cairo Hotel.

More than 50 graduates attended the dinner, which was arranged by H. W. Lady. Ernest Bryan, George Kern, and Miss Carlotta Veitenheimer. W. A. Erskine, president of the body, presided.

How Parking Space Fades Soon Proved by Pedometer

There's room aplenty in downtown streets to park your car, but try and find it when you are driving.

Equipped with a speedometer, a Post reporter paced off the curb space of four city squares in the business area, which registered one and one-quarter miles, and then deducted all of the space taken up by hacking stands, sight-seeing buses, street car stops, fire plugs, alley entrances, driveways and building entrances.

Out of this distance, there is slightly more than one-quarter mile of space available to park cars, according to the speedometer register, and, if the regulation requiring a 3-foot distance between parked cars is considered, there will be a corresponding reduction in the parking capacity. The space seems to be there, but restrictions reduce the facilities to one-fifth of the space.

The incentive for the walking assignment was a yell from a blue-coated bystander addressed to the editor as he was about to ease a car into one of the wide-open spaces of the street that are devoted to legends, such as, "No parking—a sight-seeing stand." The only way to ease his conscience was to have somebody walk it off. Thus history is made.
